BALL CARRIER Mike Streeter (20) traveled wide around Petoskey's defenses before he was brought down by Northman Roger Seamon.

RAYDER MIKE Streeter (20) sidesteps pileup during march to end zone in Friday's Homecoming game with Petoskey. The Northmen managed to squeak past the Rayders 14 to 13.

Northmen Squeak Past Rayders at Homecoming

The Red Rayders played one of their best games of the season Friday against the Petoskey Northmen - but lost by one point. The final tally was 14-13.

The Homecoming game was witnessed by one of the largest crowds ever to attend a football game at Kipke Field. The stands on both sides of the field were filled and the playing field was lined with spectators three or four deep.

For the season, Charlevoix has won one, lost two and tied one.

In other Michigan-Huron Shores action, St. Ignace defeated Gaylord 40-0; Cheboygan blanked Rogers City, 24-0; and Boyne City whipped Grayling, 40-6.

Charlevoix scored in the first period after Randy Woods intercepted a pass by Petoskey's Mike Davies and returned it to Petoskey's 49 yard line.

The Rayders worked the ball to the five yard line in 11 plays before Quarterback Mike Streeter carried it over for the TD. Randy Faust kicked the conversion.

The Northmen came back to score in the second period, moving 49 yards in eight plays. Mark Foltz racked up 24 yards, with Dove Stein credited with the TD on a three-yard plunge. Stein made the two-point conversion, giving PHS a one-point edge.

However, the Rayders were determined to move ahead by the half. Steve McClellan carried a 10-yard pass from Streeter, taking ball across for another TD. The conversion was lost but the Rayders led, 13-8.

The lead was short-lived, however. On the first play after half-time, Northman Kim Eaton recovered a Charlevoix fumble on the Rayder 37. In six plays they moved the ball to the three where Davies took it across, for the final tally of the game.

Hot Dog Case Example Of Federal Interference

Too many cooks spoil the broth and too much government, particularly in the kitchen, threatens to destroy the appeal of the hot dog, among Michigan gourmands.

The Sixth U.S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati last week reversed a U.S. District Court decision which upheld a 20-year-old Michigan law setting minimum protein limits for hot dogs and sausages and banning such ingredients as lungs, hearts, snouts and other organ meats.

The whole business is a blatant example of federal government interference in an area which should be the province of the state.

Needless to say, the Michigan law didn't make life any easier - or more profitable - for the meat packers, but it resulted in nutritious, taste-tempting hot dogs and sausage products. The very thought of eating animal snouts and innards is enough to turn off many consumers, even those not known for their finicky appetites.

The Michigan law was much tighter than a similar federal statute which sets no protein limits and permits the use of snouts and organ meats in hot dogs and sausage.

So two years ago, three of the nation's largest meat packers - Armour & Co., Wilson & Co. and George A. Hormel & Co. - ganged up on Michigan. They sued the State Department of Agriculture in U.S. District Court in Grand Rapids to prevent enforcement of the Michigan law.

Judge Noel Fox ruled in favor of the Department of Agriculture, saying that the sole reason the three packing companies wanted to avoid "the admittedly higher standards of the Michigan Act" was the "maximization of corporate profits."

The meat packers then took their case to the U.S. Court of Appeals which sent the case back to Judge Fox, saying he erred in his decision.

B. Dale Hall, director of the state Agriculture Department, said the decision marked "a sad day for consumers," but he vowed to continue the fight.

He said his department and the Michigan attorney general's office are appealing the decision to the Supreme Court. He also indicated that Michigan officials will try to get Congress to raise federal standards or urge the Secretary of Agriculture to raise the standards by regulation.

Another course, he suggested, would be for consumers not to eat ground meat products that come into the state.

"That's my own preference," he said. Packers could sell meat meeting the lower federal standards in Michigan after Nov. 3, unless the appeals court declares its order is stayed pending Supreme Court action. We have always labored under the assumption that when laws of one governing unit are in conflict with the laws of another governing unit in a given area, the stricter of the two laws should apply.

This apparently is no longer the case, judging from the high-handed decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals in the hot dog litigation.

Although we can scarcely concur with Mr. Ball on his proposed boycott of out-of-state ground meat products, we wish him well on his appeal to the Supreme Court and his efforts to tighten up the federal statute to meet Michigan's minimum requirements.

National Geographic Feature

Mix Iron Oxide, Milk; Presto! A Yankee Barn

On the horizon of America, the big red barn is going the way of the little red schoolhouse.

Farmers don't need them any more. They are wanted only by real estate salesmen and by architects with an eye for imaginative-if costly-remodeling into spacious houses with old wood beams.

Once a barn raising was an American exercise in ultimate neighborliness. Farmers for miles around gathered to help, hammer, and manhandle the hefty beams into place so that the frame of a barn would be standing by sundown.

Today's barns-or what passes for them-go up just as quickly. But hired building contractors arrive with trucks of sheet metal and steel girders, welding rigs, cement mixers, and power hoists; the National Geographic Society says.

HAYBURNERS' LANDERS Hay is what made yesterday's barns big as a barn. Every farm needed a lofty, dry space to store the huge loose quantities of fuel for milch cows and hayburners.

Now horses have all but vanished down on the farm, and old bossy and the rest of the herd have been replaced by dairies selling milk to farmers grateful to escape the tyranny of twice-daily milkings.

The dairyman uses open-sided storage sheds, which hold two-thirds more than barns because the hay is neatly compressed into bales.

Cows, eight at a time, may be milked automatically by one man presiding over a small "milking parlor." Gone are the long lines of stalls, each bearing the name of its own cow.

Garage-like equipment buildings are innocent of the barn's room's length of strain-smoothed leather. Tractor gasoline all but overpowers the memory of aromatic oat bins.

OUTCASTS' NEW LIFE Near cities, weatherbeaten barns often survive as outcasts and subdivision dream houses. In the country, they try for new lives as antique warehouses, summer theaters or ski lodges.

But barns have long outlived the amazing craftsmen who occasionally met the fate carved on an 1801 tombstone.

"Killed at noon on the fourth of November. In raising his barn he was hit by a timber."

The old-time barn builder cut his lumber from trees on his own farm, often with tools he forged himself, erecting barns with lines and proportions admired and copied by designers through the years.

Farmers followed old almanacs' advice to "slope your barn against northern blasts" to allow heat-insulating snow to pile up. Near the peak of the roof, they added louvered openings or "wind-eyes" today's windows-to cope with summer's heat.

For many, the time to shingle a roof was in the dark of the moon to avoid warping; a hundred years after, many roofs laid on "shingle" rights" are still unwarped and waterproof.

The seasons' weathered look was stamped until the late 1700's when a Yankee farmer stirred up red oxide of iron, lime, and skin milk and painted the world's first red barn.

We just want you, and the rest of the people in your beautiful city, to know that we think there's no place in the world like Charlevoix!

We certainly appreciate the fine courtesy offered in regard to the Municipal Golf Course. Even though the clubhouse is closed the first of October, the flags are left on the courses and the grass is cut, and we can enjoy our favorite sport free of charge! The Safety Valve

QUESTION: Does a motorcycle have to have a front wheel broke? S.T.D., Brown City

ANSWER: Yes. "Every motorcycle or motor driven cycle, when operated upon a highway shall be equipped with at least two brakes, one on the front wheel and one on the rear wheel, which may be operated by hand or foot."

QUESTION: Board of water and light trucks travel on the expressway about 25 mph. Is this legal for them to go so slow? J.L.S. Lansing

ANSWER: Notwithstanding the provisions of section 628 (of the Michigan Vehicle Code), on all freeways the minimum speed limit shall be 45 miles per hour except when reduced speed is necessary for safe operation or in compliance with law or in compliance with special permit issued by appropriate authority.

QUESTION: Can a driver be ticketed for drinking anything other than an alcoholic beverage while driving a car? J.J., Grand Ledge

ANSWER: The law states "...no alcoholic liquor shall be consumed on the public highways..." - that would apply to drivers and passengers alike. If in the process of consuming any beverage the driver loses control of his car and does commit a traffic violation, then the charge would be for the violation which ensued.

QUESTION: Is it legal for trucks to travel two or three abreast? That situation really does present a traffic hazard. K.A.E., Wayne

ANSWER: Upon all roadways of sufficient width a vehicle shall be driven upon the right half of the roadway, except as follows:

(1) When overtaking and passing another vehicle proceeding in the same direction under the rules governing such movement.

(2) When the right half of a roadway is closed to traffic while under construction or repair or when an obstruction exists making it necessary to drive to the left of the center of the highway.

(3) Upon a roadway divided into three marked lanes for traffic under the rules applicable thereon.

Except when lawfully permitted to drive on the left half of the roadway as provided in other paragraphs, upon a roadway two or more lanes for travel in one direction a vehicle shall be driven in the extreme right hand lane available for travel; except that a vehicle may be driven in any lane lawfully available to traffic moving in the same direction of travel when the lanes are occupied by vehicles moving in substantially continuous lanes of traffic or for a reasonable distance prior to making a left turn.

Clockwise Madam President

By BOB CLOCK

They say it's rough being the father of the bride, but from here it looks like kid stuff compared to being the father of the president.

As of Friday, Clockwise has had a bonafide elected official as a member of the household. That was the day eight-year-old Katie was chosen president of Miss Linda Christensen's Third Grade room at Charlevoix Elementary School. As a Republican, no less.

And let me tell you this past week of campaigning hasn't been easy on any of us. Katie has monopolized our dinner table conversation with the in's and out's of her political career ever since she won the GOP nomination early last week.

The names of the other candidates have become household words. First there is Jim Genia, who ran for vice president on the Republican ticket. Opposing Katie and Jim, were Democratic presidential candidate, Randy Schnackenberg, and his running mate, Joe Smith.

Katie spent every night last week working on campaign posters, drafting campaign speeches and hand-lettering campaign buttons. The buttons were made of stick-on paper and carried such catchy slogans as "You Can't Beat the Clock," and "It's time to Elect Katie."

My favorite poster read "Vote for Kate the Great and Jim the Genius." In between times, she was busy planning her costume.

In between times, she was busy planning her costume for Friday's "My Favorite Historical Character" parade, which coincided fortunately or unfortunately with the election week. Katie managed to combine both units by studying up on Delia Madison, certainly one of the nation's foremost stuff political figures in the days before Women's Lib.

It sort of bothered me to have Katie running as a Republican and at the same time posing as the wife of a Democratic president, James Madison. However, Katie informed that in Madison's day, the party was called the Democratic-Republican Party and that the word Republican wasn't dropped until some time later. She assured me everything was on the up-and-up.

The things they don't learn in Third Grade nowadays.

Friday after school we got the results of the election. The office had run off ballots, Katie said, but if they had to be thrown out because they were marked improperly. The rest were counted and she emerged the victor.

That night she got to sit at the head of the table and had whatever she wanted for dinner, which turned out to be that old American favorite, Spanish rice.

After supper, we learned that Third Grade elections can take strange turns. It seems that Friday was the last day in school for Katie's running mate, Jim Genia. He had been staying in Charlevoix with his grandparents while his mom was in the hospital in Ann Arbor.

"So we all decided that, Randy, the Democratic candidate, will serve as vice president," Katie explained.

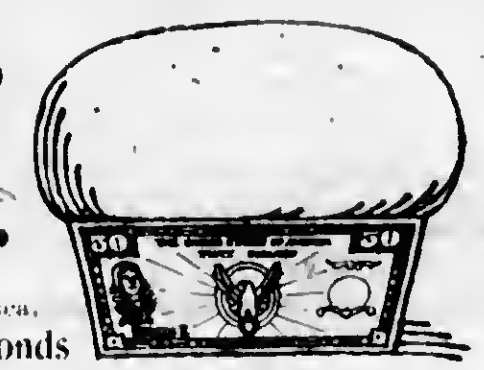

Hmmmm. I wonder how Sen. McGovern would like serving as Nixon's vice president, or vice versa? As someone who has never been elected president of anything, I am quite impressed by Katie's victory at the polls.

"What's it like to be a president?" I asked her as she was getting ready for bed. "Oh, it's all right," she said wearily, the weight of public trust already stooping her little shoulders. "There's just one thing I don't like about it."

"What's that?" "I wish you'd stop calling me Madam President," she said "My name is Katie."

Griffin's Desk Gets My Vote

A McGOVERN commercial tops the "most revolting" category.

It's that one filmed in a veterans' hospital, where George mouths the usual bla-bla generalities about what he's going to do for "our boys." He sounds off later the camera has looked long and hard at a young paraplegic who tells how the country "he was maimed for has failed him so miserably. It's enough to make viewers weep-and that's what bugs me."

God knows the veteran is telling the terrible truth. And God knows the Vietnam war is an immoral blunder that should have kept all of us awake every night for the past eight years.

But, God also knows George McGovern and his slick advertising agency are using that crippled veteran to get votes. That boy has been used enough. If McGovern wants to visit wounded soldiers, fine for him. But I resent him taking his cameramen along, and then using the films of a young man's misery for huckstering, the same way General Foods uses healthy young men to sell Wheaties.

I weep for the young man and I weep that his unfortunate condition should be used like a bumper sticker. McGovern should be ashamed.

RICHARD NIXON must be credited with the most confusing commercial. It stars a lot of toy soldiers, sailors and battlefields. A hand comes out of nowhere and wipes out half of the soldiers, most of the sailors and a lot of the battlefields.

The background voice says this is what a cut in the defense budget would mean. And I'm saying yeah, man, yeah. Wipe away some more. How about skidding the Pentagon in half, too? That's what this country needs - less bullets and less fat-headed generals who send boys to die and then return to become president of the factories where they bought the bullets.

But then the TV voice says it is wrong to wipe out those toy soldiers and ships. That's what dumb McGovern would do, but not smart Nixon. So vote for Nixon, the man says, he'll keep this country strong.

Gee...if I'd tuned out that commercial before the end, the prez might have had my vote. But, as it is...

I wonder if Griffin's desk would like to run for president? Joshua Deore could do the TV commercials.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

With the help of his one-eyed mongrel Pete, Uncle Charlie was able to provide his firewood with a minimum of effort on his part. First he taught Pete not to bark any warning, a role which the dog enjoyed considerably once he learned the purpose involved and the results achieved.

A road turned invitingly into the woods just inside Uncle Charlie's gate and wily old Charlie welcomed trespassers. In the afternoon and evening Pete checked the line hourly. When he found a car parked in shady privacy he communicated to his master that a couple high school students were reviewing their math.

Uncle Charlie would shoulder his axe and crosscut saw after putting two thick beef sandwiches and a quart of milk in a sack. Choosing a beech or maple tree two feet or more in diameter, he would fell it diagonally across the road with the maximum amount of trunk lying in the right of way. He would leave the tools and lunch conveniently at hand and proceed about other chores in which volunteer labor was not involved.

Being a true gentleman Charlie provided only one handle for the crosscut lest some uncharitable lad entertain the thought of sharing his labor with the diabolical sex. Sawing the tree into manageable lengths was somewhat time consuming and the lunch was much appreciated even though not eaten in a picnic frame of mind.

Through the years Charlie extended the road in a curving arc, like a well planned subdivision, and the local citizens of an amorous nature continued to log it for him.

One might wonder why this impeded labor policy continued after a few had paid the penalty for privacy. It was an unwritten pact between the village of Uncle Charlie and Ollie Pete. It is quite possible that some high standing community members contributed a share of Charlie's heating costs. In school we could always spot the latest victim by simple deduction. The young man had blisters, the girl developed sniffles, and they abruptly quit speaking to each other.

Soup Do Nuts Challenging Their Patience

BOB NOWAKOWSKI of the Capri Motel ran across the following story about the Medusa Challenger the other day in the Chicago Tribune. It was written by staffer Robert Nolle:

"Bad Luck Medusa struck again yesterday. That notorious junk ship steamed under the Michigan Avenue Bridge and, true to its reputation, left hundreds of irate motorists in her wake. 'This time, the bridge tenders' nemesis snarled traffic for more than 30 minutes when it cast a hex on machinery in the Michigan Avenue Bridge.

"The 526-foot Medusa Challenger was long gone when workmen figured out the problem. After the bridge has been stuck long enough to irritate even the most placid motorist, workmen finally found a blown electrical fuse and replaced it.

"Meanwhile, several hundred pedestrians stamped their feet in the snow and hurled curses at the ship. Traffic bogged down when motorists made illegal U-turns to escape the jams at Michigan and Wacker Drive.

"Several motorists recognized the bad-luck boat and made U-turns even before the bridge broke down. 'There's going to be trouble,' said a knowing taxi driver. 'The Medusa is back!'

"The Medusa's last joust with Chicago traffic was in April, 1971, when the ship paused for 10 minutes under the Wabash Avenue bridge amidst shaking fists and honking horns.

"We can't understand what goes wrong in Chicago. The Challenger is always a model citizen when she travels in Charlevoix waters. Of course, she is a mile long to negotiate the dog-leg in Pine River Channel...

Studs OK

STUDDERED snow tires will be legal on Michigan roads this winter, but they'll probably be outlawed for good after April 30. Both the Senate and House have passed bills banning studded tires because the cause serious highway pavement damage and the bills presently are in a joint conference committee. The House bill excludes the Upper Peninsula while the Senate bill makes the ban statewide. Currently 45 states and the District of Columbia permit studded tires. They are illegal in Minnesota, Louisiana, Mississippi, Utah and Hawaii.

No Pets

THE BOARD of Regents at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti has banned "dogs, cats or other animals and reptiles" from the campus. Rene Hauser, assistant vice president for business and finance, says pets, particularly dogs, create litter on lawns and in buildings and have physically damaged some rooms.

Leukemia Unit Formed

An organizational meeting of a chapter of the Leukemia Foundation in northern Michigan has been called for Nov. 3 at 8 p.m. at the Northern Michigan Electric Building on Division St. in Boyne City.

Mrs. Kenneth Oakes, one of the sponsors, says that persons interested in learning more about serious blood diseases are urged to attend.

AMONG exhibitors at the Friends of the Library open house last Monday night were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Young. Mrs. Young is pointing to a picture of one of Earl's dogs painted in 1908 when both were students at Charlevoix High School. Young is holding picture of his poodle Pamper which Mrs. Young completed shortly before the open house. The Youngs were married in Charlevoix 57 years ago.

You Can Have Your Say On Condominiums Dec. 4

The City Council Monday night set Dec. 4 as the date for a public hearing on a proposed zoning ordinance, a master plan for the city drawn up by Williams and Works and a city zoning map.

The zoning ordinance incorporates changes recommended by a citizens' committee headed by Tom Duke relative to multiple-family dwellings.

For the past year the council has wrestled with problems stemming from proposed condominium projects on the south shore of Round Lake.

The ordinance sets limits on population density, spells out height limitations and sets parking requirements.

Alderman Robert Gill voted against the early hearing date, insisting it won't give the council time to review the ordinance and make changes.

Alderman Sam Supernaw, who moved that the hearing date be set, believes the city must move quickly in order to regulate the condominium developers.

In other business the council: Learned that the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has earmarked $15,000 for construction of four tennis courts in the city. Announcement of the grant was made personally at the meeting by Cong. Philip Ruppe. The city's share of the project will be $5,000 and the state's share $5,000. Hodgkiss and Douma, low bidder at $26,777, already has moved onto the site at corner of Elm and Center-sts.

The barge is owned by the Penn-Dixie Cement Co.

CHARLEVOIX city voters will decide Nov. 7 whether they want to sell the Bellaire Hydro Plant which has supplied the city with electricity since 1918. The plant and dam have fallen into a bad state of repair and renovation will be costly. For detailed story on the issue, please turn to Page 5.

Faculty, Board OK Two-Year Contract

A two-year master contract for teachers in the Charlevoix public schools was ratified by the Charlevoix Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

Earlier in the day, the Charlevoix Education Association headed by Bruce Morgan, approved the contract after nearly eight months of negotiating, including several meetings with state mediator Robert Romblous.

The 1972-73 contract represents an increase ranging from two to four percent over the 1971-72 contract with the 1973-74 contract representing a four percent increase at the base and smaller increases toward the top of the scale.

The salary schedule for the current school year will begin at $7,982 for a first year teacher with a B.A. degree to $11,726 in ten steps; a teacher with a B.A. degree plus 20 hours will receive $8,320 at the first step to $12,428 in 11 steps.

In the M.A. bracket, the schedule will range from $8,506 at the first step to $13,130 in 11 steps while anyone with an M.A. degree will receive $9,776 at the third step and continue to $13,416 at the eleventh step.

The schedule for those who are Education specialists will range from $11,362 at the sixth step to $13,676 at the eleventh step and those with Ph. D's will receive $11,596 at the sixth step and $13,832 at the top or eleventh step.

The salary schedule is retroactive to Aug. 30, 1972. The following year, 1973-74, the schedule for those with B.A. degrees will begin at $8,294 and increase to $12,142 in 10 steps.

The schedule for those with M.A. degrees will begin at $9,244 and increase to $13,546 in 11 steps.

The schedule for teachers performing duties will be determined by percentages based upon the number of years of coaching experience in the sport and to be applied to that level of the B.A. track.

Club and class sponsors will be paid a given sum. For instance, the Home Economics sponsor, other club sponsors and yearbook sponsors will receive $250; newspaper sponsor, $200; Dramatics and forensics, marching and concert bands, $500; senior class sponsor (2), $400 total; Junior class (2), $300 total; sophomore class (2), $250 total and freshman class (2), $250 total.

The section in the contract relating to illness, disability and personal business has been revised and the use of days for these purposes is spelled out.

There are also some changes in the school calendar with the ratification of the contract. For instance, Nov. 15 has been named as a deer hunting day and in 1973 there will be two such days, Nov. 15 and 16.

The calendar for the remainder of this school year follows: Nov. 23 and 24, Thanksgiving vacation; Dec. 23 to Jan. 2, Christmas vacation; March 19, In-service day; April 16 to April 23, Easter vacation; May 28 Memorial Day vacation; June 7, last day of classes and June 8, teachers' last day.

One of the conditions stipulated in the new contract was the dropping of the suit for retro-active pay from Sept. 27, 1971, to Nov. 15, 1971, during the price freeze.

City to Vote on Sale of Bellaire Hydro Plant

Ancient Dam Needs Costly Refurbishing

One of the most important decisions Charlevoix voters will make in the Nov. 7 election deals not with candidates but with the proposed sale of the city-owned hydro-electric generating plant at Bellaire.

If the voters elect to keep the plant, they will be faced almost immediately with whopping repair bills for needed work on the power dam and two overflow structures.

And in the very near future, they will have to replace the entire transmission line, a project which will cost many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The question is whether the relatively low cost of power delivered to the city from Bellaire is worth the added expense. About one-twentieth of the electric power used by the city of Charlevoix in 1971 came from the Bellaire plant. The remainder was purchased from Consumers Power Co.

However, the power generated at Bellaire is about as expensive as power purchased from Consumers.

City officials point out that it will take many years of operation to even reach the break-even point on the repairs, and the city will still be stuck with a power generating facility so old that its origins have been obscured by the dust of antiquity.

Last year the state Bureau of Water Management asked the city to conduct an engineering study on the condition of the Bellaire dam and overflow structures, which were rapidly falling into disrepair. The R. S. Scott Engineering Co., Inc., of Alpena, was contracted to do the work.

The engineers were unable to pin down the exact year the dam was constructed. However, city records show that Charlevoix purchased the dam and generating plant on May 1, 1918, from the Hydraulic Power and Light Co. at a cost of $35,000. That also was the year the first of the present generators and turbines was installed.

On Oct. 8, 1918, a new water wheel was purchased at a cost of $10,000.

In 1957-58, the west and south walls of the power dam were replaced at a cost of $11,400, the only major expense in recent years.

The dam property includes a large rectangle of land in the village of Bellaire, with 122.85 feet of frontage on Bellaire's Bridge Street. The land extends east along the Intermediate River for 462 feet on the south and 530 feet on the north. At the eastern end the property widens to 162 feet.

The tract embraces most of the mill pond, the power dam with a 15-foot fall and two overflow dams.

The generating plant fronts Bridge Street, and is 84 feet long by 30 feet wide. The south 30 feet of the building houses the two generators and turbines. The north end of the building consists of a two-story building that at one time was used as living quarters. The the adjoining concrete. The other overflow dam is in even worse condition. Water pours through holes in the wall, fill has washed out on the east side and there is a large hole under the structure on the west side. The spillway is undermined and is in danger of washing out during the next period of high water.

The Scott Co. estimates the cost of repairs to the power dam at between $40,000 and $50,000 and to the overflow structures at between $30,000 and $40,000. But city officials point out that these costs would be in addition to the cost of replacing 30 miles of transmission line between Bellaire and Charlevoix.

Scott says the city has three alternatives in dealing with the Bellaire dam.

First, the city can do nothing, which Scott calls a "dangerous solution."

"It is possible that this dam can wash out causing severe damage downstream from the dam. If no repairs are made it is possible this dam will wash out in the next several years. Secondly, the city can make the recommended repairs. This is expensive. If the work is done, the City of Charlevoix will still have a very old dam. Maintenance cost will continue on the dam, on the building, on the generator and turbine and on the 30-mile transmission lines between Bellaire and Charlevoix."

Thirdly, the city could remove the overflow structures, lowering the water in the pond 15 feet, returning the Intermediate River to its original channel and putting the city out of the power generating business.

"This, of course, will destroy the pond and might cause a lower lake level on Intermediate Lake. The power dam would remain, unless it is torn down," Scott says.

pointing out that the third alternative is the cheapest, safest and quickest.

"However, there are bound to be public complaints," the engineering report notes.

"From a safety and liability standpoint, we believe the City of Charlevoix has two choices. (1) Repair the dam to prevent a very possible washout (2) remove the overflow structures, thereby removing the 5-foot head of water and the danger. One of these two options should be done as soon as possible, certainly during 1972," the engineers says.

They note that if the city decides to remove the overflow structures and the property owners around the pond object, it is possible to set up a special assessment district, set a legal lake level, build a new dam or repair the old dam and have the property owners who benefit pay for it under the Michigan Inland

Charlevoix Lake Trout To Supply Hatchery Eggs

Lake trout collected by the Department of Natural Resources at Leland Harbor and off the Lake Michigan shore at Charlevoix this year will help maintain Michigan's lake trout stocking program.

In the past, all eggs used in this program have come from brood stock at the Department's hatchery at Marquette. But disease hit lake trout at the hatchery this year, and Department fisheries biologists fear the brood stock will not be able to supply the quota of eggs.

So DNR crews will attempt to supplement the supply of eggs by collection trout at Leland and Charlevoix, starting this week and probably continuing through the second week in November.

Jerry V. Manz, Roscomon, Regional Great Lakes Fisheries Biologist for the DNR, said adult trout from which eggs have been taken will be released in the Great Lakes.

Some of the trout will be caught in small trap nets. Others will be taken by using a shocker unit at night.

Trout taken will be transported to the Oden and Charlevoix hatcheries, where eggs will be removed. The eggs will be shipped to the Thompson hatchery in the Upper Peninsula for incubation. The young trout will then be transported to federal hatcheries at Pindilla Creek in Chippewa County and the Jordan River in Antrim County for rearing to planting size. They will be stocked in the Great Lakes as yearlings (about six inches in length).

Bob Harrison Is Assigned to Navy Cruiser

Navy Petty Officer First Class Robert M. Harrison, husband of the former Miss Rona L. Henley of 106 W. Hurbit, Charlevoix, has reported for duty aboard the nuclear-powered guided missile cruiser USS Long Beach, Calif.

He will be assigned to duties as a Machinist Mate.

Machinist Mates maintain all forms of shipboard machinery including engines, elevators, food preparation, laundry and refrigeration equipment.

A 1963 graduate of Blissfield High School, Blissfield, Mich., he attended Albion College, Albion, Mich., and joined the Navy in July, 1968.

Michigan's First Lottery Tickets Go on Sale Nov. 13

Lottery Commissioner Gus Harrison reports that tickets will go on sale for Michigan's new weekly lottery on Nov. 13, just 15 weeks after creation of the Bureau of State Lottery.

Harrison said the first preliminary drawing will be held on Friday, Nov. 24, and that subsequent drawings will be held on Thursdays. The day of the week for the first drawings was changed because Nov. 23 is Thanksgiving.

"The creation of an operational lottery in just 73 working days has involved the effort of many persons, including those within the Bureau as well as other state agencies," Harrison said.

"We have met regularly with the Governor and others from the Executive Office who have been extremely cooperative," Harrison said.

Those from the Departments of Administration, Attorney General, Civil Service, Commerce, Corrections, Highways, Secretary of State, State Police and Treasury for their assistance. There are many others, both within state government and from the private sector who have been of invaluable aid," he said.

Harrison, who was appointed by Governor Milliken to the lottery post on Aug. 1, said the exact place and time of the drawings will be announced later. All drawings will be open to the public.

"The first drawing (on Nov. 24) will determine thousands of $25 prize winners and will earn several persons a chance to participate in the following week's Super Drawing," Harrison said. "Those invited to the Super Drawing are the only winners required to be present, and we will give them a minimum of $10,000 for showing up. If Super Drawing contestants can't be present in person, they can designate someone, including the Bureau of State Lottery, to represent them."

Harrison said the major jobs to be accomplished between now and Nov. 13 are the licensing of approximately 7,000 businesses to sell tickets and finalizing arrangements with about 100 banks who will service the sales agents. The first licenses will probably be issued next week, he said, when a "36-man marketing staff takes to the field, operating from regional offices in Detroit, Kalamazoo, Saginaw, Grayling and Marquette."

At least one Charlevoix business reportedly has applied a license to sell the state lottery tickets.

The Lottery Commissioner also unveiled the design of the ticket to be used in the weekly drawing. The ticket, which sells for 50 cents, is printed on gray paper utilizing green and black ink to achieve a money-like quality. Control numbers, serial drawing date and winning numbers appear at the bottom of the ticket, while the distinctive lottery insignia - M&L - is prominently displayed in the center.

Test Results Hold Key To Many Scholarships

By SALLY PATERKA
Every year in the Charlevoix High School students have a choice of taking three tests that may or may not give scholarships.

The National Merit Test will be taken on Tuesday Oct. 24. The test is for college-bound students. You may win a scholarship, if you are in the top two percent in the nation.

To qualify to take the test you must be above average in academic subjects.

The National Educational Development Test is for all students who would like to take it. The test includes English grammar, math, social study readings, Science readings and English vocabulary. The top ten students will be awarded certificates of merit. Last year 17 certificates were awarded.

The Math Test is a state contest in which any student who is good in math may win a scholarship. This year the test was only taken by the Seniors and Juniors, but students in all grades may take it.

Guest Editorial:

'Egging' of Buses Poor Sportsmanship

By Pam Watkins
The "egging" of buses all started when Charlevoix went to Rogers City. As the spectator buses left, the football field students started throwing eggs at the buses.

Not much was said until the St. Ignace game when students started to throw eggs at CHS buses.

When Charlevoix went to Boyne City the bus drivers didn't go through town, in order to avoid being egged.

During homecoming when Petoskey was leaving Charlevoix, kids from Charlevoix threw eggs at the Petoskey buses. Too many people, this shows very poor sportsmanship no matter who does it!

Queen Elaine Carr A Busy CHS Senior

It has been a long time since her birthday on June 9, 1953, to last Friday's Homecoming Activities when Miss Elaine Carr was crowned the 1972 Homecoming Queen.

Elaine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Carr. She is five feet, seven and one-half inches tall and is involved with her senior class activities and school.

Although she has many hobbies, probably her most obvious accomplishment is being a member of the Varsity Cheerleading squad. Skiing is another of her favorite pastimes.

This year Elaine is taking creative writing, psychology, government, bank, bookkeeping, and trigonometry.

On top of this she still has time for Girls track, basketball, and Student Council secretary.

Elaine was selected by the student body out of five other girls who were on the court. The court included Janet Dawlidge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Dinwiddie; Denise Wager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Wagner; Candy Klooster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Klooster; and Lynn Ely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Ely.

Cheboygan, Boyne City, Petoskey, St. Ignace, Rogers City, Gaylord and Grayling high schools will be contacted.

With the help of the Sports Boosters our Homecoming was a great success. Everyone participated. It neither rained nor snowed, and our Rayders played a fantastic game!

Representing CHS were Dennis Crain, Chuck Faust, Jim Marshall, Gerald Russell and Jerry Sandahl. This all-day match was the final one of the season.

Hospital Gets Goldman Fund

The Lenoir Goldman Memorial Fund was donated to Charlevoix Hospital. The money, along with another $100 donated by the assisted counties, will help purchase a new operating table for the $1,100 balance of the fund.

The fund was started by the Goldman and Myer families in 1941 following the untimely death of Mrs. Lenoir Goldman, Myer at age 39. The daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alvin D. Goldman, Mrs. Myer had survived in Charlevoix since childhood and loved the people and the area.

The fund was designed to give assistance to Charlevoix area residents in time of emergencies. No hospital or medical bills were to be paid with the money and persons receiving assistance from any other source were ineligible.

Mrs. Ralph Ostling, who served as treasurer of the fund for many years, said there is no record of the number of people helped but she estimates the number in the thousands. Records show expenditures in excess of $100,000, including the cost of an ambulance for indigent children attending Charlevoix public schools and St. Mary's.

Since the upswing in the economy, Mrs. Wade said she feels the fund has served its purpose and is no longer needed. Furthermore, contributions from summer residents which kept the fund solvent in the early years, have started to diminish.

Last week, Mrs. Wade turned over a check for $1,100 to Hospital Administrator Richard Krueger toward the purchase of the new operating room table. When Myer learned that the fund in his wife's memory was being discontinued, he sent another $100, bringing the total gift to the hospital to $1,200.

Original fund trustees were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bridge, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ranger and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Meyer. When the fund was dissolved, trustees were Mrs. Ranger (now Mrs. Wade), Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neff, Mrs. Frances Miller and Mrs. Golden. Mrs. Bridge and Mr. and Mrs. Meyer continued to serve in an advisory capacity.

The new emergency room table will replace one that was moved from the old hospital to the present hospital in 1954.

Happy Shopping

THESE ARE check-signing days at the Charlevoix County State Bank and the First State Bank of Charlevoix as the two banks prepare to mail out $110,000 in Christmas Club Savings, Ingma Pontius of the County Bank (top) and Jane Wimmer of First State work on the mailing. Each bank has about $55,000 in Christmas Club accounts.

Jeans Will Jingle With Yule Savings

Charlevoix area residents will have an additional $110,000 to jingle in their pockets this Christmas, thanks to their participation in Christmas Clubs sponsored by the Charlevoix County State Bank and the First State Bank of Charlevoix.

The County Bank will have checks for $55,450 in Christmas Club savings in the mail next week to 326 members.

First State plans to mail checks totaling $55,000 this Wednesday to approximately 400 members.

Mrs. Dorothy Dixon, who handles the Christmas Club for First State, is amazed at the growth of Christmas Clubs (savings in recent years.)

In 1969, the bank distributed $15,000 in Christmas savings; in 1970, $22,000; and in 1971, $36,000. This year, $55,450 will be distributed.

The First State will begin signing up members for the 1973 Christmas Club on Friday, Nov. 3. The County Bank will start its 1973 club about Nov. 15.

Both banks provide Christmas Club members with books of coupons which are torn out as the 50 weekly payments are made.

The smallest club required a deposit of 25 cents and nets the depositor $12.50 at Christmas. Fifty cents a week results in a check for $25; $1 a week, $50; $2 a week, $100; $3 a week, $150; $5 a week, $250; and $10 a week, $500.

Medusa Corporation's 1971 total sales were $108 million, with the cement company accounting for $68 million of the total.

HOMES on the Grass River downstream from the Bellaire Hydro Electric Plant in Bellaire would be in jeopardy if the dam gives way. Engineers report the dam and two overflow structures are badly in need of repairs. The hydro-electric system is owned by the City of Charlevoix. Voters will decide Nov. 7 whether or not to sell the facility.

Chest Drive 50 Pct.

Gordon Wellman, chairman of Charlevoix's Community Chest campaign, reports that the chest is about halfway to its goal of $20,000.

Wellman says that summer resident and summer business divisions already have reported in, along with some industry.

Reports are still pending from residential, commercial, professional and outlying CCC residential divisions.

The Community Chest board hopes to wind up the drive by Nov. 14, Wellman said.

Most of the money collected in the drive will go toward the support of local health, recreation and welfare activities.

Walloon, Thunder Ski Areas Improved

Boyer Country has made major renovations at its Walloon Hills and Thunder Mountain ski areas and is making a strong bid for increased patronage by young people at the two areas.

Elementary, Junior High and High School students in Charlevoix, Emmet, Osego and Antrim counties are being offered special reduced-rate "White Season" tickets. (See advertisement elsewhere in the Courier.)

Thunder Mountain slopes have been widened and their surfaces groomed extensively throughout the past summer. A four-place chairlift will be in operation this ski season for the first time, an innovation which promises to reduce time spent waiting for lifts.

The lodge itself has undergone an extensive renovation inside and out. A 3,000-square-foot addition will provide more space for the ski shop, rental and repair area, ticket sales, dining room and lobby.

Thunder offers 13 runs, ranging from novice to expert. At Walloon Hills, a 3,500-square-foot addition has been built on the lodge, resulting in a larger main dining room, and the exterior of the building has been refurbished.

Slopes at Walloon Hills also have been regroomed and reshaped for better skiing.

At both Thunder and Walloon, snow-making equipment has been improved to insure excellent skiing throughout the entire season.

He is Wallace H. Tuttle, 29, a native of Detroit who is setting up offices in the Redicker-Elzinga Building at 710 Bridge-st.

Tuttle graduated from Dearborn High School in 1961 and received his B.A. degree from Central Michigan University in 1967.

He was graduated from the Wayne State University Law School in 1971 and passed his bar exam last March. He was admitted to the bar Aug. 11 before Circuit Judge Edward H. Fenlon in Potosky.

U-M Seeks Old Hair For Trace Metal Study

Samples of old hair from lockets, hair wreaths, and Bibles are needed for a University of Michigan study attempting to gauge the human intake of potentially harmful chemicals over the last 200 years.

This study, under the auspices of the National Science Foundation and headed by Dr. Adina Gordas of the University of Michigan Chemistry Department, is concerned with analyzing samples of both historical and present day hair because trace metals in hair can be easily detected.

Only a tiny amount of hair is needed for the study and the encasement can be opened by trained University of Michigan personnel.

Any individual who can help should contact Dr. Gordas, Department of Chemistry, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48104. Please include a description of the item.

The very least you should know about Senator Bob Griffin.

You should know who he is.

Robert P. Griffin is one of your two United States Senators. He has been for 6 years. He's running for re-election this fall.

You should know he's got muscle.

In just one term, Bob Griffin has made himself (in Newsweek's words) "... a force to be reckoned with" in the Senate. His colleagues elected him to be the Minority Whip, one of the top 4 leadership posts in the Senate. It's a position from which he can—and often does—influence Presidents.

You should know some of the things he's done for Michigan.

Bob Griffin convinced the President that the auto excise tax should be repealed. That meant thousands of jobs for Michigan.

Senator Griffin re-instated a supplemental food program for undernourished infants and pregnant mothers in Detroit's ghetto.

He blew the whistle on forced school busing, and introduced a Constitutional amendment to prohibit transportation of pupils on the basis of race, color or creed.

He's a consistent and persistent battler against pollution. ("Watchdog of the Great Lakes," he's been called.)

You should know some of the things he's done for the country.

Bob Griffin co-authored the Landrum-Griffin Act, the "bill of rights" for rank and file union members.

He's helped millions of students attend college with low-interest education loans, through his National Student Loan Program.

He's the Senator who stood up to two Presidents, to rebuild and defend the integrity of the U. S. Supreme Court.

He's fighting now for bills to protect the pensions of workers, and to provide a cost-of-living escalator clause for social security benefits.

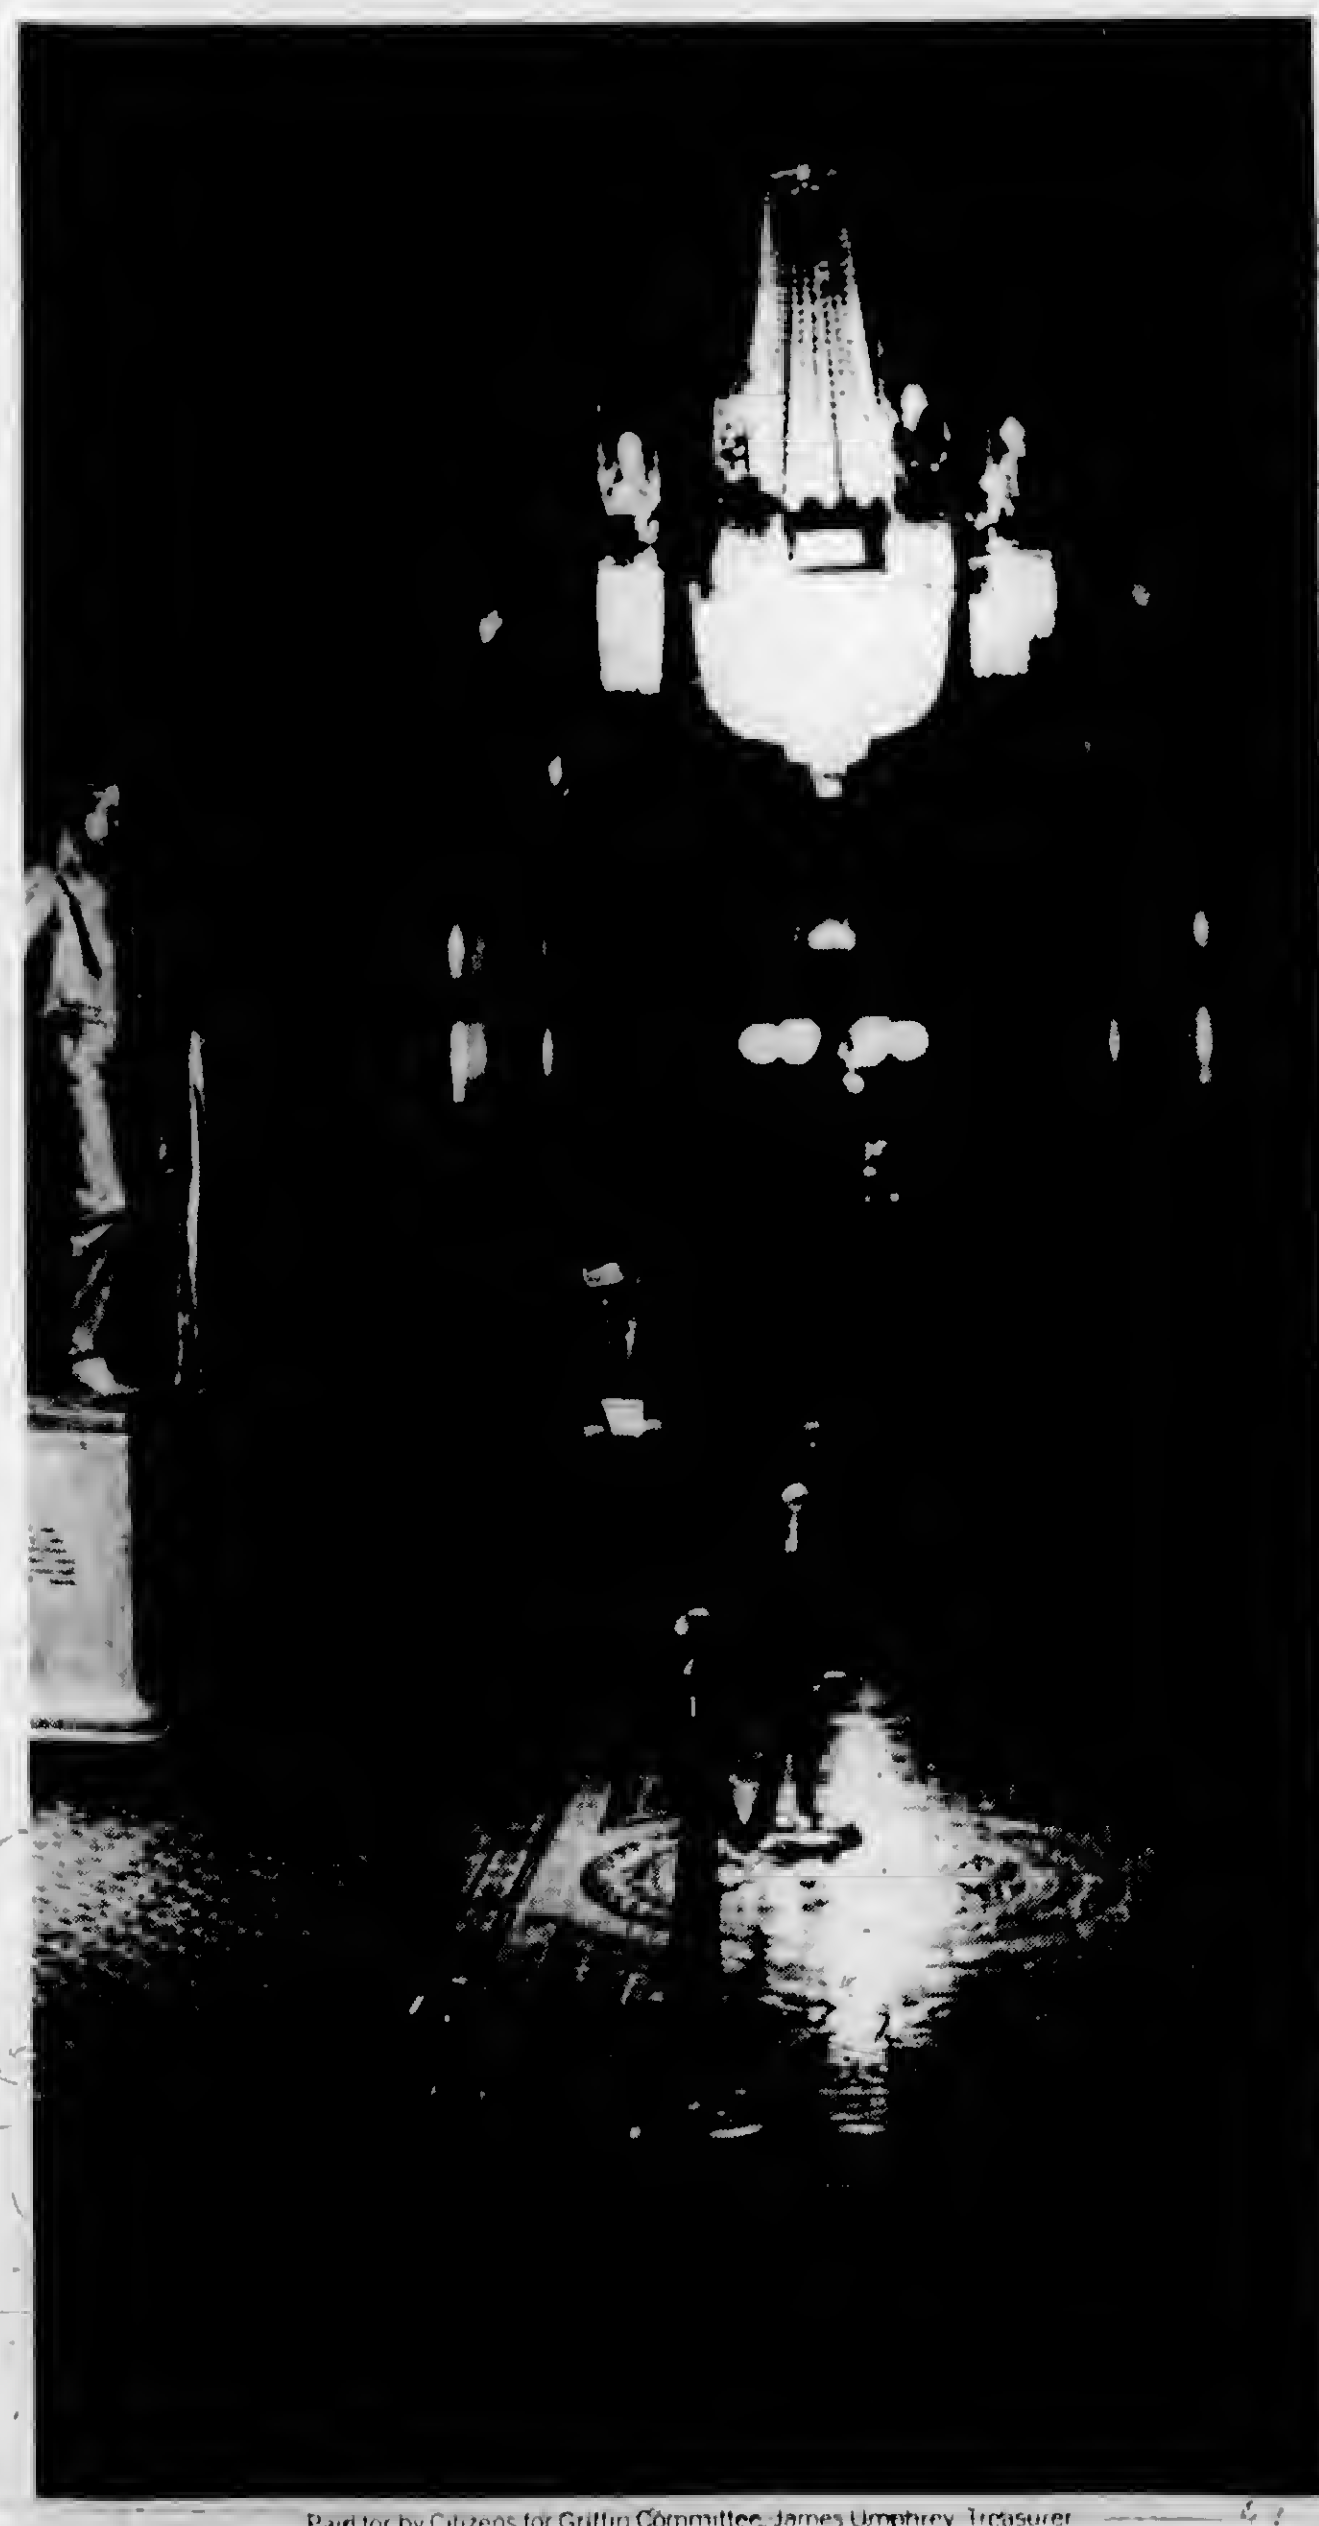

You should know what people say about him:

"... an independent Republican with a conscience but no political price tag," says the Detroit News.

"... he's proving himself a successful and tenacious David in a city of Goliaths," says the Washington Daily News.

"... he's a political moderate with a reputation for going against the establishment," says Newsday.

"... he's one of the most effective Senators in Michigan's history," says the Detroit Free Press.

District Court

Endorses Ruppe

Congressman Philip Ruppe (R-Mich.) has received the endorsement of the United Transportation Union in his bid for a 4th term as U. S. Representative from the 11th Congressional District. Ruppe has received a letter from Jim Snyder, National Legislative Director, informing him of the endorsement by the 267,342 member union.

In his letter Snyder said, "It gives me a great deal of pleasure to inform you that the U.T.U. has endorsed you for re-election from the 11th District of Michigan in the General Election of Nov. 7. Our membership in your District is being notified of this endorsement. We hope you win on Nov. 7."

In response to the endorsement, Ruppe said that he had enjoyed working with the members of the U.T.U. on issues of mutual concern involving Northern Michigan transportation problems.

liquor. He was released on personal bond. Trial will be held later.

Gerald D. Fields, 27, Petoskey, pled guilty to a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor. He was assessed $125 and his driver's license was suspended for 90 days.

Donald Schafer, 38, Charlevoix, pled guilty to a charge of impaired driving and was assessed $100. The charge was reduced from driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor by the prosecuting attorney.

Leonard Dougherty, 49, Charlevoix, pled innocent to a charge of simple larceny. Trial will be held later.

David L. Carter, 22, Flint, pled innocent to a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Bond of $100 was posted and trial will be held later.

Old World Cuisine Reigns at the Rowe Inn

Restaurant Has New Owners

By BOB CLOCK

How would you like to spend an evening abroad without even leaving northern Michigan?

That is the offer Albert (West) and Arlene Westhoven are making to area residents since they reopened the Rowe Inn on the East Jordan - Ellsworth rd. in September.

They have remodeled the tiny restaurant (seating capacity 38) into a charming old world inn specializing in European food the like of which is seldom found this side of the Atlantic.

"In the mountains, valleys and village of Europe, small family inns serve some of the world's finest dishes," the Westhovens said in advertising the opening of their restaurant this fall. "We've tried to create just such a place in Northern Michigan."

The setting of the Rowe Inn could well be an out-of-the-way niche of Europe. If you stop in during daylight hours, the view from the rear window offers a splendid panorama of the high range of hills extending eastward from Ellsworth to East Jordan. In the valley lies the headwaters of the Intermediate Chain of Lakes.

The Westhovens have managed to create an intimate, old world atmosphere inside, with small candlelit tables, classical and semi-classical music and attractive paintings, all of them executed by Arlene.

Even the restrooms are marked "Les Hommes" and "Les Femmes," carrying out the old world theme.

But the food is the cinch. At a press party last week, the Westhovens served pumpkin soup, garnished with nutmeg; miniature wedges of quiche Lorraine, served with slices of raw apple; and a superb tossed salad with platted Tokay grapes and home-made French dressing.

Entrées that evening were chicken cordon bleu (batter roasted chicken breasts with thin slices of ham and cheese) and roastbeef (thick slices of beef marinated in a mustard sauce and served with crisp fried onions).

If you ordered chicken, you also were served a baked tomato stuffed with garlic bread crumbs and a scoop of quiche Lorraine, served with Quebec Province sampling the delights of French cuisine. They also spent hours each day pouring over their vast collection of cook books.

Wes Westhoven actually was born into the restaurant business. His parents operated the restaurant at the Valleywood Golf Club in Swanton, Ohio, and Wes received his degree in Hotel Management from Michigan State University in 1966. After his father died in 1966, Wes

DNR Designates Jordan As Wild, Scenic River

The Jordan River and its tributaries received official designation as a wild scenic river system by action of the Michigan Natural Resources Commission at its October meeting.

In accordance with the State's Natural Rivers Act of 1970, the Jordan system thus comes under a management plan designed "to protect and enhance the river's unique qualities while providing quality outdoor recreation opportunities in a near-natural setting."

Headwaters of the Jordan are in Antrim County about five miles west of Elmira. From there the river meanders about 15 miles through a beautiful valley in the state-owned Jordan River State Forest and then flows northwesterly to its outlet at East Jordan on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix.

The Natural Resources Commission's action sets in motion a plan of protection based on a management zone—a strip of land 400 feet on each side of and parallel to the river and its tributaries. Approximately two-thirds of the land along the mainstem and one-third of that on the tributaries is state-owned. Privately-owned land within the management zone remains private. This includes approximately 3,700 acres in about 160 individual ownerships.

Within the management zone, protective measures will cover a variety of considerations: dredging, filling, dams, stream alterations, waste disposal, roads, signs, pipe and power lines, forest cutting, boating and canoeing, camping, oil, gas and mineral development and exploration, motorized travel, public access, fishing and hunting—all designed to protect the natural character of the river and the natural flow of its waters.

Details of the management plan for the Jordan and its tributaries were presented for discussion recently at public hearings in Charlevoix and Bellaire.

First step in implementing the plan is establishment of natural rivers zoning by local units of government in the Jordan area. Copies of the complete proposal will be sent by the Department of Natural Resources to five townships and the counties of Antrim and Charlevoix. They have one year to set up zones in accordance with the overall plan. If, by the end of the period, zoning has not been established by local action, the Department of Natural Resources will proceed in accordance with the Natural Rivers Act.

Senior Citizens Robbed Of Both Love and Hope

The great essentials of happiness are something to do, something to love and something to hope for. Yet many of our senior citizens are alienated from these three important elements of life. To help combat this unfortunate situation, about seventy representatives from 14 counties, including departments of Social Services, County commissioners and various senior citizens groups met October 11 at Kirtland Community College in Roscommon County to join resources and forces toward a common unity of purpose in the establishment of a 14 county, Northeast Michigan Regional Council on Aging. Robert Peters, Executive Director of the Northeast Michigan Community Action, Inc. was requested by the Council to take immediate steps toward incorporation. A Constitution drawn up by a steering committee (two months ago) was ratified. The next planned step is to have senior citizens organize local councils on aging. Membership on the Regional Council will include representatives from each of the 14 counties. (Alcona, Alcona, Arenac, Cheboygan, Crawford, Charlevoix, Emmet, Iosco, Montmorency, Ogemaw, Oscoda, Otsego, Presque Isle and Roscommon.) The six people chosen as incorporators for the Council are as follows: Doris Thayer, fisco, Walter McNeil, Roscommon, Earl Girard, Alpena, Andrew Harteker, Cheboygan, Hiram Rose, Ogemaw and Clyde Soper, Iosco. Those attending this meeting from Charlevoix county were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Behrens, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McGeorge and Richard Bucklin.

BALL CARRIER Mike LaFrinere of Cheboygan faces some hefty opposition as Rayder Phil Christ, a 205 pounder, moves in.

RAYDER Clint Berlage snags pass despite interference from Cheboygan's Kris Carlson.

Chiefs Scalp Rayders

Friday offered one of the finest football nights of the season, but the Red Rayders didn't quite have the spark to get moving in their top-sided match with Cheboygan. The Chiefs won, 20-0.

In other Michigan Huron Shores Conference action, Petoskey defeated Boyne City, 17-14; St. Ignace dunned Rogers City, 21-8; and Grayling—Charlevoix's next foe—pruned over Gaylord, 30-0.

Against Charlevoix, the Chiefs crammed all of their scoring into the first three periods.

In the opener, Cheboygan climaxed a drive from its own 30 with a three-yard dive by Mike LaFrinere. Bob Harper made good on the conversion, leaving the score 8-0 at the end of the first quarter.

In the second stanza, Harper scored after 3 minutes and 14 seconds from the one yard line. The conversion was lost, leaving the score at the half 14-0.

More Demand

The demand for primary minerals is expected to increase fourfold by the year 2000. The United States then will need 7.5 billion tons of iron ore, 1.5 billion tons of aluminum ore, 1 billion tons of phosphate ore, and 100 million tons of copper metal.

Laura Staublin Heads Spanish Club

By DONNA HUTCHISON
On Wednesday, Oct. 25, the Spanish Club held a regular meeting at the home of Sharon and Lori Saunders.
The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by the teacher-advisor, Miss Ryasick. The minutes of the previous meeting were read, corrections made, and treasurer's report given.
The first order of business was the election of the new president and vice-president. They are, respectively, Laura Staublin and Denise Vassaux (foreign student from Guatemala).
Under old business, more people were added to the various committees of the upcoming Taco Dinner. Plans were re-discussed about this event for the benefit of those who weren't present at the last meeting. Also, people were

The next meeting will be held at the home of Janet Begrow, 502 Michigan ave. on Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:30 p.m. and refreshments were served.

Library Notes

hopefully-been put to bed, so there is no extra time to read, not to read, and need, a good book. With this in mind, we recommend a new novel by Norah Lofts.

This fabulous author is always up to something and in "A Rose for Virtue" she bases her story on the life of Hortense de Beauharnais, step-daughter of Napoleon Bonaparte. Hortense was 13 when her widowed mother, Josephine, married Napoleon, and all the drama, romance and tragedy which swirled about that amazing and complicated man fills this story. We don't have to recommend this book. It is quite enough to say that it is now available at your library.

Bill Maudlin, America's most widely read cartoonist, has written "The Brass Ring" which he says is "a sort of a memoir". We say that it's one of the most delightfully entertaining books to come along in quite some time. This incredible young man survived a broken home, came down out of the hills at the age of 13 carrying a drawing pad. During the next wild decade he was thrown into jail at the age of 15 while riding a freight train, became a budding political cartoonist at 18, and volunteered for the Army a year and a half before Pearl Harbor.

The rest is history. He won his first Pulitzer Prize when he was 23 and went on to win another one plus a host of other professional awards. A high school drop-out, he became a skilled pilot and photographer, was awarded two honorary doctorates and an honorary Master of Arts. So much for Bill Maudlin. The book is filled with his cartoons. You will enjoy this no matter who you are.

Davis Stumps For Thompson

State Sen. Robert W. Davis (R-37th District) and two staff members from Northern Michigan will spend all day Monday in Alpena campaigning for the election of Mark Thompson of Rogers City as State Representative from the 108th District.

Senator Davis, who said it is extremely important to the 108th District to have someone as State Representative with whom he could work closely, will be accompanied by his Administrative Assistant Rod Brown of Gaylord and Secretary Cheryl Piper of Alpena.

The world changed for the better with the publication of "The Peter Principle" three years ago. Written by Dr. Peter and Raymond Hull, it is known to millions of readers in more than 15 different languages. Now we have a new book written by Dr. Peter which is much more serious, although there is enough humor for anyone, and a practical program for all who wish to avoid incompetence, find happiness, and work toward a better world. In his first book, the author told us why things go wrong, but in this new book, Dr. Peter presents proven techniques for making things go right. He provides guidelines for achieving happiness in our private lives and satisfaction in our careers. Best of all, he reinforces many of the things we have been wanting to say or do something about. Who could ask for anything more? Put "The Peter Prescription" on your market list when you shop for a new book at your library.

Thompson in such high regard and have such confidence in his ability to be a competent representative, I will spend considerable time next week campaigning for him in the 108th Representative District, which is within the 37th Senatorial District 1 represent."

Hatchery Eggs

STATE HATCHERY men from Oden were in Charlevoix last week to strip eggs and mill from mature lake trout for restocking purposes. The fish were shocked just off the pier-heads, netted and taken to raceways at the Charlevoix hatchery. There the eggs and mill were removed, the fish dunked in an antiseptic solution and returned to Pine River Channel. Left, Emerson Heintz, a 47-year hatchery veteran, strips eggs from trout. Right, Louis Mania washes panful of eggs and mill in cold water to remove loose shells and other foreign matter.

'Night of January 16th' Tense Courtroom Drama

By Bob Clock
If courtroom drama is your bag, don't miss "Night of January 16th" which still has two nights to run, Nov. 3 and 4, at Harbour Inn on Little Traverse Bay between Potoskey and Harbor Springs. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

The play is the most recent production of the Little Traverse Civic Theater and is directed by Ross Stokes who also plays one of the lead roles.

It came as a surprise to this reviewer that "January 16th" was written by Ayn Rand, better known for her politically oriented novels, such as "The Fountainhead" and "Atlas Shrugged."

The Night of January 16th, a body plunges through the air from the penthouse apartment occupied by a financially troubled New York Millionaire, Bjorg Faulkner, and lands in an unrecognizable heap on the pavement below. Amid the carnage, the medical examiner discovers a bullet wound and Faulkner's attractive but grasping secretary is charged with first degree murder in his death.

Before the drama unfolds, 12 members of the audience are summoned for jury duty and join the cast on the stage, sitting at the far left in the jury box.

During intermissions, the jury is escorted from the courtroom theater by the bailiff and remains sequestered right up until a verdict is delivered.

There are two endings to the play, depending on the jury's decision.

Director Stokes doubles as Defense Attorney Stevens who draws on his long years of theatrical experience to help build drama and suspense.

Across the room is Dr. Leo Bingley, another veteran of the Little Traverse Civic Theater, as District Attorney Flint. Flint presents convincing arguments why Faulkner's sly secretary and business accomplice Karen Andre, played by Lucky Landry, had every reason to murder her boss.

Other members of the cast are Ned Tanner as Judge Heath, Ellen Rasmussen as the prison matron, Bill Chormley as the bailiff and clerk, Nancy Kaufman as Flint's secretary, Jane Rasmussen as attorney Stevens' secretary, Larry Bennett as Dr. Kirkland, the medical examiner; Toni Veen as Mrs. John Hutchins, a cleaning lady at the penthouse apartment building; John Devenay Jr. as Homer Van Fleet, a private detective; Pat Faulkner, the deceased's wife of two weeks; George Duncan; as John Graham Whitefield, Faulkner's millionaire father-in-law; Jo Ann Barnes as Jane Chandler, Pot Duvernay as Magda Swenson, Faulkner's Swedish housekeeper; Paul Vorhies as Sigurd Jungquist, an ex-embuizer who works for Faulkner as a bookkeeper; Bill Zorhof as Larry Regan, a small-time hood; Barbara Rivard as Roberta Von Rensselaer, a gun-clewing floozie and the widow of a minor-league rocketeer; and Linda Rasmussen as the stenographer.

Among the minor roles, exceptional credit goes to Miss Rivard. With frizzy curls, mascaraed eyes, mini-skirt and fur neck piece, Miss Rivard is straight out of "Born Yesterday."

Tickets are available at all Potoskey pharmacies, and the Potoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce office. They also can be purchased at the door.

When fall winds start howling under the eaves, one little gourmet at our home starts calling for one of his favorite dishes, Vichyssoise, or potato-onion soup.

And when the temperature climbs into the 80's in mid-summer, she calls for the same thing, Vichyssoise (you pronounce the final "s") is one of the few soups going that delicious hot or cold. And it's surprisingly simple to make, particularly if you have a blender. You'd almost think that a soup with a fancy name would be pretty tricky to prepare, but it isn't.

VICHYSOISE
3 cups water
3 rounded teaspoons chicken bouillon nuggets or 3 chicken bouillon cubes
3 medium potatoes
2 dry onions fresh parsley
chopped green onions (optional)
1/2 cup milk

Mix the bouillon and water and bring to a simmer. Add potatoes and onions in fairly small pieces so they'll cook quicker. Cover tightly and let simmer for about one-half hour.

When the potatoes are tender, add lump of butter and pour contents into blender. Blend at high speed until potatoes and onions disappear. Add milk, heated if you like your soup really hot, or cold if you like your soup something less than steamy. If you don't have a blender, use a food mill, potato ricer or a sieve.

Serve in soup bowls with sprig of parsley on top or a sprinkling of chopped green onions, green stems included. Freshly ground pepper also enhances the flavor.

If there is any left over, remember that Vichyssoise also is delicious cold as a

SUPREMELY QUALIFIED

By BOB CLOCK
Since the secret ballot is such an important part of American political life, I can't figure out why newspaper editors across the country feel compelled to tell everyone who comes down the pike how they are going to vote. But they do. It's the nature of the beast.

Of course many folks have known for some time how they're going to vote, even before they knew who the candidates were going to be. They are the tried-and-true, born-and-bred Republicans and Democrats who would rather swim across Lake Michigan in November than cross a party line.

Party unity is fine if the best candidates are in your party. But that has never been the case and from here it appears that it never will be.

At the onset, let me say that I'm a Republican, born-and-bred. I belong to the Charlevoix County Republican Party and am a member of the executive committee. I have voted Republican in the past five presidential elections. But this year my ballot is going to look like a Chinese crossword puzzle, here goes.

THE PRESIDENCY
I am casting my vote for Sen. George McGovern, not because I think he senator is such a red-hot candidate but because I feel Nixon has let us all down. Take the war, for example. Four years ago, Nixon was elected on a promise to get the United States out of Vietnam. Yet no one, not even the most dedicated Republican, dreamed that the cease-fire would come only one week before the next presidential election, but that appears to be what is happening. And if Nixon actually comes up with a cease-fire only one week before we troop to the polls, you can bet that it isn't merely coincidental. Things just don't happen like that in real life.

Some good and some sound political thinkers claim the President couldn't have ended the war any sooner, what with the training of the South Vietnamese army and the massive withdrawal of American men and equipment.

But I don't believe it. All of World War II, from Pearl Harbor until V-J Day was fought in just four years and nine months. In fact, President Nixon didn't even appear to be interested in ending the war until he was pressured by Peace Marchers and other sane elements of society.

At home, none of us has fared very well under Nixon, unless you're an

As for McGovern, I am sorry he played footsie with Henry Wallace in the 1940's, since ultra liberalism is not my bag. But I do think the man has changed sufficiently to warrant a broad spectrum of support from both parties. He spoke out against the war in Vietnam long before it was the popular thing to do. The rest of us have merely followed his lead.

I believe he is perhaps the most sincere and the most honest man ever to seek the presidency. His quiet, compassionate approach to human problems is sorely needed after four years of Nixon's high-handed secrecy and Vice President Agnew's bombastic assaults on the First Amendment and the Bill of Rights.

Five State Proposals On Nov. 7 Ballot

PROPOSAL A
Daylight Time. This is one July and I argue about every night at supper, but I'm still for it. Since all of the states in the Eastern time zone go on Daylight Saving Time every spring, I think it is sheer folly for Michigan to be the sole hold-out. There's a lot of talk about kids going to school in the dark, confused dairy herds, farmers and their chores and the hardship Daylight time works on the operators of outdoor theaters and drinking establishments. But I think if our Eastern zone neighbors go on Daylight time, unnecessary confusion results when Michigan remains on Standard time.

PROPOSAL B
Abortion Reform. This is a toughie. When the question first came up, I wouldn't even sign a petition to have the issue placed on the ballot. Since that time I have done a lot of listening to many sensible people on both sides. I have come to the conclusion that our present abortion laws were written more as a punishment of the mother-to-be than as a defense of her unborn child.

In the last analysis, whether or not a woman bears a child is a highly personal matter which should be decided by the woman herself and her doctor. The father should also be consulted if he hasn't moved to Tasmania. How many Shakespeares, Rembrandts and Beethovens will we lose through abortion reform I don't know. But I do know that children should be wanted, loved and cared for and this is the central issue. I'm voting for abortion reform.

PROPOSAL C
This proposal would limit to 26 mills the property tax for schools, counties, and townships and provide that the Legislature establish a state tax program for schools.

I'm for it. Every year the property tax becomes more oppressive, particularly for retired persons living on fixed incomes. Furthermore, school boards are thrown into a quandary every spring wondering whether or not their millage requests will pass. When they fail, school programs are trimmed, classrooms are over-crowded and the quality of education suffers.

We desperately need another besides property taxes to support our schools.

PROPOSAL D
This proposal would remove a constitutional ban against a graduated income tax. This proposal and Proposal C go hand in hand and should have been incorporated into a single proposal. It would be folly to vote "yes" on one and "no" on the other, or vice versa.

The graduated income tax certainly is not a popular method of picking the public's pocket, but when all of the alternatives are weighed it seems the most fair. It certainly is better than the property tax or the sales tax, both of which penalize the little guy. And don't be misled by a value-added tax on manufacturers. You would only end up paying it through higher costs for the things you buy. I don't like the graduated income tax any more than the next fellow, but it seems to be the lesser of many evils. I'll vote "yes."

PROPOSAL E
This proposal would allow the state to borrow $200,000,000 for tuition and bonuses for Vietnam veterans and other veterans. Since the state has paid bonuses to veterans of every other war in modern times, it would be unfair not to vote a bonus for the veterans of the Vietnam war. I'm voting "yes."

We Recommend 'Yes' On Sale of Hydro Plant

The Courier believes the City of Charlevoix would be wise to sell the hydro electric generating plant at Bellaire rather than to sink another penny into repairs.

The sale of the plant and adjoining property will be the only city proposal on the ballot when Charlevoixans go to the polls Nov. 7.

The Bellaire generating plant has served the city well since it was purchased in 1918. But the years are beginning to take their toll.

R. S. Scott Engineering Co., Inc., of Alpena, estimates the cost of repairs to the power dam itself at $40,000 to $50,000. Two overflow structures located nearby will require between $30,000 and $40,000 to put in shape.

Furthermore, the 30-mile-long power line between Bellaire and Charlevoix will need extensive work shortly. City Superintendent Thomas G. Hanna suspects that many of the utility poles that carry the three transmission lines are rotting from the inside out and will have to be replaced.

In 1971, the Bellaire plant supplied the city with only 1,662,300 kilowatt hours of electricity, compared to 21,581,200 kwh purchased from Consumers Power Co. The chief advantage to having the Bellaire plant was that it supplied additional power to city lines during periods of peak demand. And that power was purchased at about half the cost of Consumers' power.

However, the dam and overflow structures are badly in need of repairs, the cost of which certainly is not warranted by the relatively small amount of electricity the city receives from the facility.

Continued ownership of the dam and mill pond poses even more serious problems for residents of Charlevoix.

The Scott Company predicted

Last January that the castly overflow structure was in danger of washing out during the next period of high water. "This will probably be this spring," the company warned.

Fortunately, the overflow structure was held up during the wettest spring and summer in northern Michigan history, but we might not be as fortunate in the months immediately ahead.

"There is a 15-foot head on all the structures," Scott reports. "This amount of water suddenly released will do a lot of damage downstream from the overflow structure."

According to Mr. Hanna, the city is covered, but only partially, for any failure of the dam.

Extensive loss of life or property resulting from dam failure could well bankrupt the City of Charlevoix; not to mention our moral obligation to prevent such failure if at all possible.

Fortunately, the Department of Natural Resources is well aware of the situation.

In any event, the days of the Bellaire hydro electric plant are numbered. If the city elects to keep it, it will be up to the city to effect needed repairs, even if they entail building a retaining wall across the mill pond and shutting down the power generating facility permanently.

The Courier recommends a "yes" vote on the proposal to sell the plant and the dam property. And we pray that the dam and the overflow structures hold until repairs of some kind are made by someone.

moved in and helped his mother operate the golf club restaurant while he taught history and business at the Seward High School.

A native of Sparta, Mich., Arlene received her degree in art from MSU and until last June she taught in her major field at Seward.

Through a friend, Frank North, the music teacher at Seward, the Westhovens discovered northern Michigan. They accompanied North on several visits to the area, staying at the Alray cabins in Ironton. Finally they decided they would like to move to northern Michigan to start a restaurant.

Seward last June and North is now the head waiter at the Rowe Inn. Arlene does most of the cooking, although she leaves the soups, pastes, salads and certain desserts up to Wes.

Donald E. Fuller Joins Colwell

Donald E. Fuller of Ironton has joined the staff of Colwell and Co., Realty, according to Irving Drost, manager of the Charlevoix office.

Fuller served as diagnostician for the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District for several years in the mid-1960's, leaving in 1967. However he kept his home on the South Arm at Ironton.

For the past five years, he has served as director of child and adolescent services for the Mental Health Board in the Lansing area.

A native of Grand Rapids, Fuller has advanced degrees from Michigan State University and has worked for several years in the education and mental health fields.

"We have wanted to return to Charlevoix for several years, and like so many others, we finally decided to make the break from the city and set up our permanent home here," Fuller says.

OIL HELPS MICHIGAN SCHOOLS MAKE THE GRADE

Our schools use hundreds of things that are made from oil: desk tops and fiberglass seats, educational films, tapes and records, paint, ink... even the erasers on pencils.

But most of all, schools use energy. For heat, light and transportation. 75% of all our energy comes from oil and natural gas (including 40% of our electricity).

But today, we're using these petroleum fuels faster than we are finding them. That's why America faces an Energy Gap.

We're your local oil companies. Working to bridge the growing Energy Gap. Because it's as simple as A-B-C... a country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

Abortion Sinful, Bishop Tells Episcopalians

Eleven members of Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix attended the annual convention of the Diocese of Western Michigan at the Park Place Hotel in Traverse City Nov. 3 and 4.

Principal speaker was the Rt. Rev. Charles E. Bannison, Bishop of Western Michigan, who came out strongly against abortion reform - one of the issues on the Nov. 7 ballot.

He said the abortion is not a political issue, but one which involves an ethical and moral decision.

"It is really not, in my judgment, something about which a vote should be taken," Bishop Bannison said.

"Abortion, with very, very rare exceptions, is wrong. It is sinful in that it is taking of life, which is God-given. About such matters, a Christian should not have to vote. It so happens, however, that we are forced to do so. In my judgment, our vote can only be in the negative."

Turning to ecumenical relations, Bishop Bannison said Christians "are making wonderful strides in healing the divisions of God's church. We see some very strong forces of the Holy Spirit at work as He brings us closer to our brethren of the Roman Catholic, Protestant and Reformed churches."

However, he warned against "jumping the gun" and "embracing individually or even collectively upon those ecumenical services which would cause us to forsake and even possibly betray the trust which God has imparted to us."

The Diocese of Western Michigan will celebrate its 100th anniversary 75th 1974. To commemorate the event, the bishop appealed to the entire

The diocese will conduct a campaign to collect $600,000, 62 percent of which will be used for missionary work throughout the diocese, including grants to existing programs dealing with drug abuse and problems of young people and the elderly. The balance will be used mostly to improve physical facilities.

Signs Warn Of Bridge Ice

Ice on bridges, especially on adjacent highway surfaces are clear and dry, is a hidden hazard to unsuspecting motorists, the Department of State Highways warns.

Such conditions are especially prevalent in early morning in late fall when warm ground temperatures keep highway surfaces from freezing. Unprotected bridge surfaces, exposed to freezing from below as well as above, often acquire a thin coating of frozen condensed moisture.

To help warn motorists, the Highway Department has erected diamond-shaped yellow and black signs in advance of all bridges on the state highway system.

Indoor Swimming Pool Planned at The Dunes

The Dunes, which is now under construction in Charlevoix, is a 32-unit condominium located at the intersection of Potoskey and Michigan Avenues overlooking Lake Michigan. It should be ready for occupancy next summer.

Ken Steffes, who resides at 312 Antrim-st. in Charlevoix is the developer-builder of The Dunes. He is the owner of American Pools in Detroit which is one of the largest swimming pool and landscaping firms in the Midwest.

Utilizing a Mediterranean architectural style designed by Jack Begrow, the structure will be of wood shingle and white brick. It will have eight luxury three-bedroom penthouse apartments and 24 two-bedroom apartments. Every living room will overlook the lake and have an Onway stone fireplace.

Twenty-two residents will have a one-car garage plus an additional one car outside parking lot for every owner.

Steffes plans to make The Dunes a showcase for his firm's talents. An indoor swimming pool near the beach is planned. Extensive landscaping also is planned with a large raised planted earth berm between the street and the parking lot to shield the parking area from view.

Steffes and Begrow have conferred with the Michigan State Highway Department which has approved the plans for safe driveway access at The Dunes.

Susan Weilly's Gas range knows when to lower the heat.

Even if Susan forgets.

Susan's been married only a few months, but thanks to the modern features on her new Gas range, every meal has been a success. The Burner-with-a-Brain gives her precisely controlled temperatures... eliminating the worry of boil-overs and scorched food. And since the Burner-with-a-Brain knows when to adjust itself, Susan saves Gas and money, too.

Susan's Gas range also has a handy "Keep Warm" oven. It keeps food at just the right temperature—without overcooking—so it's great for entertaining. And Susan's oven even cleans itself while it cooks.

So, if you're thinking of replacing your present range, visit your Gas appliance dealer or a Michigan Consolidated Gas Company showroom and see the new, efficient Gas ranges that operate for only one-third the cost of electric stoves. But, whether you're replacing your range or not, here are some tips to help you save fuel:

1. Cover saucepans for faster cooking.
2. Use the Burner-with-a-Brain as often as possible.
3. Preheat oven only as long as indicated in instruction booklet.
4. Use the lowest heat required for the job.

Library Notes

Sometimes it's not a good idea to reveal the plot of a new novel because it might prejudice readers. For example, if we mention that the smashing new book by Frederick Forsyth is a story about a handsome young journalist who chases all over Germany trying to track down a high-ranking Nazi SS war criminal, there are those readers who might feel that it was a pretty tired, over-worked plot, but the only tired character involved with this book will be the person who is exhausted from reading it.

When Forsyth came out with his sensational best-seller "The Day of the Jackal," everyone knew that De Gaulle had not been assassinated but it was impossible, right up to the last page, not to believe that he would be. "The Odessa File" is another exciting, suspenseful book written by a brilliant and vigorous author. It is based on fact and some of it isn't very pleasant reading, but a book like this doesn't come along every day, and we recommend it without reservations.

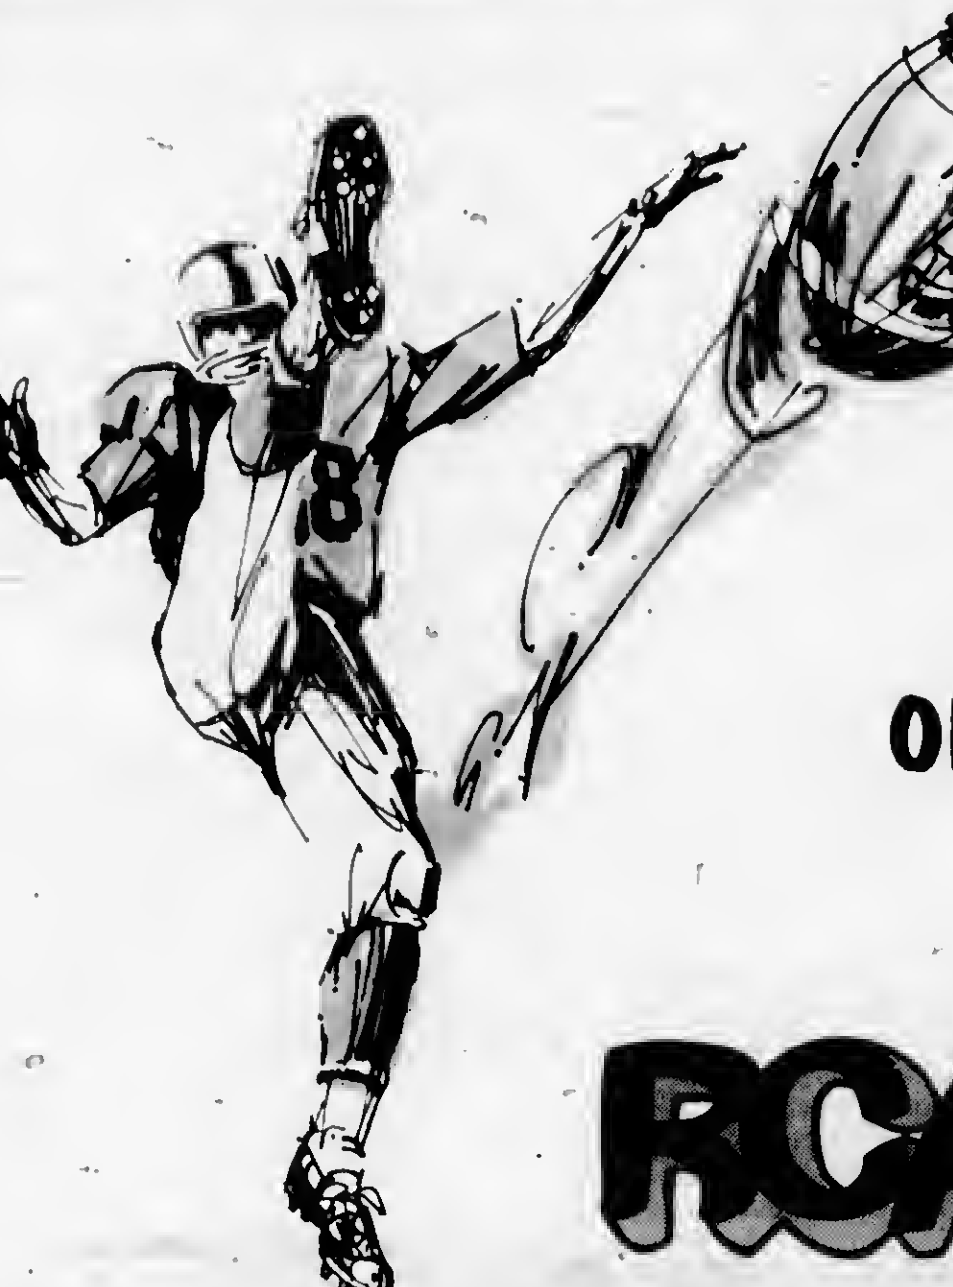

Charlevoix Courier, Wednesday, November 8, 1972 Page 9

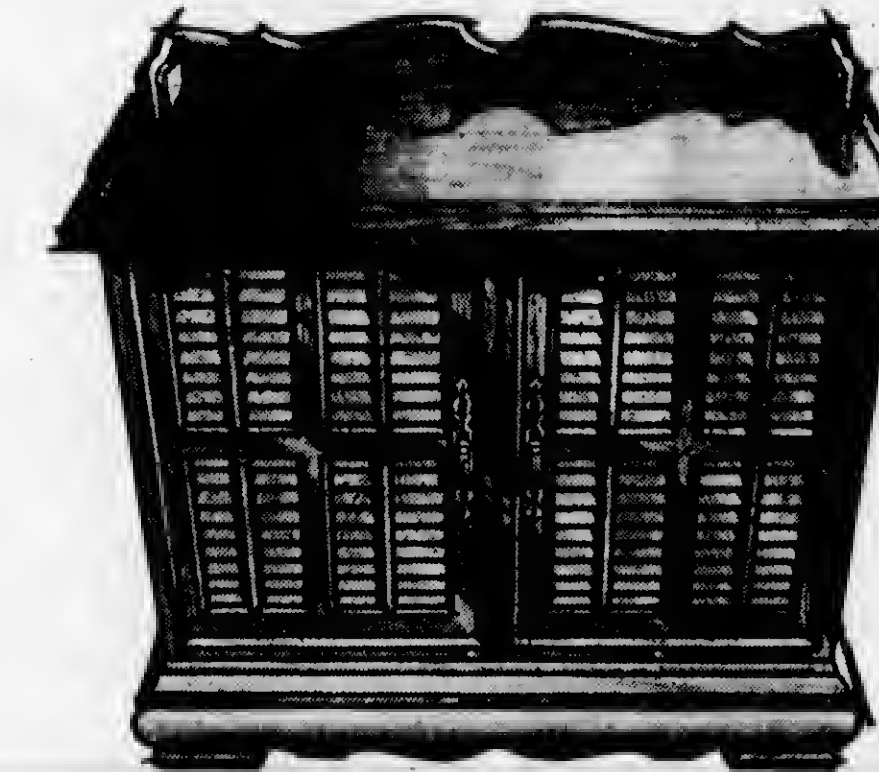

"The Mugging" by Morton Hunt is a solemn and dramatic narrative dealing with America's most feared crime. It is also a deep portrait of American justice today. The author was a pilot during World War II but he has been a freelance writer ever since. He specializes in behavioral sciences and, most particularly in psychology. This remarkable new book deals with shocking accounts of a tragic street crime, how it happened and why. So intensely interesting is the treatment, that although it is classified as non-fiction, it reads very much like a serious and absorbing novel.

In a lighter vein, we suggest "Being There" by Jerry Kosinski which is such a delight that we pity anyone who doesn't read it. The hero is a handsome young man in his mid twenties who is not quite bright. In fact, he isn't bright at all. He cannot read or write or even think, but through a series of incredible circumstances, he becomes advisor to the president of the United States and is quoted around the world. Even the Russian Premier tries to lure him to the Soviet Union. It is because everything Chance says is so simple, so direct and so honest that everyone thinks he must be brilliant.

Record Splake Hooked

What is believed to be a new state record for splake has been reported to the Department of Natural Resources Regional Headquarters here.

Joseph Powell, R-2, Charlevoix, landed an eight-pound, 12-ounce splake while trolling in Lake Michigan off Charlevoix.

Myrl Keller, who is in charge of the DNR's Great Lakes Fisheries Station at Charlevoix, said the fish measured 27 and a half inches in length and 17 and a half inches in girth.

The splake is a cross between a lake trout and brook trout.

What do Fridays mean to you? The end of a long week...the beginning of a hard weekend...or just the fact that the Charlevoix Red Raiders are going to get out on the field and play their very best?

Remember the cheerleaders, supporting the team all the way...the spectators, backing the team up with all their yelling and shouting...and Fridays, our Pep Assemblies.

But now, this has all passed. There will be no more dressing in your warmest clothes to face the rain, sleet, or snow. There will be no more shouting or yelling, as spectators watch our Raiders play a great game. The season has ended...and so has Charlevoix's sport. Football has ended, with a fine season behind us; now we look ahead into basketball and tournaments.

Hut, we can't leave the fine memories of our football games without considering a few statistics:

Season total rushing yardage: 1,049; Passing completed, 33; Passing intercepted, 15; Total points, 85. Grayling game excluded.

Channel Improvements Pose a New Problem

Charlevoix has more interesting problems than any city we can think of.

Take Pine River Channel, for example.

For years, city-owned land northeast of the bridge was virtually immune from wave action. The banks of the channel downstream were so irregular that Lake Michigan breakers were fully dissipated before they reached the bridge.

But not so any more. During the past several years, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has contracted to have new steel revetments driven along both sides of the channel. The banks are now straight and are more tidy and more secure than ever before.

However, there is nothing along the entire length of the channel to dissipate six-foot waves rolling in from the big lake. They travel unabated along the steel funnel until they find a place to eddy.

Two years ago, the channel bank below the Weathervane Inn caught the brunt of the wave action and huge chunks of shoreline were washed away before Congress voted to assume responsibility for the Weathervane frontage. This summer, steel revetments have been driven in front of the Weathervane.

Now the waves eddy on the only remaining unprotected section of channel shoreline below the Charlevoix Lumber Co. The city has dumped tons of rip-rap onto the bank to no avail. Each new blow washes out more of the bank, jeopardizing sewer and water lines which pass under the channel at that point.

We believe that the problem is clearly one that has been created by the U.S. Corps of Engineers through its improvements elsewhere in the channel.

We also believe that the federal government should assume its entire length, since it is a federal waterway.

Furthermore, we feel the Corps should go back to its drawing board and come up with a better design for revetments along channels opening directly onto the great lakes or the Seven Seas. A sawtooth Channel wall certainly would help dissipate wave action.

Wants Downtown Zoned For Multiple Housing

October 25, 1972

Gentlemen:

In reviewing the suggested 'Charlevoix Region Re-Zoning Ordinance' which is presently before the city council, I find that there are no provisions for multiple housing in the central business district, other than the following:

(1) Not more than 15 dwelling units per acre shall be permitted.

(2) Not more than 15 percent of the area may be occupied by the buildings.

Since I would like to see the central business district grow with good housing, based on the philosophy that the prime residential communities in this country (Carmel - by the Sea, La Jolla Beach, California, Scottsdale, Arizona, West Palm Beach, Florida, Vail, Snow Mass, Steam - Boat Springs, Colorado, Sea Island, Georgia, etc.) has prospered greatly through a combination of quality condominiums and town houses being directly part of the business district. It is a proven fact that intimate pedestrian malls which are found in the top shopping centers are immediately serviced by local housing.

If the city of Charlevoix adapts this requirement of 15 units per acre and not more than 15 percent land usage in the central business district they will retard if not eliminate this great housing potential.

I would like you to consider the attached suggestions for re-zoning the central business district and would be most interested in your comments. These suggestions are by no means a negative reflection on the advisory committee or on the city council. They are presented as positive suggestions to keep Charlevoix the beautiful and exciting city it is.

Suggestions for re-zoning Central Business District and Marina Land:

C-R-3 Zone, downtown Business District. Area included, Belvedere-st., from Belvedere Club to Bridge-st., and bounded by Astor-st., State-st., Park-ave., Bridge-st., and C-1 area at Bridge-st. between Bridge and Dixon. Ferry-st. from Belvedere Club to M-66.

1. Zone shall permit mixture on same lot of commercial or first floor and residential (apartments or town houses) on second and third floors. No apartments shall be less than 600 square feet.

2. Building Height: No building shall be a greater height than 35 feet of three stories on any side. In case of steeply sloped sites, variances may be given upon approval of City Council.

3. Density: Lot coverage - foundation area shall not exceed 40 percent for outdoor parking or 80 percent for indoor parking.

4. Density: Apartment units per acre shall not exceed 30.

5. Parking: Off street - One car space (9 feet by 20 feet) and adequate aisle (20 feet wide) for every 400 square feet of commercial space and one car space for every bedroom in apartment unit. If building is within 500 feet of any public parking lot or parking structure total parking may be reduced 25 percent.

6. Set backs from property lines: Front 10 feet (landscape zone). Side and rear - no set back for commercial portion. Ten feet required for apartment portion of building on at least one side for lot less than 60 feet and 10 feet side and rear set back in all other cases.

7. Apartments on first floor: In special cases, apartments shall be allowed on first floor of below street levels. Parking requirements, building height and density shall remain the same. Set back front 35 feet, no side set back, rear 25 feet.

Sincerely,
H. Jack Begrow

QUESTION: WHAT effect will 1972 amendments to the Air Pollution Control Act have? H. H. Royce City, MI

ANSWER: THE recently enacted Senate Substitute to the House Bill 4280 is a compromise bill embodying major amendments to the Air Pollution Act of 1965. Briefly, the major points of the new legislation are:

Strengthen the enforcement procedures to remove the loopholes relative to administrative enforcement and clearly establish the powers of the Commission, all which must be initiated through rule-making procedure under the Michigan Administrative Procedures Act. Industry will get notice of such proposed rules, participation in the consideration and opportunity for legislative review, is necessary.

Provision for voluntary agreement by which industries and the State can agree to abate air pollution, which agreement will then be enforceable in court, if not carried out in good faith.

Strengthened so injury does not have to be done, but a reasonable assumption of injury must arise before action can be brought against polluter.

Increase the Air Pollution Control Commission by 2 new members, one being from organized labor and one from the general public.

Provide for an air surveillance fee for the purpose of providing increased air surveillance, which fee is to be based on rates established by the Air Pollution Control Commission with the factors outlined in the statute.

Reporting requirements (truth in pollution), which requires industries to manufacture and by-products that might cause air pollution, as contained on a list established by the Air Pollution Control Commission.

500 Kids Entertained On Halloween

October 31, 1972 witnessed a dramatic experience. It was the Middle School Halloween party sponsored by the Jaycees and Senior Class of Charlevoix.

It was a gripping experience with thrills to the end. The greatest scare of the night came at 7:30 p.m., and finally ended for the sponsors at 10 p.m. For some reason the kids did not seem to be scared at all.

It is a pretty scary thing trying to entertain 500 youngsters in the course of one evening. Who says it could not be done? The Jaycees and the Senior Class did it, with an assortment of prizes, a solid rock dance, a surplus of games, and lots of good hard work.

There were many games which included bobbing for apples, apples-on-a-string, three-legged races, and sack races. All game winners received prizes, and I recall that it seems everyone won at least one game. The games and the dance were all in full swing at the same time, the dance being held in an adjoining room. Cider and donuts were consumed by all participants.

There were three costume awards given by the judges. First prize, a $5 certificate redeemable at Oleens Shopping Center, was taken by a Seven-Up bottle by the name of Kellie Cross, a Sixth Grader. Second prize, four one-dollar pieces, went to Michelle Celaschi of the Fifth Grade who was a bunny rabbit. Third prize, two one-dollar pieces, was awarded to a pumpkin by the name of Don Wells of the Seventh Grade. The judging was very difficult as there were many well-done original costumes.

The seniors, under the direction of Kristee Kroush, supplied most of the muscle, while the Jaycees picked up the financial end of it. Kristee's committment was Debbie Durr, Bill Wilson and Vicki Wojan. Many seniors and Jaycees helped make the party a success. The Jaycees and Seniors wish to thank Mr. Nevak for the use of the Middle School facilities. The party was a smashing success.

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

I'm sure you have heard about kids having imaginary playmates before. But have you ever heard of a kid with an imaginary school teacher?

Our three-year-old Allison has created just such a person and her exploits are enough to make you choke on your supper.

I suppose she has done it out of sheer self-defense. Every night, Katie and Jennifer take turns at the dinner table telling us what happened in school that day. And of course their teachers, Miss Barbara Christensen and Miss Sue Smith, play leading roles in the day's drama.

So in order to get a voice in our nightly forum, Allison has come up with a terrible teacher by the name of Miss Wolfson, her imaginary school teacher. "Did you know," she asked the other night during a pause in the conversation, "that Miss Wolfson can hang by her knees from the top of a door?"

We had to admit that none of us knew that Miss Wolfson was so talented.

This strange lady also likes to roll bodily down the North Hill in the middle of U.S. 31. The other day the poor soul was hit by cars going in opposite directions and suffered serious injuries to both her head and her feet. "It was just terrible," Allison sighed. "She was crushed."

None of us ate very much after that. I am beginning to suspect that Allison's teacher is truly accident-prone.

She and Allison were out driving one afternoon last week when poor Miss Wolfson lost control of her car near the bridge and plunged into Round Lake. Allison describes in vivid detail the sound of the ambulance siren as Fire Department volunteers rushed to their rescue. Apparently they both escaped without serious injury.

Unfortunately, Miss Wolfson also crops up at the breakfast table. The other morning I poured Allison a glass of orange juice only to learn that Miss Wolfson always drinks her orange juice with a little milk in it.

I made a very face and Allison admitted that it really doesn't taste very good.

Miss Wolfson also has a number of unsavory personal habits that really shouldn't be discussed at the dinner table, but they are. For one thing, she never flushes the toilet, an oversight that is beyond Allison's comprehension.

I Luv You, Miss Wolfson

Allison herself flushes the toilet 20 times a day, which probably explains why our water bills are so high.

I have tried to find out what this fabulous Miss Wolfson looks like, but I haven't been very successful. From what I gather she is a huge woman of indeterminate age.

There is only one other child in the class, a little girl named Susie who is no more than three-quarters of an inch tall. Allison uses her thumb and forefinger to show me how big she is. Needless to say, I am dreading the day that big Miss Wolfson inadvertently steps on poor little Susie. Even the Fire Department won't be able to help.

Among her other idiosyncrasies, Miss Wolfson is a lousy cook.

The other day Judy was preparing scrambled eggs for lunch when Allison informed her that Miss Wolfson often fixes scrambled eggs.

"Only she mixes the eggs with milk and doesn't cook them," she explained. "We drink them instead."

Then she added with a giggle: "We're both crazy."

If it Fittz

By JIM FITZGERALD

Some terrible things are happening at our institutions of higher learning. And I guess I should feel guilty about it.

Duffy Daugherty, football coach at Michigan State University, blames the alumni for his poor teams. He says MSU graduates don't help him recruit good football players.

"Other schools have the alumni help more in recruiting," Duffy told a newspaper reporter. "They go to the local alumni club in town where they want a player and have the club get the guy a summer job, or talk up the school. We're interested in kind of thing. I'm not interested in moral support. I'm interested in financial support."

I must confess, my hands are not clean. I have been an MSU alumnus for 20 years and have never once patted a high school quarterback on the rump and offered him $500 a week for changing light bulbs in my dormroom if he would fight, fight for MSU.

I'm in trouble closer to home, too. A member of the local school board has rapped the school administration and her own board as a bunch of losers. One thing that disturbed her is that the high school band couldn't find time in its Homecoming schedule to furnish accompanying music while the pom pom girls panned their point.

Again, I must blush guiltily. Once I watched through my back window as my daughter and her pom pom team practiced. They jumped up and down and waved balls of shredded paper in the air.

"It is hard to believe," I told my wife, "but I think it might be possible that pom pom girls are as boring as baton twirlers."

(It must be pointed out here that I play no favorites. My other daughter was a baton twirler. I mention these things as part of my usual head-on-off-at-the-pass policy. The theory is that angry parents won't hit me on the head for knocking what their kids do as long as my kids do it too.)

At any rate, there is obviously something wrong with me.

I don't really care if Duffy Daugherty never wins another football game. He is well paid and so are his assistants and his players. They are involved in a business that is about as amateur as General Motors. If Duffy and company can't fill all the seats in the stadium, then the MSU trustees should hire someone who can.

I've been one of the rah-rah fans at Michigan State games for almost 30 years. But I don't kid myself that the MSU Spartans are much different than the Detroit Lions. They are all professional entertainers, competing for fans' dollars.

And if the Lions coach blamed me when he lost, I'd tell him to take a head-first dive into his water bucket. Duffy Daugherty can go dive in the same place.

Likewise, I can't get upset about the plight of the pom pom girls. It is dismaying that a school board would spend time arguing about such nonsense. I strongly favor school sports, with all the trimmings. They can be fun and I am all for having fun. But first things first.

The other day a guy tried to sell me a $100 ticket on a Cadillac. The money would go to a worthy cause, he said - to buy football uniforms for 80 graders.

I told him to come back when he was raising money to improve the curriculum so that Johnny might be able to read and write on his graduation day. He looked at me as if I were nuts.

According to the rest of the world, I guess I am.

...With Ollie O. Stump Jr.

The early Michigan lumberjack is most often depicted as a surly, anti-social belligerent simply because he preferred action to conversation in his every day life, an attitude which saved much valuable time. Consider the time consumed in modern hiring procedure compared to the entrance of a burly logger into a foreman's shanty.

"Hiring" he asks.

"Can you fight?" counters the interviewer without flinching.

Crack. An answering fist propels a chin and its surprised owner through the wall of rough sawn lumber. After dusting himself, the Chief of Personnel awaits himself of the recently provided exit and shakes the hand of the new worker. Thus we have the application submitted, interview conducted and the physical examination processed in 32 seconds in that cordial atmosphere lacking in a computer operation.

The discharge procedure was at times lengthier, but it too boasted that element of personal contact. Consider the unfortunate whose work, or more probably lack of it, incurred the displeasure of Packstack Johnson. Incidentally, Mrs. Johnson acquired that nickname by reportedly bringing in a week's grub supply for the camp in that fashion.

After paying off, Packstack planted a well aimed boot to hasten the logger's departure down the tote road. Twice more he repeated the sendoff. Too late, he realized he had administered the final farewell while off company property.

Once free of prosecution for assault, the ex-employee thrashed his ex-employer to a pulp. After limping back to camp with both eyes blackened, nose battered, and a torn ear, Packstack accounted for this unfortunate turn of events by muttering through swollen lips and missing teeth,

"Kicked him one too often."

The pink slip does have certain advantages.

Ward's first catalogue was a single sheet listing about a hundred items. His first sale was to a small-town postmaster.

Sears originated in 1886 when Richard W. Sears, a railroad station agent at North Redwood, Minn., began selling watches on the side. He moved to Chicago, hired Alvin C. Roebuck as repairman, and issued his first catalogue in 1888.

WONDROUS WARES
Rural families had been limited to the meager stocks of country stores, and they were delighted with the wondrous assortment in the wish books: 98-cent brown derbies, glass eyes for horses, feather bangs for ladies with thin hair, magic lanterns, dozens of patent medicines, butter churns, celluloid collars.

Huggies along took up 22 pages in the

A strong bond grew between the farmers and their friends in Chicago. A Georgia politician often reminded his constituents that they had "no friends except Jesus Christ, Sears, Roebuck, and me."

Rayders Win Last Game

The Red Rayders won their final game of the season Friday night, blanking the Grayling Vikings 14-0. The win leaves Charlevoix in fifth place in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference with three wins, three losses and one tie. Ahead of Charlevoix are St. Ignace, Petoskey, Boyne City and Cheboygan.

STEVE MCCLELLIAN, Rayder back, brings down unidentified Viking ballcarrier during last Friday's game with Grayling. Charlevoix won, 14-0.

Grayling, which has only one win to its credit this season put up a good defense but was unable to make the scoreboard.

Charlevoix's first TD came in the first quarter when Steve McClellian cupped a long drive by scoring from the three. Randy Faust kicked the conversion, leaving the score 7-0 at the end of the period.

After a scoreless second period, Mike Streeter passed to Glen Wertman who went 72 yards to score. Once again, Faust made good on the conversion, leaving the score 14-0.

Davis Seeks Commission On Environmental Quality Bares Proposal At Meeting Here

PUMPS were installed in Charlevoix Township's two wells last week. Each of the wells will supply enough water for 100 homes when the township's water system is in operation. The well shaft and the pump plunger are at the far right above. At left, well driller Leo Goldsmith looks on as workmen join five-foot sections of pump shaft. Haggard's Plumbing and Heating of Charlevoix was general contractor.

State Sen. Robert W. Davis Monday morning unwrapped plans for an Environmental Quality Commission to take over environmental responsibilities now shared by a variety of state departments, bureaus and commissions.

Davis, who met with city and county government leaders at Leutheuser's Restaurant in Charlevoix, said he would introduce legislation creating such an agency when the Senate reconvenes Nov. 27. He expects to be joined by many other senators in sponsoring the legislation.

Later in the day, he formally presented his plans before the Governor's Land Use conference in Gaylord.

"The people I represent have a greater stake in the outcome of land use legislation than any other group in any part of the state," Davis said. "For some of the, their entire futures are inseparable from the decisions state and local officials make in this matter."

After recommending further inquiries into land use legislation, Sen. Davis warned the Legislature may compound land use problems if it attempts to move too fast.

SEN. ROBERT W. Davis (standing) told city and county officials about his proposed legislation for an Environmental Quality Commission at a breakfast meeting Monday morning at Leutheuser's Restaurant.

More Kids Take Vo Ed, Director Tells Board

A total of 164 students from an enrollment of 505 at Charlevoix High School are participating in Vocational Education programs, Robert Cook, coordinator of the program, told the Charlevoix Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

In other action, the board hired a new teacher, accepted the resignation of another, named an assistant athletic director, approved the purchase of a school bus and OK'd a purchase agreement for the Building Trades house. The board also heard three reports.

Weigh Chamber Merger Charlevoix, East Jordan

Final details of the proposed merger of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce with the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce were expected to be worked out at a joint meeting of the two boards Tuesday night at the First State Bank, according to Tom Merta, executive secretary of the Charlevoix chamber.

Under the proposed merger, Merta said he will serve as full-time manager for both chambers, maintaining office in Charlevoix year-round and in East Jordan during the summer months.

Merta said the combined chamber will pave the way for many inter-community events.

Eventually, Merta would like to include Boyne City into the chamber organization, creating a Lake Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce. The combined chamber would something like the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce which serves Petoskey, Harbor Springs and Williston Lake.

One of the details expected to be worked out Tuesday night was the share of Merta's salary to be paid by the East Jordan chamber.

So-So Deer Season Forecast by Burris

Only a so-so deer season is expected in Charlevoix County this year by state conservation officer Harley Burris, headquartered in Boyne City.

Burris said Monday that the local deer herd has shown little improvement - if any - over 1971.

He said he expects a small turnout of hunters when the season opens Wednesday morning. And he will be surprised if they have much luck.

He attributes the diminished county deer herd to two factors: A series of rough winters hand-running and the killing of antlerless deer in years past. This year, it's "bucks only" in Areas 32 and 33, as

Mercer Appointed Plan Administrator

At a meeting held one week early because of the opening of deer season, Charlevoix County Commissioners last week:

-Appointed William Mercer, director of the County Planning Department, as planning administrator under the Charlevoix County Zoning ordinance, recently approved by the Office of Economic Expansion, Department of Commerce.

-Named a five-man Zoning Appeals Board consisting of Thomas Wieland of Charlevoix (three years); Lynn Seaton of Boyne Falls and Richard Smith of Boyne City (2 years); Larry Merta of Williston Lake and Mrs. Carl Skornia of Boyne City (one year).

-Approved the purchase of an Oshkosh heavy duty truck and snowplow by the County Road Commission.

-OK'd the purchase of metal storage building for construction at the site of the County Jail. The cost is not to exceed $3,320.

-Heard requests by newly-elected District Judge Arthur Reibel for additional office space, a law library and an additional office clerk. He said duties of the office have expanded with the probation program.

Federation of the Blind Launches Local Chapter

WELL DRILLER Leo Goldsmith of Walloon Lake lowers pump plunger into well shaft. The pumps were positioned more than 100 feet underground. Structures will be built around the two wells before pump motors are hooked up.

The organization will act as a clearing house for information on programs to assist the blind. Members also will exchange ideas on how to cope with the problems of blindness and engage in social activities.

A Charlevoix County chapter of the Michigan Federation of the Blind is being formed, according to Mrs. Albert Seger.

At the organizational meeting last Wednesday at the First State Bank, Richard Dubin of Boyne City was elected president; Albert Seger sr. of Charlevoix vice president; Mrs. Ray Williams of Ironton, secretary; and John Imel of Charlevoix, treasurer.

The group, which is made up of blind and sighted persons, will meet the second Wednesday of every month at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the First State Bank. The next meeting is Dec. 13.

Conference Names Kantola and Berlage

Charlevoix High School Guard Steve Kantola and Safety Clint Berlage have been named to All Opponent teams in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference, according to Dale Burge, CHS athletic director.

Kantola, a 170-pound senior, was named to the Offense

Atlantic Salmon Flown Here for Boyne Planting

Some 25,000 Atlantic salmon fingerlings from Quebec were flown to Michigan last week and taken to the Department of Natural Resources Wolf Lake State Fish Hatchery where they will be reared as planting stock for the Boyne River in 1974.

The young fish, gifts of the Province of Quebec, arrived in Michigan in "good shape" without any losses along the way. Survivors from this shipment will go into the Boyne River in the spring of 1974 under the DNR's plan to concentrate on that stream in hopes of establishing Michigan's own source of Atlantic salmon eggs.

Last spring, the DNR made its first modern-day introduction of Atlantic salmon by releasing 10,000 of the fish in the Boyne and another 9,000 smolts in the Au Sable River. At the same time, several hundred two- and three-year-old Atlantic salmon were trucked to the DNR's Wolf Lake Hatchery for rearing as brood stock.

"At first, we lost some of these fish, but the situation has strengthened itself out and now the rest of the salmon are doing just fine," reports DNR Fisheries Chief Wayne H. Tody.

Those fish and the ones introduced in the Boyne and Au Sable last spring came to Michigan on the strength of donations made by Everett Kircher of Boyne Mountain, Trout Unlimited, and the Michigan United Conservation Clubs. Also underwriting the effort was a small anonymous fish grant from the federal government.

Tody explains that funds from these sources appear to be available to enable the Department to purchase 15,000 two-year-old Atlantic salmon next spring from the Donmar Salmon Fish Hatchery in Quebec.

All of those fish will go into the Boyne River in 1974 as part of the DNR's concerted, three-year effort to develop an egg-taking supply in that stream.

At this stage of our Atlantic salmon program, we must place all of our emphasis on one stream to establish a dependable egg source. We see the Boyne as having the best potential for this basic effort. After we develop large enough runs there for egg-taking purposes, Continued on page 9

GROUND CLEARING is underway for two of Charlevoix's newest condominiums. Above, the La Croft will be located on the Lake Michigan shore at the foot of Dixon Ave., site of the former Beach Hotel. In the background is the home of Mrs. Ralph Hess sr. Below, the Dunes is planned just north of La Croft on Michigan Ave. Owner Ron Steffes has had some trees cut down, although construction won't begin until next spring.

LARRY SMITH, author of "The Original," autographs library's copy of book for Mary Beth Wallick, Charlevoix librarian. Smith was one of the authors who attended the Friends of the Library open house recently. His novel deals with pioneer life in Antrim County.

New Patch to Boost Deer Studies

Successful Michigan deer hunters who stop to have their animals examined at the Department of Natural Resources' roadside checking stations this season will receive free, four-color shoulder patches (see insert). It's the DNR's way of saying "thanks" for helping provide the latest biological information on deer. In offering the handsome new patches exclusively to cooperating sportsmen, the DNR hopes to route more deer through these checkpoints to boost its studies for improved deer management. The patch incentive plan is also designed to build higher hunter interest in the DNR's deer program. The roadside stations will be operated at the Straits of Mackinac (Nov. 17-20), south of Bay City on I-75 (Nov. 15-20 and Nov. 25-26), and near Alma on US-27, White Cloud on M-37, and Paris on US-131 (Nov. 15-20). Another checking station will be open Nov. 15-19 on the French Creek, on Drummond Island. Successful sportsmen may also obtain the free patches by having their deer examined at DNR district headquarters statewide during regular 8:00 to 5:00 working hours. —Michigan Department of Natural Resources

Snowmobile Hours In Effect

Snowmobilers are reminded of a law change since a year ago which requires them to observe minimum and maximum quiet periods on public hunting lands during Michigan's Nov. 15-30 firearm deer season.

The new measure, designed to shut off noise disturbances from snowmobilers during prime deer hunting hours, makes it illegal to operate these machines "in an area on which public hunting is permitted during the season open to the taking of deer with firearms from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m."

As exceptions to this rule, snowmobilers may be used during these quiet hours:

- 1) In the case of an emergency;
- 2) For law enforcement purposes;
- 3) To go to and from a permanent residence or a hunting camp otherwise inaccessible by a conventional wheeled vehicle;
- 4) For the conduct of necessary work functions involving land and timber survey, communication and transmission line patrol, and timber harvest operations.

The new restriction does not cover the operation of snowmobilers on private lands by persons who own or control these lands, or are using them as invited guests. As such, it does not apply to private club holdings where members and guests of these tracts are concerned.

The quiet periods on snowmobiling do cover state

LEGAL NOTICE

New Broadcasting Corp. is an applicant before the Federal Communications Commission for a construction permit for a new standard broadcasting station on the frequency of 1270 kilocycles, 5 kilowatts of power, daytime only, Charlevoix, Michigan.

The Federal Communications Commission on October 19th, 1972, designated this application for a hearing on the following issues:

1. To determine, in light of the newspaper interest of the principles of the New Broadcasting Corp., whether grant of the application would result in an undue concentration of control of the media of mass communication in Charlevoix, Michigan, and vicinity.
2. To determine whether the applicant is financially qualified to construct and operate its proposed station.
3. To determine, in light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, whether a grant of the application would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity.

The hearing is to commence at 10:00 a.m. on January 2nd, 1973 with a prehearing conference being held at 9:00 a.m. on November 13th, 1972, both in the offices of the commission, Washington D.C.

A copy of the application of New Broadcasting Corp. together with the interested parties and related material, is on file for public inspection at the Elzinga Agency 704 Bridge St., in the Redeker-Elzinga building, Charlevoix, Michigan, during regular business hours.

THIS BRUIN was brought down during bear season by Danny Bergmann east of Vanderbilt. It dressed out at 350 pounds.

DNR Uses Copter To Study Forests

Department of Natural Resources foresters are now using that agency's helicopters for inspecting forest stands.

State forest lands are divided into forest management planning units, each of which should be checked every 10 years to gather updated information on species types, condition of the forest and whether any stands should be cut.

In the past this has been done on foot, which often involved walking long distances to reach the stands to be checked.

But helicopters allow foresters to be flown directly to any part of a management

Hunters' Breakfast

By David Streeter

On the opening day of deer season, Wednesday, Nov. 15, the Senior class will sponsor a "Hunters' Breakfast" at the High School Cafeteria.

Actually, anyone is welcomed from 5 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. to enjoy pancakes, eggs, sausage, juice, coffee and rolls — all you can eat.

Instructed to use particularly "good judgment" in enforcing the rule this year, reports DNR Law Enforcement Chief George M. Dahl.

He explains that the new law comes in response to the growing number of complaints which sportsmen registered with the DNR, REPAIRS HAVE been completed on the Ironton Ferry at the Hamilton Boat Yard. The hull was welded in four places and was stripped down to bare metal and repainted. Repairs also were made to the screw shafts during the five-year overhaul. After a Coast Guard inspection Nov. 6 the vessel was returned to Ironton to resume her journeys across the South Arm until ice ends the season.

Chrysler VP Joins Ski & Shore Realty

Richard E. Georgi, president of Ski and Shore Properties, Inc., reports that Arthur S. Bond Jr., has been appointed administrative vice-president of the corporation.

An attorney, Bond was secretary of Chrysler Corp. Most recently, he served as vice-president of Chrysler Realty, Inc., a corporate subsidiary devoted to dealer location and general realty development.

Georgi stated, "Mr. Bond brings to Ski and Shore 19 years of broad and successful experience in general management and real estate. Certainly these are qualities that a young, aggressive and growing real estate firm like ours can benefit from greatly."

Of his new position, Bond said: "The factors that brought me to Ski and Shore are the company's extraordinary opportunities for growth, the beautiful environment in which it operates, and a personal desire to see the environment remain beautiful. Plus the fact that I enjoy hard work."

Ski and Shore Properties, Inc. is a northern Michigan real estate firm involved in brokerage, development and investment activities. Its corporate headquarters are located in Charlevoix.

Among the real estate project Bond supervised were residential community complexes in suburban Detroit and Big Sky, Montana, a resort development originated by Chet Huntley, the former NBC television newscaster.

A World War II Navy veteran, Bond graduated cum laude from Lake Forest College in 1959. In 1962, he received his Juris Doctorate degree from the University of Michigan. He joined Chrysler Corp. the same year.

Bond's wife and two teenage daughters will move to the Charlevoix area after the first of the year.

Hearing on Shorelands Set for Nov. 20 in TC

Public hearings are scheduled for eight Michigan cities over the next three weeks to give local government officials, private property owners, and other interested citizens an opportunity to review a proposed plan to protect this state's Great Lakes shorelands.

One of the hearings will be held Nov. 20 at 1:30 p.m. in the Lars Hockstad auditorium, Central Grade School (entrance at the corner of 7th-st. and Pine-st.). Others are scheduled for Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 13; Escanaba, Nov. 14; Houghton, Nov. 15; Alpena, Nov. 21; Muskegon, Nov. 27; Monroe, Nov. 30; and Bay City, Dec. 1.

They will be jointly sponsored by Michigan's Water Resources Commission and Natural Resources Commission. In a move to set up these public hearings, both of the policy-making boards recently gave their tentative approval to the plan, which is required under the Shorelands Protection and Management Act of 1970.

Basically, the plan sets forth a broad management strategy centered upon preserving Great Lakes shorelands — both private and public — in the most natural setting possible. As such, it places key emphasis upon singling out and providing protective use controls for "high risk" erosion areas and "vulnerable" areas along this state's Great Lakes shores. Rules covering the management of these prime areas are also mandated by the Shorelands Protection and Management Act of 1970.

The plan also outlines other problems important to effective shoreland management, and provides "particularly helpful" guidelines for local units of government, which are counted on to play major roles in the actual implementation of the proposed program.

Among other major considerations, the plan lists the many further steps which must be taken at all levels — local, state, and federal — before the program can be put into motion.

Water Resources and Natural Resources officials are quick to point out that the plan, as it now stands, marks only an initial effort toward that end. They add that the upcoming series of public

Salmon

we can shift and broaden our Atlantic salmon plans for a regular management program."

In line with the Boyne's top priority, last spring's Atlantic salmon releases in the Au Sable River will not be repeated for a while, at least.

"Available stocks are simply too scarce and expensive for use other than as an egg source," points out Today.

The DNR's main goal in stocking the Au Sable with Atlantic salmon last spring was to see what kind of sportfishing these salmon would offer in a large river.

"We're sure we can gain that objective with this single planting," notes Today.

Under this plan, Atlantic salmon returning to Foote Dam on the Au Sable will be live-trapped by the DNR and trucked for release above Alcona Dam to provide angling action in prime fishing waters just below Mio.

EO Funds Approved For North

Gov. William G. Milliken has announced approval of Economic Opportunity grants totaling $195,000 to the Northeast Michigan Community Action, Inc.

Of the full amount, $77,000 goes to administration where responsibility lies for organization, coordination, planning, and evaluation for the central office and community action programs.

The community action agency with these funds will conduct programs including:

— HEALTH: Emphasis will be on alcoholism and drug abuse.

— HOUSING: Among a number of other activities in this area, the community action agency plans to reduce by 5 percent the number of low income families in houses not meeting FHA minimum requirements.

— SENIOR CITIZENS: Comprehensive health services will be available for some 6,000 senior citizens. A Co-op will be incorporated to sell crafts, and it is anticipated that this will assist approximately 150 senior citizens by increasing their yearly earnings through job placement.

— TRANSPORTATION: A rural transportation system is to be planned.

The Northeast Michigan Community Action, Inc., serves the counties of Presque Isle, Montcalm, Alpena, Alcona, Emmet, Cheboygan, Charlevoix, Oscoda, Ogemaw, Iosco, Arenac and Otsego Counties.

Is Water Bank Program Key to Monroe Creek?

For several months, the Courier has been advocating the establishment of a federal or state "Scenery Bank" to prevent all of our beautiful privately-owned wilderness tracts from falling into the hands of land developers.

Under the proposal, owners of such land would be given a property tax break, a tax write-off or even a stipend for keeping their wild land holdings in their natural state.

We envision the program being something akin to the Soil Bank, with an eye toward preserving our wilderness for the enjoyment of present and future generations.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, through the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has now inaugurated just such a program for wetlands. It is called the Water Bank Program, and Lapeer County has been designated for a 1973 pilot project, according to Art Rowley, chairman of the state AS and CC committee.

Lapeer landowners who have wetlands that are approved by the Soil Conservation Service as being beneficial to wildlife may enter into 10-year agreements with the Department of Agriculture to improve these areas for migratory waterfowl.

The landowner will receive from $5 to $13 per acre for holdings protected under the program.

Rowley says any Lapeer County landowner is eligible to participate, whether or not the land is used for agricultural production.

He adds that all counties in Michigan may come under the program if enough interest is shown in this type of land conservation.

We believe the Monroe Creek wetlands owned by Frank Sheldon would be ideal for just such a program. Sheldon, you'll recall, is the fellow who intends to dam up Monroe Creek, flood 400 acres of wetlands and establish a 1,500-acre homestead development on his 1,500 acres of land bordering the creek.

Such a program would preserve the wilderness area "as is" for at least 10 years and there is little doubt that long-term arrangements could be negotiated with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

At present, the future of the Monroe Creek Development is stalled in Circuit Court, pending a decision by Circuit Judge Charles Brown. Dr. John Tanton, Trout Unlimited, and the Eastern Michigan Environmental Action Council took Mr. Sheldon to court last winter on grounds that the proposed dam, approved by the Natural Resources Commission, will have an adverse effect on the wildlife in the area and the ecology of Monroe Creek downstream from the dam and the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix.

Regardless of Judge Brown's decision, which is expected some time before his retirement Dec. 31, we believe the Board of County Commissioners would do well to look into the possibility of having the Water Bank Program expanded to Charlevoix County in the near future. Even if Monroe Creek is lost, there are other areas worthy of protection.

From here it appears that the Water Bank could be another valuable tool to preserve wilderness lands from the creeping tentacles of urbanization.

The Safety Valve

QUESTION: Recently you mentioned white and red traffic delineators that are being used alongside our highways and ramps, but you didn't mention the amber and green ones. What do they signify? F.T.C., Battle Creek

ANSWER: The green delineators are placed at those points where there are obstructions, such as guard rails, culverts, head walls, etc., and serve as a warning to operators of maintenance and road equipment (such as snow plows) alerting them to the presence of those obstructions that could be injurious to their equipment, or perhaps induce a traffic violation, if the operators didn't know they were there.

Amber colored delineators are installed on freeways at locations where entrance and exit ramps are present, both for the convenience of the motorist who is seeking this information and to alert him to the possibility of additional traffic entering the traffic stream.

Amber colored delineators are also used on two-way state trunkline systems to alert the motorist to "no passing zones."

QUESTION: Why is it that motorcycles are not subject to inspection in the random inspection lanes in the state? They have equipment obligations, too. F.L.D., Wyoming

ANSWER: They are, and you're right. The Safety & Traffic Division of the Michigan Department of State Police advises that in 1971 there were 778 motorcycles flagged in and checked in these inspection lanes. We understand that 347 of those passed and qualified for inspection stickers, either issued on the spot, or whose owners made the corrections indicated and reported back to the proper authorities within the period of time requested.

At a recent state meeting with some motorcycle club members and dealers, we were pleased to discover that the majority of those motorcycle owners take a great deal of pride in their equipment and in keeping everything in proper working order, as well as keeping informed of all the rules of the road.

QUESTION: Is there a top speed limit for school buses in the State of Michigan? G.L.D., Sparta

ANSWER: According to our Michigan Vehicle Code, no school bus shall exceed the speed of 50 miles per hour.

QUESTION: Eddie is no Abdul Kareem Jabbar when it comes to making baskets. So naturally, he hits the odds in his favor. So what could be more natural than popping tiny olives into huge wastebaskets, especially when he's usually got a jar of olives in his pocket anyway? And he doesn't eat the olives, just the juice? (If you don't believe any of this, it's simply because you never had a 14-year-old son. Every word is true.)

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

There's one thing to be said about being a loser in the election just past. I've had plenty of company — and plenty of sympathy.

None of us losers can figure out how so many other voters went so far astray, but that's the way it is with elections.

The best comment I have heard on President Nixon's prowess at the polls was made by a pollster a few days before the election. He said the President's support was "a mile wide and an inch deep."

After the election, he corrected himself. He said Nixon's support was "two miles wide and a half-inch deep." Which is more or less how I feel. One of the key issues in the 1972 election — although it didn't get as much play as many others — was the President's stand against the busing of school children in the interests of integration. How else can you explain the solid Republican vote in the otherwise solidly Democratic Deep South?

School busing also turned the trick for Michigan's Sen. Robert Griffin. Before the Detroit vote came in, Griffin and his opponent, Democrat Frank Kelley, were only a whisker apart. In a "normal" election, you would expect Detroit's heavily Democratic vote to push Kelley ahead.

But not in this year of Our Lord 1972. Detroiters are death on school busing.

One of the things that bothers me about the President is his timing. All of the hoopla about ending the war one week before the election was enough to cost him my vote. The maneuvering was so patently political it was enough to sicken Tammany Hall.

Then, two days after the votes were counted, the President started talking like a Republican again. He is now going to trim all the "fat" off the federal payroll and do his damndest in the next four years to whittle down the size of our monstrous federal bureaucracy.

Although Clockwise endorsed abortion reform, I am not really sorry that it failed. I do believe the present law needs updating, taking into account new methods of determining mongolism and other birth defects among the unborn. But Michigan apparently is not emotionally prepared for "abortion on demand," and this is what reform is all about.

The next time around, perhaps we should limit the vote to the female gender, for they are the ones who must cope most intimately with the major emotional and physical problems concomitant to pregnancy and/or abortion.

Daylight Time? Now that's one I won, but Judy isn't speaking to me.

Pass the Mustard

By JIM FITZGERALD

Anyway, despite the odds, Eddie missed the basket this time and hit me in the head. I'll admit he was throwing all the way from the kitchen, through an alcove, and aiming at a basket half hidden by my chair. But it was still a lousy shot.

But I made the best of it. I picked the olive out of my lap and ate it. Immediately there was a gasp from the kitchen and my daughter, who is two years madder than my son, said: "Was that the olive the cat flicked?"

Augghh!

The next sound was me choking up two points into Abdul's basket. Followed by the sound of two bodies falling down laughing in the kitchen. All of which serves as an involved introduction to the Michigan hot dog controversy (I warned you this wasn't going to be easy).

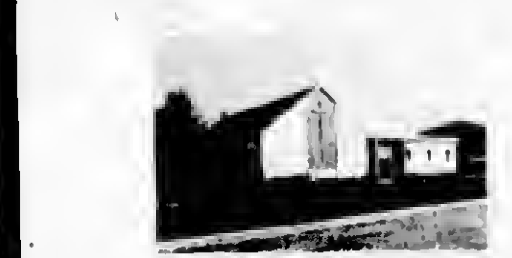

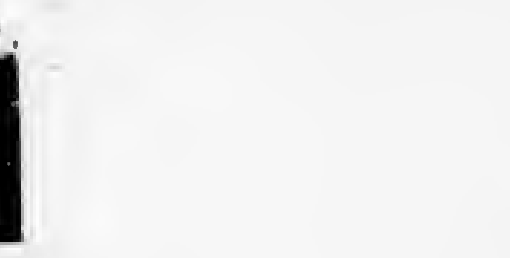

Michigan's meat standards are higher than federal standards. Some of the big meat packers — such as Hormel and Armour — have asked to sell the same hot dogs in Michigan that they sell in other states. Michigan's meat packers are fighting back — "defending the integrity of the Michigan hot dog." The argument probably won't be settled until 1988 when, for the first time in history, a wienie roast will be held in the chambers of the U.S. Supreme Court. (If Justice Frankfurter had only lived to bring the mustard!)

I've eaten hot dogs in several states, including Michigan, and they all tasted the same to me. What's inferior about non-Michigan hot dogs? I had to ask. "Federal standards permit hot dogs to contain ingredients processed from animal ears, eyes, tongues, lips, snouts, udders, bladders, intestines, hearts and stomachs," Augghh!

It's not what you eat, it's what you know.

By SEN. ROBERT DAVIS

Q. Why should Michigan residents have to find inferior meat on their store counters if they don't want it? T.D., Alpena

A. That's what a lot of people — including myself and other state officials — want to know. And we intend to continue fighting against it.

The big battle between the Federal Government and our State Government is over a Michigan law with prohibits use of ears, udders, eyes, stomachs, lips, lungs and bladders in packaged meat products such as hotdogs, bologna, and meat loaf.

Michigan's law was contested in court by three large meat packing companies — Armour and Co. and Chicago, Wilson and Co. of Phoenix, Arizona, and George A. Hormel and Co. of Austin, Minnesota.

Michigan's top Agricultural Department Officials fought that suit in federal district court and won from U.S. Judge Noel Fox a ruling which said any company selling such food in Michigan had to conform to Michigan laws, even though Federal regulations allow such junk meat to be used.

B. Dale Ball, Director of the Department of Agriculture, and several top officials went to Washington and, by displaying the questionable material to Congressmen, got them to remove a provision from pending Federal legislation that would have permitted use of the material that is extremely objectionable to many people.

Everyone thought the battle was won but now comes a three-judge panel of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, which normally takes up the cudgels for the people against big business, and it ruled that the tougher Michigan law could not be enforced because it conflicts with the Federal law.

The Federal Appeals Court also tossed out the Michigan requirement that sausage must have a protein content of at least 12 percent. The Federal law has no minimum protein requirement.

The Appeals Court said if Michigan were allowed a different set of regulations, then Michigan and other states would be permitted "to interfere with the permissible percentage of ingredients which the Secretary of Agriculture under the federal act is entitled to prescribe."

It is not difficult to understand the wisdom of this statement if Michigan were attempting to accept poorer quality food, rather than higher quality food.

The three meat packing companies contend that they would lose thousands of dollars if they were compelled to comply with Michigan's stricter regulations.

So, in the meantime, Michigan residents would have to eat inferior meat products to protect the profits of these three companies.

We are determined to take their appeal to the United States Supreme Court in our effort to protect the people of Michigan against inferior products.

We know we will have the backing of more than eight million residents of Michigan who feel they have a right to be discriminating in their eating habits.

What will happen if Michigan should lose in the Federal Supreme Court? Eight million people form a potentially great purchasing power and someone just might start the ball rolling on a boycott that could result in three major meat packing companies losing a lucrative market, not only for their sausage-type products, but for all the rest of their products.

If that were to happen — and it could be a good possibility — the dollar loss would be far greater than the loss they would suffer by giving Michigan residents the clean, wholesome type of communitated meats they desire.

Your questions and comments are always welcome and may be addressed to: State Sen. Robert W. Davis, State Capitol, Lansing, Mich. 48902.

High above Birmingham, Ala., stands one of the largest and least-known statues in the United States.

The 56-foot-statue of Vulcan, Roman god of the forge, was cast in sections in the steelmaking city and was a star attraction at the St. Louis Exposition of 1904, the National Geographic Society says.

Disassembled and shipped back to Birmingham, the statue became 60 tons of iron scrap rusting in a field. Later, with one arm attached backwards, it stood awkwardly at the state fairground. It was restored in 1936 and placed atop Red Mountain, where it overlooks the city.

AN APT LANDMARK (like the statue that has become its landmark, Birmingham also has risen above earlier episodes of awkwardness and neglect.

Known a decade ago for police dogs, fire hoses, and civil rights violence, the city is notable today for its medical and university complex, expanding civic center, and annual arts festival.

Starting with an integrated committee that still meets to thrash out issues at weekly breakfasts, Birmingham's citizens revamped their city's government and have gone on to rebuild the city itself.

Two 30-story skyscrapers, completed earlier this year, dominate Birmingham's changing skyline. A $43-million civic center is under construction and the University of Alabama in Birmingham is building $41 million worth of facilities on 54 blocks in the heart of the city.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Aunt Esther's coffee grinder was a simple device which ground bean coffee out of a bag. The grounds returned to the soil and the bag was consumed in the puff of smoke to become a pinch of ashes in the kitchen range.

Modern genius gives us coffee in cans, jars, and packages as per, drip, instant or freeze-dried. They're returned to the soil, creating vast acreages of sanitary land fill.

She did the dishes and laundry with lye, either in bar form or as soap shavings. Our indifference toward work, rather than any an antiseptic phobia, prompted the demand for hundreds of detergents, bleaches, and soil removers in plastics, spray cans, packets, bottles, and boxes, up to the economy food-locker size. Their penetrating power is well documented, as in Connecticut where the prison water supply became contaminated more than 100 feet below the rocky soil.

Uncle Charlie's shaving brush, soap, and mug were adequate for his sun-tanned, weatherbeaten skin. But our pampered complexions merit millions of tubes, bottles and cans of lather, skin-tracers and shaving lotions — before and after, of course!

Throughout his life Charlie breakfasted on oatmeal, nourishing fare which snapped, cracked and popped only when the empty carton ended in the firepot.

Assorted cereals from billions of boxes bespeak our refinement over these simple folk whose paper requirements consisted of the Bible, calendar, almanac, "wish book," and weekly newspaper.

The cities of thousands of mills and factories lit our way out of these dark ages as they began to pollute land, air, and water around the clock to provide our creature comforts.

If we inherited pollution, as many authoritative ecologists maintain, why did we have to invent the garbage can?

had found a new calling.

Railroads came in to augment the valley's river trade, and the former cotton towns began to merge into an industrial center. The change was incorporated when Birmingham was made official at the junction of two rail lines, taking its name from the famous manufacturing city in England.

Birmingham's latest change involves a shift from the last century's almost total dependence on iron and steel. At the same time, tough pollution laws are causing the large mills to invest heavily in programs to clean up the city's air and water.

The improved climate — politically as well as environmentally — is bringing so many light industries and business headquarters into Jones Valley that local civic boosters now call their new Birmingham "the turnaround city."

In 1817, Davy Crockett recommended Jones Valley for settlement and two years later a village named Carrolsville sprang up, quickly followed by a second called Elyton.

NOTICE

Charlevoix Township Zoning Board will meet at the Township Hall on Norwood Road, on Monday, December 4th, at 7 p.m.

The purpose of this is for public comments on proposed changes in Amendments, Section 2.8, Chapter II, Section 7.5, Chapter V, Section 14.3, Charlevoix XIV, Section 19.2, Chapter XIX. Virginia Cunningham Clerk

Recounts Asked in Antrim

Ralph Phillips, Democratic challenger of Republican Antrim County Sheriff Bryce Pettie in the Nov. 7 election, has filed for a recount of votes, even though the official tally showed him trailing 4,275 to 1,642.

Phillips said the main point in question is why there was such a difference in total votes cast for him and for other Democratic candidates. Other Democrats polled from 400 to 500 more votes than Phillips.

The Antrim County Democratic Committee is backing the recount. Elsewhere in Antrim County, George Calvin, incumbent 90th District commissioner, has asked for a recount. He was defeated by George Onvry by 15 votes, 261 to 246. District 9 includes the village of Manelona.

Curtis Patrick, loser to Margaret Bogert for Manelona township supervisor (362 to 373), also has asked for a recount, as is Mrs. Bogert.

The candidates say they have filed because the question the validity of absentee ballots cast in Manelona Township. The township only had 144 absentee ballots, an unusually small number for a presidential election.

Gerald Patrick, who was defeated by Republican Elmer Evans for Manelona Township clerk (408 to 335), has said that he also will ask for a recount.

Non-Hunter Bags Buck Opening Day

Lyle Miles isn't a hunter - but he got his deer regardless on opening day.

Miles was driving from Ellsworth to Charlevoix when a five-point buck leaped into his path. In front of him, Miles was unable to stop and slammed into the deer, which died almost immediately.

Willard and Shirley Drost were traveling behind Miles and stopped to dress out the animal and deliver it to the Sheriff's office. It was then sent to Grandview to provide venison dinners for the penitents.

Miles said damage to his car amounted to about $200. He added that he believes the deer was being chased by hunters.

Drop Baccalaureate? Question Splits Board

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at a special meeting held Monday, accepted a bid for the sale of $100,000 in tax anticipation notes, voted to give a quit claim deed to the Barnard Grange for property the school district has sold to the organization at an earlier date and to list the Building Trades house under construction with a realty firm.

However, it was a question of whether or not to hold Baccalaureate services during graduation week that attracted the large attendance and brought the greatest number of comments.

The bid of the Michigan National Bank of Grand Rapids of 2.85 per cent, being the lowest of three received, was accepted for tax anticipation notes in the amount of $100,000. The First State Bank submitted a bid of 2.98 per cent and Citizens' Commercial and Savings Bank of Flint, 3.19 per cent. The district must borrow against taxes that will be due beginning Dec. 1 in order to underwrite the cost of operating the schools until funds from taxes and State Aid become available.

Since August the district has had to borrow $425,000 including $300,000 in tax anticipation notes and $125,000 in State Aid Notes. The Charlevoix district receives only 12 per cent of its revenue from State Aid.

The board voted to give the Barnard Grange a quit claim deed to property described currently on the tax roll as belonging to the Charlevoix Public Schools which, in fact, belongs to the Barnard Grange. The original transaction between the school and the Grange took place in the late 1940's. The Grange, however, never received a deed for the property which is less than three acres.

The board also voted to list the Building Trades house in Hampton Village with a realty company rather than accept bids on it. It was felt that the house should be listed as soon as possible because an early listing would be more advantageous to both parties.

Closed circuit television was discussed briefly. A Grand Rapids company asked the administration and board members come to Grand Rapids at the company's expense. However, it was decided to advise the company of what the school was interested in seeing and have them and a second company exhibit their equipment at the Dec. 11 meeting.

Maureen Wallace, student representative on the board, speaking in behalf of the baccalaureate, was discontinued.

She said the class had been polled last week and that in a vote of 51-25 the students had voted against having the baccalaureate.

Council Asks Estimate on Dam Repairs

The City Council agreed Monday night to ask the R. S. Scott Engineering Co. of Alpena for an estimate on the cost of repairing one of the overflow structures at the city-owned hydro-electric generating plant in Bellaire.

The action came after receipt of a letter from the Department of Natural Resources dated Nov. 15 claiming the dam is in hazardous condition. "The safety of lives and property downstream are endangered," wrote Dale W. Granger, chief of the Hydrological Survey Division. "We respectfully request that the City of Charlevoix make the necessary repairs or remove the dam completely."

The letter reaffirmed a verbal recommendation concerning the 90-year-old dam delivered by the DNR at a public meeting in Bellaire Oct. 31.

Since then, City Administrator Thomas G. Hanna has had both turbines at the plant operating full-tilt in order to lower the level of Intermediate Lake, easing the threat to downstream residents.

At one point, the level of the lake had dropped four feet. Since then the flow has been slowed and the level has risen slightly.

Antrim County Commissioner Ordon Hietilthy, who lives below the dam on Bellaire River, and Carl Dunsen, who lives above the dam on Intermediate Lake, attended the meeting in an unofficial capacity, although they said they would report back to their board.

Neither appeared particularly concerned about the dam problems, although they pointed out that the fluctuating water level has created an odor nuisance along the shores of Intermediate Lake. They also expressed concern for others, muskrats, wild geese and other animals which make their home in and around the headwaters.

Joe Gates, a property owner on Lake Ellsworth, said the water level in front of his home has dropped two feet. He fears that the Chain-O-Lakes will not be navigable if the water drops much lower.

Hanna reported that tests this week show the easterly overflow structure is most

B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, announced a stay has been granted allowing Michigan to continue enforcing higher comminuted meat laws.

"This is only a temporary victory," Ball said. "We will now continue our appeal through the Attorney General's office to the U.S. Supreme Court in an effort to maintain our high standards."

In the meantime, we will be able to protect Michigan consumers."

Ball said retail meat counters in Michigan will soon be displaying signs which identify companies whose sausages and other meat products meet the Michigan Department of Agriculture's high standards for "Michigan Grade 1." Signs are being distributed by Michigan sausage manufacturers.

Ball advised consumers to take these precautionary measures when buying comminuted meats: "Look for the identifying sign at your retail meat counter; 'Look for packages carrying the 'Michigan Grade 1' emblem; 'Where this emblem is not shown, be sure to read the label, which will identify animal by-products if they are present.'"

"Michigan Grade 1" identifies products made only from fresh skeletal meat, with no animal by-products permitted, no added water or cereal. The products must contain at least 12 percent protein.

Federal standards for comminuted meats permit the addition of such by-products as snouts, stomachs, lips, ears, spleens, salivary glands and esophagi. There is no minimum protein requirement, and the products may contain up to 10 percent added water. Cereal fillers and concentrated soya protein are also permitted.

Ball said his department has been inundated with phone calls and letters from concerned consumers in Michigan and people as far away as Oregon, New York and California. "It's turning into a consumer crusade," he declared.

Ball said much of the consumers' outrage is directed toward Armour, Hormel and Wilson, the three large out-of-state meat packers who filed suit in federal court in an attempt to force Michigan's higher standards down to the minimum federal requirements.

DUMBO, the playful elephant with wing-like ears, once again will amble down Woodward ave. In Detroit in the J. L. Hudson Co.'s Thanksgiving Day Parade. More than half a million people line the parade route and additional millions see the parade every Thanksgiving morning via television. This year's parade will be broadcast over CBS-TV, beginning at 10:25 a.m. The program will be carried on Channel 9 in the Charlevoix area.

A Smoke-Breathing Dragon To Huff and Puff in Parade

With eyes that twirl and smoke shooting from its mouth, a huge, brightly colored dragon will wind its way down Woodward Avenue, highlighting this year's Thanksgiving Day Santa Parade sponsored by The J.L. Hudson Co. "Dragon, a Long," a 120 foot creature clothed in yellow, green, lavender and red will be accompanied by forty Moslem Temple Shrines in authentic oriental costumes, composing the Oriental Band. Their music will depict the "Far East" theme of this colorful parade unit while eight big dragonfly heads and 24 marchers complete the setting. They're all part of the 46th annual parade which will feature 18 floats, 11 bands, over 2,000 marchers, clowns, baton twirlers, unicyclists and funny cars. Nearly 400,000 people are expected to line Detroit's Woodward Avenue on Nov. 23 to see the parade. Millions more across the nation will watch live television color coverage on CBS-TV starting at 10:25 a.m. Ted Knight, featured on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," and Marilyn Van Debur, popular television personality, will narrate. The parade begins at 9:20 a.m. at Woodward and Putnam, with the first units arriving at the front of Hudson's at 10:15 a.m. The 45-minute parade breaks up at Woodward and Fort. The lineup of new floats includes a mushroom patch complete with trampoline acrobats performing among many varieties of floral beauty, an orange and white candy-striped kitty grinning from the limbs of a purple tree, one huge walrus decked in top hat and tails, a whopper of a helicopter, the dragon, and a friendly octopus which is this year's winner of the Detroit Public Schools float design contest. Besides floats there are 11 bands in this year's march. Michigan bands include those from Detroit, Highland Park, Monroe, Washington, Hazel Park, Crosswell, Redford and Franklin Village. Out of state bands are from Clarence, New York and Massillon, Ohio. Additional groups are: —The "Classics," a team of six 13 and 14 year-old girls from East Detroit and St. Clair Shores, Michigan, who are national baton champions. —The Marauders Drum and Bugle Corps from Royal Oak, Michigan. —The Detroit Mounted Police Division. —The Clown units — Zai Gaz Grotto Clowns of Ann Arbor, Michigan, 20 "Clowns of America," Alley No. 1 and 12 clowns from Za-Hir-U-Din Ladies Oriental Shrine. —Maslin Temple Motorcycle Unit from Detroit, Michigan and highly customized cars. —Moslem Temple Shrines Oriental Band from Detroit, Michigan. —The Carol Kimmel Dancers of Royal Oak, Michigan. —10 unicyclists from Pontiac, Michigan. —Two pairs of 1972 U.S. and World Champion Roller Skaters — Ron and Gail Bobovitski from Troy, Michigan. Ed Bourke Tells How Santa Met Him

Ray Klama, catechism teacher at St. Mary's School, asked his students to write about the most unforgettable character they had ever met. The following essay recalling an encounter with Santa Claus was submitted by Ed Bourke: UNFORGETTABLE MAN By Ed Bourke "When I was six, my daddy and mommy got my brother and I into the car and told us we were going for a ride, which couldn't have pleased us more. We both loved the car. After leaving our Madison Heights home we came to downtown Detroit. This was around Christmas time and the streets were decorated beautifully, lot of bulbs, lights and Christmas trees. My mommy wanted to do some shopping, so we went into Hudson's. My brother and I had no idea, but my daddy had a big surprise in store for us. We got into an elevator and went up, up, up. When we got out the sign read: "Santa's Toy Land." Naturally, we got very excited. After walking around looking at all the amazing displays we went into a little dimly lighted room and who was sitting there but Santa himself! My little brother got so excited he started crying, and wouldn't even go sit on his lap. But I was a big boy and I wasn't scared. When he started talking to me, I just sat there stunned, listening intently. Santa actually had the pleasure of meeting me! He was so kind, gentle, sweet and he had a soft, deep voice. But most of all he brought me what I asked him for. Every year after that I couldn't wait to go see him again. He was my idol!"

SEAT BELTS COULD SAVE 15,000 LIVES

What is the leading cause of death among young people? If you say cancer, food poisoning, snakebite or Vietnam, forget it. But score one for your side if you answered the automobile. For traffic accidents are the biggest killer of people between the ages of 1 and 34. The Department of Transportation estimates 58,000 people will die before the stroke of midnight on New Year's Eve, making 1972 the grimmest year in history. Sadly, nine out of ten motorists have the cure for this epidemic at their fingertips. If 80 percent of us used the lap and shoulder belts in our automobiles, as many as 15,000 people might not be killed each year. But safety experts have yet to figure out why so many of us risk our lives, disfigurement, dismemberment or death rather than buckle up. The National Safety Council reports fewer than 40 percent use lap belts and less than five percent their shoulder straps. That's why several states are considering laws to require motorists to buckle up. They would have us use the belts in our cars or face the penalty of the law — just as people who speed, run through red lights, or drive while drunk. And no doubt about it, such laws are effective. In Victoria, Australia, traffic deaths dropped 24 percent and belt use climbed to 75 percent in urban areas during the first nine months the law was on the books. Mandatory use laws seem to be the alternative to another federally-sponsored safety gimmick — the inflatable air bag. While these show some promise, they have not been proved effective or reliable. And the White House Office of Science and Technology says they'll add $300 to the price of a new car. Better buckle up now.

Donald Fettig's Death Underscores Gun Safety

Once again deer hunting season is taking its grim toll of human life. The latest victim is Donald Fettig, 26, of Boyne City who was found dead with a bullet wound in the back late Sunday evening in Evangeline Township. The search for Mr. Fettig was started at dark by Conservation officers and State Police when he failed to return from a hunting trip. His death is still under investigation. Elsewhere in Michigan, hunters have fallen victim to gunshot wounds and heart attacks, bringing the toll for the week-old season to about 12. The deer season still has more than a week to run. And there is still time to practice all of the gun-safety rules you learned as a boy—but have somehow forgotten. Above all, make sure you know what you're shooting at. A white flash could be a serap of human apparel, as well as a white tail. Not all movement in the woods is caused by wild animals. Take particular care climbing fences and slogging through deep underbrush. Your weapon has a safety. Use it. Treat your weapon with respect and it will respect you. Furthermore, if you ordinarily lead a sedentary life, don't over-exert. A coronary occlusion can be just as fatal as a rifle slug.

If it Fit

By JIM FITZGERALD
I phoned a doctor but he wouldn't talk to me until I assured him I wasn't sick. Read that again. Sounds strange, when you think about it, doesn't it? But you wouldn't have to think about it if I said: "I phoned an Oldsmobile dealer but he wouldn't talk to me until I assured him I didn't want to buy an Oldsmobile."

You'd know right off that the Olds dealer was nuts, or at least sleeping with Ralph Nader. Car dealers want to sell cars, don't they?

Yeah. But doctors want to sell their medical services, don't they? You bet. But, you see, it's not like the old days when a doctor grabbed at your appendix as quick as he could. He

Sees Need For Planning In Charlevoix

Dear Sir: Though born in Charlevoix and now back in it, I have lived in various sections of the country, having the chance to observe some things which make me sorry that there always seems to be so much objection to planning and zoning commissions. Anyone who watched the "Miracle Mile" in Tucson and McKnight Road in Pittsburgh become what they are through lack of planning, the one a garish kaleidoscope of commercialism the other that, too, and also dangerous because it was not made limited-access from the start, has a tendency to want these matters thought out in advance. Corrections can be made, but they are agonizingly slow. There are people who vote "no" on everything, others who want rampant individualism, if it is their own. This may be a survival from pioneer days, but look around you, pioneer days are gone, and the need for solutions creep up on a community sooner than realized, and then it is too late. Our environment has been partly slaughtered, but with good nourishment from the right representative and aware bodies it can survive in good part. Let us quit objecting. Yours truly, Louise Bush Bettner 420 Antrim-st. Charlevoix, Mich.

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

If I had been able to distinguish lemon sherbet from butter 19 years ago, I might have been cheering right along with the rest of the financial community last Tuesday when the Dow Jones Industrials broke 1,000 for the first time in history. As it was, the Clock household didn't even hear about the big news on Wall Street until we read about it in the Detroit Free Press Wednesday morning. In case you missed it, on Nov. 14 the D-J industrial average, the stock market's bellwether indicator, closed above 1,000 for the first time in its 44-year history. The 30 D-J industrial stock prices rose 6.09 points, finishing the session at 1,003.15. "This is the greatest day in history," enthused someone named Ralph Acampora, an analyst with Harris, Upham & Co. But because of the lemon sherbet and butter, I'm just going to have to take Ralph's word for it and try to be happy because he's happy. OK, so what do lemon sherbet and butter have to do with the stock market? I'll tell you, but it might make me blush. It was the winter of 1953 and was fresh out of the Army after two years in Japan and working on my first fulltime job on a statewide daily newspaper, the Pontiac Press. I was making the lordly sum of $50 a week and had the world by the tail. I had paid cash for a used 1947 Ford out of my Army savings, I was a bachelor, living at home, and my expenses were just about nil. And $50 a week went a long, long way in 1953. In fact, I ended the week with money to burn. Needless to say, my happy financial situation didn't escape the attention of my co-workers, including our wire editor, Mrs. Gemma Striffler. Stock Clubs were all the rage in those days, and Gemma belonged to one of the first clubs in Pontiac. One day she drew me aside and suggested that if I had any money to spare I should start investing it in the stock market. In fact, she thought a stock club should be formed among employees of the Pontiac Press so that we all could invest our savings together and make a killing on the market. I was game for just about anything in those days, so I agreed to attend a supper meeting at her home the following evening with two of her fancy stock broker friends from Detroit. They would tell me all about stock clubs and then I would go about recruiting members among employees of our editorial and advertising departments. I arrived at Gemma's home in exclusive Indian Village at the appointed hour and found myself in the presence of two very distinguished gentlemen in grey flannel suits, grey flannel shirts, and grey flannel ties. I was wearing my khakis, with the corporal's stripes removed. Before dinner, the two distinguished gentlemen gave me a brief run-down on the history of stock clubs, how they are organized and how they function. About 90 percent of what they said went over my head, but I nodded agreeably and tried to look intelligent. I didn't know a dividend from an overdrift but I never let on. After we had drained out cocktail glasses, Gemma invited us into the dining room where a dinner of braised chicken breasts, baked potatoes and green beans almandine was waiting. There also was a big basket of hot rolls and before each place setting was a little dish with a mound of yellow butter in the middle. When the rolls were passed, I broke mine open, slathered the insides with a dollop of butter from my little dish and took a bite. To my horror, I discovered that the butter was lemon sherbet. I glanced nervously around the table and noticed two pairs of grey flannel eyes riveted on me and my roll. Rather than admit to a faux pas, I finished the rest of my roll, which was now soggy with melted sherbet, and tried to pretend that I always ate hot rolls with sherbet smeared all over my face. The grey flannel eyes exchanged puzzled looks and the rest of the meal proceeded without incident. However, the two distinguished visitors never again broached the subject of my starting a stock club at the Pontiac Press. When I arrived home that night, my mother explained that in fancy homes a little dish of sherbet is often served with the meal to cool the palate between courses. So that is how I missed my big opportunity to become a big wheel in the stock market. I might have been cheering right along with the rest of Wall Street when the Dow Jones Industrials broke 1,000 last week if butter and lemon sherbet didn't look so darn much alike.

There Is No Dr. Welby

Dr. Hippocratic's day off and he isn't taking calls. "I guarantee I am not sick. I don't have the slightest temperature. I haven't missed a day's work in 15 years," I pleaded. "Now can I please talk to the doctor?" He finally came to the phone. "This is Dr. Marcus Welby," I told him. "I was flying over your town with the window open and I heard someone sneeze. Someone in this city is sick and I won't be able to sleep until I find him and cure him. I thought maybe you could help me search." "This is a recorded message," said Dr. Hippocratic. "There is no Dr. Welby. He is an actor named Robert Young. . . There is no Dr. Welby. . . There is no Dr. Welby. . . There is no Dr. Welby. . ."

State Indians Lose Right To Unrestricted Fishing

A permanent injunction stopping all Michigan Indians from unrestricted fishing in Michigan waters was granted on Nov. 10 by Ottawa County Circuit Court Judge Raymond L. Smith. The injunction was sought by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

The MUCC filed the suit under the Michigan Environmental Protection Act on Aug. 2, 1971, after Indians began fishing commercially in open defiance of the Department of Natural Resources' zone management and limited entry plan.

The case was handled for MUCC by Robert Gillette, Grand Rapids attorney with the firm of Wheeler, Upham, Bryant and Uhl.

The Indians, in particular Donald and Jacob Anthony, claimed they had treaty rights which granted this unrestricted privilege, following a Michigan Supreme Court decision in the case of People vs. Jondreau. However, Judge Smith in his five-page opinion ruled that any fishing rights accorded the Indians, specifically the Ottawa and Chippewa tribes under the Treaty of 1836, were released by the Treaty of 1855. The lone exception was those fishing rights in the Treaty of 1820, at the Falls of St. Marys, Sault Ste. Marie. Further, Judge Smith ruled that the plaintiffs had supplied the court with abundant proof that regulation of fishing on the Great Lakes is necessary for conservation of the fish population.

"This is a major victory for the continued protection of our natural resources," said Louis B. Michalski, president of the MUCC. This was the reason the MUCC was founded and the reason we had to tackle the problem.

"We realize that we have to use our natural resources, both renewable and non-renewable, but we must use them wisely. We cannot afford to allow one segment of our society to gain financial advantages at the cost of others. The fish of Michigan are a public trust and must be treated as such."

What happens when you're offered $18,000 for your $24,200 pile of ashes?

You take it if you haven't increased your home insurance to keep pace with inflation.

This is the kind of problem you could face if you bought and insured your home for $18,000 in 1963. See me to find out if your home is insured for its full value. Two Great Ways To Prepare Turkey

The young tender turkey available today requires less preparation and roasting time than in grandmother's day. And, methods of cooking are numerous. The home economists at Reynolds Aluminum suggest two great ways to roast your holiday turkey.

Full Test Turkey Method

Line a shallow roasting pan with Reynolds Wrap and place thawed turkey on a rack in the pan. Brush all over with soft butter or margarine. Roast in a preheated 325°F. oven according to the following timetable.

Ready-to-cook weight	Oven temperature	Meat thermometer temperature	Total Cooking Time (Hours approximate)
6-8 pounds	325°F.	185°F.	3 to 3 1/2
8-12 "	"	"	3 1/2 to 4 1/2
12-16 "	"	"	4 1/2 to 5 1/2
16-20 "	"	"	5 1/2 to 6 1/2
20-24 "	"	"	6 1/2 to 7

Cooking time is based on chilled poultry or poultry that has just been thawed—temperature not above 40°F.

When turkey is lightly brown, cover with a "tent" of foil. To make tent: tear off a sheet of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap 5 to 10 inches longer than bird. Crease through center and place over bird. Hold in place by crimping it lightly at breast and over drumsticks. This keeps turkey moist without basting and prevents overbrowning. Snip the string holding drumsticks during last hour of roasting so heat penetrates inside of thighs.

Oven Bag Turkey Method

Shake one tablespoon flour in empty turkey size Brown-In-Bag oven cooking bag and place in two-inch deep roasting pan. Brush thawed turkey with soft butter or margarine and sprinkle with seasonings. Slide turkey into oven bag. Secure bag with twist tie and make six half-inch slits in top of bag. Cook in a preheated 350°F. oven according to the following timetable.

Ready-to-cook weight	Oven temperature	Meat thermometer temperature	Unstuffed	Stuffed
8-12 pounds	350°F.	185°F.	2 1/2 to 3 hrs.	2 to 2 1/2 hrs.
12-15 "	"	"	3 to 3 1/2 hrs.	2 1/2 to 3 hrs.
15-20 "	"	"	3 1/2 to 4 hrs.	3 to 3 1/2 hrs.

Library Notes

The Big Day is drawing closer and closer, and parents and aunts and grandparents are searching around for under-the-tree gifts for those special youngsters on their lists.

There are some delightful new juvenile books in the Library to be examined and read, and one or two of them may prove to be just the very books you'd like to purchase.

"The Wild Hunt of the Ghost Hounds" by Penelope Lively is an absorbing and lovely story which deals with the revival of an ancient dance to be used in a church festival. When Lucy Clough visits her aunt for the summer, she becomes involved in the dance. What happens when Lucy is unable to stop the Horn Dance makes this a shivery and exciting story for the 10 to 12-year age group.

"Blackberry's Kitten" by Leatrice Cooper is a beautifully illustrated little book, and the title explains everything we need to know about it.

"The Farthest Shore" by Ursula K. Le Guin is a Junior Literary Guild selection, chosen as an outstanding book for the pre-teen group. It is an imaginary book about an imaginary country inhabited by imaginary people.

"Flight of the White Wolf" by Mel Ellis will appeal to both boys and girls, and especially those youngsters who love to read a story about a boy and his dog, only this time it's a story about a boy and Gray, the white wolf he raised from a pup. There are wonderfully detailed descriptions of Wisconsin wild life. It offers high adventure told in an easy-to-read style. "Banc's Lake" by Nan Hayden Agle is the story of an 11-year-old inventor who buys a chicken house and part of an acre of land for $6.85. It all seems too good to be true until he learns that very soon his property will all be under water because of a new flood control project. Bancy launches a campaign to save his property, and the reader will just have to read the book to find out what happens.

Board Buys Bus From Barnes

The following actions were taken by the Charlevoix Board of Education at its Nov. 13 meeting:

The purchase of a 66-passenger school bus with an International chassis and a Superior body at a cost of $10,205 from Bryce Barnes of Eastport was approved. The purchase of the bus at this time was necessary because of an overload. This will bring the fleet to 14 buses.

Approval was given a purchase agreement executed by James R. Morris to purchase the Building Trades house in Hampton Village.

The recommendation that a position of assistant High School principal be established for the 1973-74 school year and that the superintendent be directed to post the position was approved. The position will require a Master's degree with emphasis on school administration, curriculum and guidance. The criteria for an assistant principal is a ratio of 1-500 enrollment. Charlevoix's enrollment has passed the 500 mark.

The board voted to contribute $10 to the Central Michigan School Administration Research Association which will meet at Higgins Lake Conservation Camp on Dec. 3-4.

The Rev. Duane Imig and Larry Warner presented reports on the recent MAB convention and Supt. Robert Miller, Vane Smith, High School principal, Edwin Crook, Condit Drury, Karen Hines and Mrs. Carolyn DeMoor presented reports on various phases of the "Made in Michigan" conference held earlier this fall.

Business Gifts Pose Problems

True, it's more blessed to give than to receive. It's also harder. Particularly when selecting business gifts.

According to the Specialty Advertising Association International, specialty advertising considers give the following "Do's" when buying and distributing gifts.

—Keep gifts of modest value in relation to the importance of each recipient.

—Choose gifts individually, considering the tastes of each recipient.

—Select only high-quality gifts that are useful, durable, and dependable, or that the recipient's family can enjoy, like candy or nuts.

—Personalize each gift, if possible, with the recipient's name or initials.

Sgt. David Goldstick Claims Bride at Hale

Elizabeth Schalm of Hale became the bride of Sgt. David Goldstick of Charlevoix in ceremonies Nov. 11 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Hale, the Rev. Duane Albers officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schalm of Hale. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Goldstick of Charlevoix.

The couple repeated their vows before their parents and a large group of friends. The bride wore a floor-length gown with white crepe bodice, long fitted sleeves and a full skirt of purple crepe. The bridegroom wore a white tuxedo with white bow tie and white shirt.

Before the ceremony, the organist Mrs. Bill Holzheuer played a program of traditional music from Bach as well as Lara's Theme.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white bonded lace gown which she designed and fashioned. It featured a floor-length full skirt with natural waistline and fitted bodice with high collar. The long illusion sleeves were caught at the wrists with wide cuffs of matching lace. Tiny blue buttons accented the bodice and cuffs and blue ribbon outlined the waist. The floor-length veil of illusion was held by a satin headband and she carried a bouquet of white carnations with long streamers.

The bride's only attendant was Maid of Honor Alice Perry of Tawas City. Her gown was fashioned of pale blue crepe with a full, floor-length skirt, long full sleeves

FHA Holds Bowling Party

By Regina Borthe
The F.H.A. Club met Nov. 13 to discuss a bowling party which was held the following night at Paul Duryan Lane. The group also discussed buying decorations for the Christmas Tree that they put up every year at the High School. They assigned committees to check on them.

The Club has purchased a polaroid to take pictures for a scrapbook.

It was decided that since most of the clubs and classes are trying to earn money at the present time, that F.H.A. would wait until after the New Year before they would start any money-making projects.

Borths-Himebauch Rites Solemnized

Margaret Ann Borths became the bride of Kenneth Himebauch in double-ring ceremonies Nov. 11 at the First Baptist Church in Charlevoix, the Rev. John F. Call officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Borths of Charlevoix. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Himebauch of Charlevoix.

About 200 guests attended the ceremony, which was performed before an altar decorated with vases of mums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long-sleeved gown with a lace bodice, veil and train. She carried a bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, white carnations and Fuji mums.

Mrs. Daniel Louselle was organist and Mrs. Bernie Ward Jr. sang "I Love You Truly."

Hemingway Landmarks Still Abound in Area

The following article on "Hemingway's Michigan" was prepared by the Michigan Tourist Council.

Traditionally, the symbol of love has been closely associated with the third finger of the left hand. It seems appropriate, therefore, that the site of Michigan's most tender love affair lies near the tip of the "ring finger" of its mitten, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

The lover was Ernest Miller Hemingway. The object of his affection was the rugged, untamed beauty, white capped lakes and abundant wildlife of lower Michigan's north country. The courtship began during the summers of his boyhood and continues through the years of early manhood.

NICK ADAMS
Like many young lovers, Hemingway was attracted by the excitement and mysteries and charms of other climes, but although he went a'wooing, his first love remained deep and abiding. It might be said that Nick Adams, the fictional, cavalier adventure, was the child of that young romance.

Hemingway used his Michigan north country as the setting for many of Nick Adams' exploits - as well as other stories - perhaps to perpetuate his "love story."

Much has changed since the young man who was to become one of America's most dynamic literary figures, swapped years with friends at McCarthy's Barber Shop in Petoskey. However, the wonders of nature that impressed, influenced and inspired him - remain relatively unchanged.

Horton's Bay also remains very much as it was when young Ernest, war hero, married Hadley Richardson in the little white church. Although the church is gone, the shelves of the village store are still well stocked, the Red Fox Inn is still serving tomato pudding to appreciative patrons, and trout still play in Horton's Creek.

WINDERMERE WAITS
Windermere, summer home of the Hemingway family, where Ernest and Hadley spent their honeymoon, still watches the changing moods of Walloon Lake.

Spring fed Walloon Lake has 54 miles of shoreline trimmed with high hills and trees in great profusion. It's beauty and population of lake trout are as attractive to vacationers today as they were to Dr. Clarence E. Hemingway and his wife Grace when they decided to make it their summer home in 1900.

Grace Hall Hemingway was so taken by the changeable character of the lake's aqua clear waters, she wrote "Lovely Walloon", a song that never made the hit parade, but had sustaining popularity at Windermere. It is still played and sung at Windermere whenever "Sunny" - fourth of the six Hemingway heirs and present mistress of the historical home - relaxes at the piano.

AND MARKS
In Petoskey, Hemingway devotees will find several landmarks closely associated with the famous author and all visitors will find much to explore and enjoy. It is a small, tourist-oriented town, but it cannot be called "typical." For one thing, Petoskey has a particularly clean, well kept appearance. For another, it boasts a most unique - and very chic - shopping area. Brightly painted shops accented with striped awnings and flower boxes overflowing with blossoms in summer smudge tightly together along streets dotted with gaslights. It's a shoppers' paradise, offering literally everything imaginable from bread dough dolls to imported cashmere jackets for men; designer fashions to Ouzo boards; original paintings and imported gourmet foods to gifts of straw and two whole stores of games and toys. Summer seamen and fishermen find the waters of Little Traverse Bay and marina of Petoskey and Harbor Springs most inviting. In winter, the area becomes a mecca for ski and snowmobile enthusiasts.

Harbor Springs has the deepest natural harbor on the Great Lakes and accommodates large fleets of motor and sailing craft. It was also the first permanent Indian settlement in the region.

INDIAN LORE
Thirty-one miles north is Cross Village, a significant landmark in Michigan history, rich in Indian lore. A white cross stands on a high bluff overlooking Lake Michigan where, it is said, Father Marquette came ashore some three centuries ago bringing Christianity to the Indians.

Further north, the tree of prayer, or cross, stands on this spot resulting in the Indians naming the area Anamieauing, the tree of prayer, or cross.

The route for Harbor Springs to Cross Village along West of Petoskey, on US-31, is the city of Charlevoix situated on Lake Michigan, Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix. Once the elite summer retreat of Chicago's wealthy, it is now one of Michigan's most popular resort areas for both summer and winter sports activities. It is also the embarkation point for historically famous Beaver Island, once a Mormon kingdom ruled by James Jesse Strang.

THE BEAVERS
Following "King" Strang's death in 1850, and the forced evacuation of the Mormons from the island, Beaver became populated by Irish immigrants whose descendants dominate the population today. Quite tellingly, it is often referred to as Michigan's Emerald Isle.

For those who dream of a quiet island haven abundant with rugged, unspoiled beauty, surrounded by blue sky and sparkling waters, where time is measured by the changing seasons rather than the tick of the clock, Beaver Island could well be the fulfillment. It's material assets include fine accommodations, white sand beaches, good fishing and hunting and friendly Irish hospitality.

BOYNE CITY
A trip to Hemingway country should include a visit to Boyne City at the southern end of Lake Charlevoix. A gracious summer resort, a story book winter wonderland and domain of one of Michigan's most popular delicacies, the morel mushroom.

Another area to note on the literary is scenic Jordan Valley, not only pleasing to the eye, but also soothing to the spirit. Float and fishing trips on the Jordan River, by canoe or flat bottomed boats, are a favorite recreation enjoyed by visitors to the area.

For "Papa's" enthusiastic admirers, a trip "up in Hemingway's Michigan" can be a sentimental journey. Here are the rivers and streams and lakes, the woodlands and wildlife and wild beauty he loved so well. Here are many of the scenes and places he described so often.

For the casual vacationer, it will be a beautiful interlude of pleasant days filled with sights and sounds, experiences and adventures that will follow him home and nag to be repeated.

Ernest Hemingway does not rest in Michigan, but his spirit rises from his loved one's breast. A handsome birch tree grows strong and tall in the yard at Windermere, planted there for him by his favorite sister, "Sunny". As the tree grows, so was the man.

SHEILAH BRADY places Christmas cards in display rack of The Park Place, which offers an attractive assortment of holiday greetings and wrapping paper as well as gift items.

IT MAY BE cold outside, but it's warm inside these attractive winter sports jackets now available for Christmas at Portside Sports.

First Yule Seals Saved TB Hospital

Michigan families are currently receiving their 1972 Christmas Seals, according to Walter A. Meier, MD, Monroe, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. The seals have become such a Christmas tradition that many families may have forgotten how the seals originated.

Back in 1907, he said, a concerned Delaware woman named Emily Bissel sought ways of raising funds to prevent the closing of a TB hospital. She developed the first American Christmas Seal and sold it to raise the necessary money.

The TB hospital remained open. And every year since then the seals have been recognized as the symbol of the fight against TB and other breathing diseases.

Up through 1918 the seals featured the American Red Cross. In 1919 the seal bore the red cross and, for the first time, the Cross of Lorraine. In 1920, and every year since, the now familiar double-barred cross has graced each and every Christmas Seal and symbolized the unrelenting battle against TB, emphysema, and air pollution. When you see the little red double-barred cross, Meier said, you can be sure your contributions are at work helping the partnership of the national, state and local TB-RD associations do more in the fight for better health.

They make possible hospital and university research in the search for the cure and prevention of respiratory diseases; they help provide statewide seminars to educate doctors, nurses, and interested professionals to the new developments in the field; they help promote support of legislation for better health education and stricter anti-pollution controls; they sponsor emphysema clinics and smoking withdrawal clinics; and they help develop and promote newer and better methods of TB control in the state of Michigan.

This year, he urged, do more for Christmas Seals, because Christmas Seals do more for you.

TRIM shells for sports and casual wear are in stock at the Top Drawer, opening this week on Park Ave., in Charlevoix. Here proprietor Suzi Kassel adds a light-weight white jacket to the rack.

BRUCE MEGGISON, a salesman for Portside Sports, reports that the shop has a wide range of skis in stock for the upcoming ski season. This pair of Hovels promises to be a big seller this Christmas.

CHRISTINE Osterberg models hand-made wollen poncho available at Bit of Finland on Bridge St. The shop also specializes in the Finnish glassware and dinnerware and decorative Finnish wall hangings.

Bake Some Special Gifts

A gift from your kitchen with love may be the most appreciated gift of all. Golden West Fruit Cakes is so moist and flavorful that you may bake it as late as ten days before Christmas. Roasted almonds, added immovably to the appetizing appeal of this holiday delight. Sliced almonds provide texture contrast in the cake, and whole blanched almonds with bits of candied fruit make festive decorations. Remove them from the oven when they begin to turn golden.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Davis of Detroit are spending several days during this hunting season in their local farm home. They were guests on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Roy Meyers.

A short business meeting was held during the morning Church Service Sunday to make the final plans to install a new oil burning furnace in the church which will be more dependable and economical, and capable of heating both the upstairs and downstairs at the same time. The new furnace also will protect the plumbing during the winter. We feel that this has become a necessity for the church.

Several of our local Senior Citizens attended the Thanksgiving meeting and dinner given by the Senior Citizens in Charlevoix Thursday evening.

The chief topic of conversation is Deer Hunting but with far less enthusiasm than in former years. There just aren't the deer we used to see in the fields and roadsides. Perhaps the severe winters we have had lately has made it hard for them to find food. Others may have been killed by dogs. Possibly too many does have been taken from the herd. I hope these animals will not become extinct through man's carelessness and selfishness.

Mr. and Mrs. William Peck are spending the winter in their home in Stuart, Fla.

religious service which is usually held the Sunday evening prior to graduation.

She said the vote represented approximately 75 percent of the class with the remaining 25 absent for the hunting season. She added, however, that a vote with seniors present would do little to alter the students' decision.

She concluded by saying that all churches have special services honoring their graduates and the students feel this is more meaningful than the Baccalaureate service.

A group of local residents, opposed to discontinuing the service, was present. Roger Key compared the students to employees who voted not to participate in a company project; Charles Elzinga, a member of the board, spoke against the proposal while the Rev. Duane Irig, another member of the board, said that as a Lutheran he could not participate in the service and neither could his parishioners. He said, however, that students of the Lutheran faith have done so rather than make an issue of it.

Clement J. Wagner, a Roman Catholic, said much the same thing.

City Student Is Honored At Bowdoin

Dana A. Dinwiddie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Darrell Dinwiddie, 807 Dixon-ave., was one of three students from Michigan to be designated James Bowdoin Scholars at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me.

They were among 14 undergraduates who received the honorary scholarships for their academic achievements.

Dr. Roger Howell Jr., president of Bowdoin, presented the scholarships during traditional James Bowdoin Day ceremonies in Pickard Theater, Memorial Hall, on the campus of Maine's oldest college.

Honorary James Bowdoin Scholarships are given annually to members of the college's upper three classes in recognition of high scholarship.

Don Brown, also a board member, said he was shocked by the request and Mrs. Lieberman added that it would be doing away with a tradition. Lisa Woski, president of the Student Council, said that it seemed to be a question whether it was something the community wanted rather than what the students wanted. She added that in this instance, the minority seemed to be ruling.

The argument that students without a church affiliation appreciate the service because their parents don't go to church was presented.

Numerous others spoke out against the proposed action though several students felt the feeling of the majority of the class deserved recognition.

Donelson advised that the issue be tabled until the Dec. 11 meeting. The board approved his recommendation.

August in November

WITH CHARLEVOIX'S changeable weather, you don't know which way to turn. On Thursday, architect Jack Begrow went skiing at Boyne Mountain on Man-made and natural snow. Friday, the temperature zoomed up under sunny skies and Begrow decided the weather was just right for a sail on Round Lake. The city had its first measurable snow Tuesday, Nov. 21, when about three inches fell on the city, calling out city plows. A few miles out of the city there was virtually no accumulation.

24,820 County Acres In Oil, Gas Rights Sale

The Department of Natural Resources announced that it will seek lease bids for state oil and gas rights covering about 196,000 acres in 31 Lower Michigan counties at a public sale scheduled to open Dec. 11 in Lansing's Civic Center.

The sale includes oil and gas rights on 24,820 acres of land in Charlevoix County, according to DNR Lands Chief Robert G. Wood.

The sale, subject to final action by the Natural Resources Commission, will involve about 115,500 acres which are to be offered for possible oil and gas development and nearly 81,000 acres zoned against any such operations.

Under the Commission's environmentally protective zoning controls, the sale's non-development listing will completely cover some 40,400 acres of state park, recreation, and wildlife lands to be offered for leasing in Allegan, Barry, Calhoun, Eaton, Hillsdale, Ingham, Ionia, Jackson, Livingston, and Muskegon counties of southern Michigan.

The oil is located in what geologists call the Niagara Formation.

Before drilling began, the company conducted seven seismic (underground explosion) and "thumper" tests on the property, Annear said, in order to determine where to drill. He said the "thumper" test involved the use of a machine equipped with huge "elephant feet" which pound the earth to reveal the character of subterranean formations.

The reliability of most oil location tests in Michigan is questionable because deposits are usually covered by hundreds of feet of glacial debris.

Annear said he and his wife bought 80 acres in Otsego County's Hayes Township four years ago to be used for hunting, fishing and outdoor recreation.

Since Annear owns mineral rights to the land, he will receive a royalty on every barrel of oil produced.

Annear is teaching a course in "Practical Geology" this year at East Jordan High School.

Downtown Businessmen Tackle Parking Problem

Group Bones Up For Zoning Meet

Downtown businessmen held their second meeting in two weeks Monday night at the First State Bank community room to discuss what can be done to provide more parking spaces in the business district.

But Monday's meeting took an unexpected turn when the group decided to meet again Thursday night to review the proposed multiple-family dwelling section of the city's zoning ordinance in preparation for public hearing next Monday night at 8 p.m. at the City Hall on the new section.

The businessmen are particularly interested in parking provisions.

They also will study a recommendation by architect Jack Begrow that provision be made for both residential and commercial development in the downtown district, possibly a combination of both in the same structure.

Begrow pointed out that the people who buy condominiums are the same people who like to walk to shops and restaurants.

"If they get in their cars, they're off to Petoskey or someplace else," he said.

Monday's meeting was chaired by Jerald Redeker, president of the First State Bank.

Tom Merta, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, reported that he had met Saturday with John Dinan, a parking expert from Farmington, who reviewed the parking situation and returned home with a briefcase full of statistics on Charlevoix's anticipated growth and development.

Merta said Dinan has promised his recommendations on the financing of downtown parking before the end of the week. Dinan's $700 fee will be underwritten by the group.

East Jordan Educator Strikes Oil in Otsego

The Michigan Oil Co. has struck oil on property owned by Keith Annear of East Jordan in Section 32 of Otsego County, near the village of Waters.

Annear, former principal of East Jordan High School, said the company struck oil at 6,422 feet and continued another 400 feet.

He said the well is rated as "A-1" and the company is completing the final operations this week to put it into production.

The oil is located in what geologists call the Niagara Formation.

Before drilling began, the company conducted seven seismic (underground explosion) and "thumper" tests on the property, Annear said, in order to determine where to drill. He said the "thumper" test involved the use of a machine equipped with huge "elephant feet" which pound the earth to reveal the character of subterranean formations.

Since Annear owns mineral rights to the land, he will receive a royalty on every barrel of oil produced.

DOWNTOWN businessmen held their second meeting of the month Monday night in an effort to seek solutions to Charlevoix's parking problems. The meeting was chaired by Jerald Redeker, head table, center. The group also is interested in a new section to the city zoning ordinance covering multiple-family dwellings. The group will meet again on the new section Thursday at 7 p.m. at the First State Bank in preparation for a public hearing Monday, Dec. 4, at 8 p.m. at the City Hall.

Portair Plaza Handling State Lottery Winnings

Michigan Lottery winners will be able to claim their prizes at any one of more than 200 designated branch offices of the Secretary of State, beginning after the first Lottery drawing in Detroit on Friday.

Charlevoix area winners may pick up their prizes at the Secretary of State's office at the Portair Plaza on U.S. 31 South. The first week's numbers were 130 and 544.

Lottery Commissioner Gus Harrison said that persons holding tickets which are determined to be winners in Friday's or subsequent drawings should take those tickets to the nearest Secretary of State Office which has been designated as a Lottery Claims Center. A list of those locations is attached.

"We have no way of knowing here in Lansing who holds the lucky tickets. There is no record of who purchased the ticket. It's up to the ticket holder to turn that ticket in at a Claims Center to collect his prize," Commissioner Harrison said.

Harrison noted that tickets can be claimed anytime within one year after the date of the drawing in which the ticket qualified for a prize. The drawing date is indicated on each ticket, and the ticket is good only for that drawing.

Those who hold $25 winning tickets must go to a Claims Center turn in their ticket and fill out a brief form, which is returned to Lansing for validation. Once a claim is verified, we send a $25 check to the winner. The check stub, remember, contains a new number which could win that

Here's What Zoning Hearing Is All About

The City Council will hold a hearing at 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 4, for review by the public of additions to the zoning ordinance governing multiple-family dwellings.

The proposed groundrules for the construction of condominiums and apartment buildings were drawn up this summer by a group of local businessmen and professional people headed by Tom Duke.

Duke had wanted a completely new zoning ordinance submitted by the planning firm Williams and Works of Grand Rapids to be reviewed at the hearing, along with a master plan of the city and a zoning map. But advertisements for the Dec. 4 meeting specified only the multiple-family dwelling portion of the revised ordinance.

At the last council session, March 5 was the date set for a public meeting on the entire ordinance, the master plan, and the zoning map.

The new section of the ordinance is "Chapter VII - R-4 Planned Residential Zone." Under the ordinance "no-residential" shall be zoned for R-4 use if there exists in the area sought to be zoned any residential, industrial, or other use which would be nonconforming with the uses permitted under the terms of this section."

However, the council is permitted to zone for R-4 if the developer guarantees the removal or discontinuance of nonconforming uses. The ordinance discourages the use of old-shed tracts of land.

Not more than 15 dwelling units per acre shall be permitted and units shall average at least 780 square feet of living area.

Not more than 15 percent of the area shall be occupied by residential buildings.

If the front yard is to be used for parking, the setback is 75 feet, the first 25 feet of which must be landscaped. If the front yard is not used for parking, the setback is 40 feet. Abutting sideyard setback for residential and agricultural area is 50 feet and from commercial and industrial property 80 feet.

Distance between buildings shall be at least twice the height of the taller building.

Not less than two and one-half off-street automobile parking spaces will be required.

All developments must be served by public sewage and water systems.

Developers will be encouraged to preserve such natural features as woods and streams and to provide community areas, laundry facilities, and playgrounds.

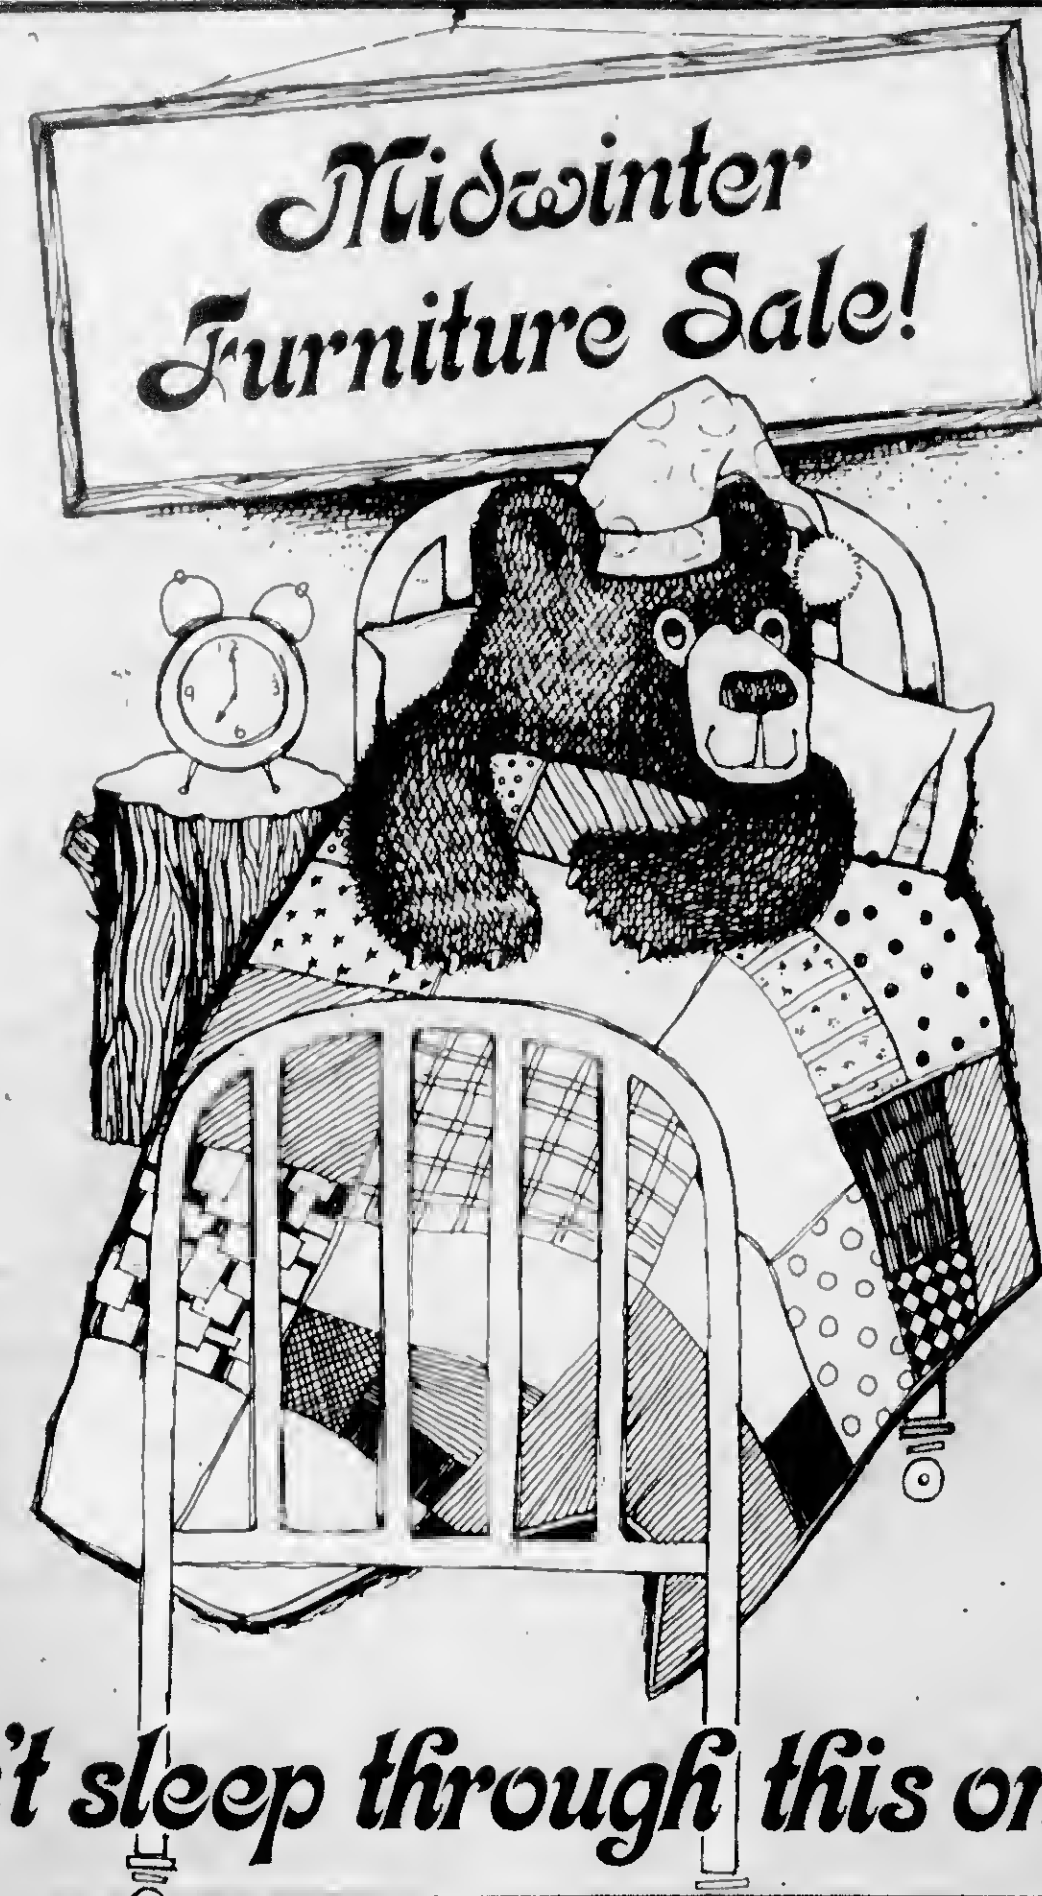

The ordinance also spells out what type of information the developer must submit to the city before plans are approved.

As most of you know, the County Zoning Program received approval from the State Department of Commerce on October 24, 1972. This sets the effective date at October 25, 1972.

To follow up on that action, applications for zoning permits and other zoning related activities have been printed and the program is now in force.

ENVIRONMENT STUDY
This program, funded by a grant from the Housing and Urban Development Agency, is progressing on schedule. On Nov. 2, a work program was held at the County Building to pull together the Consultants and the different people from the area having direct concern with environment-related programs.

As a result of that workshop, the consultants have now a complete list of data inputs, and are working in the direction of completing the preliminary draft of the environmental guidelines.

Reservations should be made before Dec. 7 with Esther L. Cole, 708 Jackson St., Apartment 3, Petoskey, Mich. 49770. Telephone 347-6447. Checks should be sent to Ms Cole before Dec. 7.

Deadline for plates being ordered by mail is Feb. 10, 1973. The deadline for having 1973 plates on passenger cars and motorcycles is April 1.

Between 500,000 and 750,000 license plate orders are expected to be filled by mail, more than double last year's 300,000 tab sale by mail. Last year was the first time plates were sold by mail, and the deadline request was December 31, 40 days earlier than this time.

"These sales aren't expected to reduce long lines that occur the final week of sales in March when approximately one in seven vehicle owners buy 1973 plates," Ratke points out. "The mailing probably will remitance to the Secretary of State, P.O. Box 1000, Lansing, Michigan, 48904.

City Council

November 20, 1972

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Aldermen Present: GILL, Selph, Sundberg, Supernaw, Timms and Fochtman. Absent: None.

The minutes of the November 6, 1972 meeting were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Mr. Deane Elph was present to request a conditional building permit for Chet of Charlevoix, subject to the decision on the sewers. He asked for a poll of the Council to determine if there are other objections to the issuance of the permit. The Mayor took the poll, asking the members for their objections. Aldermen Supernaw, Timms, Selph, Fochtman, and Gill voiced no objection if it conforms with Zoning Ordinance and the sewer decision. Alderman Sundberg voiced his objection as being against multiple housing.

Mr. Tom Duke appeared to request that Council set another date for the Public Hearing since the October 23, 1972 minutes did not convey the full intent of the hearing in that the purpose was not defined to review the entire zoning text, master plan and map. He suggested that another date be set giving the citizens an opportunity to review it.

Motion was offered by Alderman Supernaw and supported by Alderman Fochtman, the date of March 5, 1973 be set for a Public Hearing to consider the Zoning Ordinance as presented by the Citizen's Committee and the Zoning Map and Master Plan as prepared by Williams & Works and that the City Attorney be instructed to make the necessary statutory outline of procedures for this hearing (advertising, publication, etc.). The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote: Yeas: Aldermen Gill, Selph, Sundberg, Supernaw, Timms, and Fochtman. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Correspondence dated November 15, 1972 from the Department of Natural Resources regarding the Belleaire Dam and also a letter from R.S. Scott Engineering Company dated November 10, 1972 were discussed. A motion was made by Alderman Sundberg and supported by Alderman Gill that the City of Charlevoix enlist the services of the R.S. Scott Engineering Company to determine the feasibility of repairing the Easterly overflow of the Belleaire Dam; their work to consist of detailed investigation of the structure in question, sounding of the river bottom above the dam, and preparation of reports and drawings as requested by the Department of Natural Resources. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote: Yeas: Aldermen Gill, Selph, Sundberg, Supernaw, Timms, and Fochtman. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Collect 41.6 Million Eggs

Department of Natural Resources workers have completed collection of 41.6 million salmon and trout eggs in the northern Lower Peninsula.

Collection points on the Little Manistee and Platte Rivers produced 15.3 million coho salmon eggs. In addition, the Little Manistee yielded 11.5 million chinook salmon eggs.

DNR workers collected 9.4 million rainbow trout eggs from the Harrietta Fish Hatchery. They took 4 million brown trout eggs from the same hatchery and 100,000 from Thunder Bay Lake trout captured in Lake Michigan at Charlevoix and Leland gave up 13 million eggs.

The eggs will be used to raise salmon and trout to provide continued excellent sport fishing in Michigan lakes and streams.

Snowmobile Trails Get Grooming Gear

A demonstration of Michigan's new snowmobile trail grooming equipment will be conducted at the Department of Natural Resources Forest Fire Experiment Station in Roscommon on Wednesday, Nov. 29, at 9:30 a.m.

The six ski-doers and groomers to be delivered to the station will be the first ever purchased by the State. Three other similar units are being acquired for use in the Upper Peninsula. Acquisition of this equipment will enable Michigan to strengthen its position as the leading state in the nation in snowmobile trail maintenance. Michigan, with more snowmobilers than any other state, is believed to be the only state using this equipment for snowmobilers.

The trail maintenance units cost nearly $14,000 apiece and consist of a tractor-like ski-dozer which pulls a grader, or trail groomer, that is six and a half feet wide. The groomer levels and packs snow to provide a smooth track for snowmobilers. The equipment is being purchased with recreation bond funds and revenue from snowmobile registration fees.

The dozers and groomers will be used on the more than 800 miles of trails maintained by the State throughout the northern Lower Peninsula and Upper Peninsula.

District Court

The following cases were heard in Charlevoix last week by District Court Judge W. Richard Smith:

Steve Brutt, 22, Sault Ste. Marie, demanded examination on two counts of malicious destruction of property (felony and misdemeanor). Bond of $500 was not furnished and the case was continued.

Robert L. LaMothe, 20, Sault Ste. Marie, demanded examination on a charge of malicious destruction of property (felony). Bond of $500 was not posted and the case was continued.

Mildred Ann McCabe, 17, Sault Ste. Marie, demanded examination on a charge of malicious destruction of property (felony). Bond of $500 was furnished and the case was continued.

John High, 49, Petoskey was sentenced to six days in the county jail on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He was given credit for time served.

Alfred Laskie, 21, Boyne Falls, demanded examination on a charge of uttering and publishing. The court will appoint an attorney and Laskie was released on personal recognizance. Trial will be held later.

That's the advice of a Central Michigan University audiologist who has been researching the effects of snowmobile noise on hearing for the past two years.

Dr. Fred Bess of the CMU Area of Communication Disorders stirred snowmobile enthusiasts two years ago when he reported that the noise of their vehicles could cause permanent hearing impairment.

Snowmobile noise is worse than most other recreational vehicles, Bess explained, because the snowmobile exhaust is placed directly in front of the operator, making the noise output at ear level appreciably louder.

And recent noise control regulations are of little help, Bess says, because they are designed to reduce the annoyance factor for people at 50 feet from the vehicles. The noise level for the driver or passenger still exceeds safe limits in the majority of machines.

The noise control regulations, in other words, permit you to impair your hearing without bothering others as much.

Two previous studies by Bess and his CMU colleagues have received national attention. Now Bess and Denis Gale and John Aarni-two former CMU graduates students in audiology—are back with research project testing the effectiveness of the protection provided by two popular helmets and by custom ear protectors.

Snowmobile Noise May Cause Loss of Hearing

Their conclusion: recreational headgear does not protect the ear from excessive noise level. Helmet manufacturer's don't intend for them to.

"Helmet manufacturers admittedly design their product for the express purpose of crash and wind protection and give little or no consideration to their noise attenuation capabilities," Bess says.

To conduct their study, Bess and his associates tested subjects with a medium to expensive helmet ($35 to $40), with a cheap helmet ($10), with custom ear protection, and with the expensive helmet and custom ear protector at the same time.

Both helmets covered the ears completely. The better one provided good padding while the cheaper one provided considerably less padding. The custom ear protector was a silicone putty that quickly cured into a durable rubber and took about 15 seconds to insert.

The helmets provided almost no noise protection at all, although the more expensive model was slightly better than the cheaper one. The custom ear protector was significantly more effective than the two helmets at all frequencies but one.

And the combination of the better helmet and the custom ear protector was the most effective of all, providing adequate protection to keep noise levels reaching the ears below the damage-risk factor.

"The research confirms our suspicions that the recreational helmet provides little ear protection from noise levels," says Bess, himself a snowmobile enthusiast.

What's a snowmobiler to do?

Buy some sort of ear plug and wear it with your helmet, Bess advises.

"There are numerous kinds of insert-type protectors, varying in size, shape and material that are on the market and can be used successfully with a helmet," he says.

"Most of the soft rubber or plastic plugs come in a variety of sizes to fit almost any ear canal. Custom ear protectors molded to individual canals are also acceptable, but the cost is somewhat greater and the attenuation is thought to be less than a well-designed molded rubber or plastic plug."

Cotton, wool, paper and other insert-type devices are considered inadequate, he says.

Bess adds that helmet price does not appear to be an important factor in providing noise protection, but what little protection is provided by a helmet will be improved by proper fit.

The tests on helmets were conducted with 10 subjects, male and female, ranging in age from 20 to 31 years. The tests took place in CMU's audiology laboratories.

Zoning Hearing Offers You Voice in Future

With the arrival of the condominium, Charlevoix is in for a period of growth and development unprecedented in its long history.

But that growth and development could prove to be chaotic unless the city adopts a set of guidelines to insure that the new multiple-family dwellings do not place unnecessary stress on the community at large.

Charlevoix must remain Charlevoix - the beautiful, regardless of the changes that take place.

That is why it behooves every interested citizen to show up at a public hearing next Monday night, Dec. 4, to review zoning proposals for multiple-family dwellings.

To date, the City Council has tackled problems relative to the many condominium and apartment projects proposed for the city on an individual basis. There is little in the present zoning ordinance that is of much assistance in determining how many parking spaces should be provided per unit or how many units should be permitted per acre.

Last summer, Mayor Edward Hansen appointed a committee of local residents headed by Tom Duke to study the problem and come up with recommendations. It is the report of Duke's committee which will be on the table Monday night for your personal and suggestions.

It is in the cards that Charlevoix must grow. And we believe that multiple-family dwellings provide the best means of providing housing for large numbers of people -- in town -- without destroying the wilderness around us.

For our money, it is better to have our new residents housed within municipalities where sewage treatment facilities and adequate water supplies are available rather than have them scattered hither and yon across the landscape.

But condominium and apartment building developers deserve a set of guidelines to help them in the construction of attractive, livable dwellings.

You can lend your voice to the future of Charlevoix by attending the public hearing on multiple-family dwellings next Monday night.

Businessmen Zero In On Downtown Parking

It is no secret that the parking situation in downtown Charlevoix is growing more acute with every passing year.

Time was when parking posed a problem only during the summer months. But with the increase in year-round residents, coupled with the fact that more and more "summer people" are extending their residencies well into the fall, the scarcity of parking spaces is something we must live with a good portion of the year.

But help is at hand.

Downtown businessmen met Nov. 13 to discuss the problems and see what can be done. A second meeting was scheduled for Nov. 27.

Q. Since Proposal C was defeated in the November election, what will happen to school financing? G.L., Petoskey.

A. As did the people of California, Colorado and Oregon, Michigan residents have served notice that they aren't ready to abandon property taxes for educational purposes in favor of unlimited income taxes.

By a margin of almost a half million votes, they rejected Proposal C which was designed to shift the school tax burden from local to statewide sources and primarily from property to income.

In this rather emphatic way, they tossed the problem of providing more equal financing of education back into the laps of the Legislature.

In essence, they seemed to be saying: "It isn't the property taxes that are wrong -- it's the way the money for education is distributed that is wrong."

Even more emphatically, the people turned thumbs down by a margin of more than a million votes on a proposal to substitute a graduated income tax for a flat rate income tax.

This all leaves the matter of equality of educational financing pretty much in the situation it was before the Michigan Educational Association started its petition drive to get Proposal C on the ballot.

There is a possibility, of course, that the Michigan Supreme Court will now legislate what the people have turned down by ruling that property taxes for educational purposes are unconstitutional.

Some other state courts already have done this and it appears to be the "in" thing for socially-oriented courts to do these days.

The question really boils down to this: "If people of one community refuse to provide enough money for the education of their own children through taxes, should it be up to the people of other communities to provide the extra money needed?"

A good example is Detroit. Already $80 million in the hole for school purposes, Detroit residents have just defeated for the third time a five-mill property tax for the operation of their schools.

Detroit residents now pay only 15.51 mills ($15.51 per thousand of assessed valuation on their property) for school operating purposes. This is the lowest rate of any metropolitan area in the State.

Other school districts are paying up to 38 mills to support their local schools. Should people of these districts have to pay to educate Detroit children?

It is an extremely complex problem -- one that school people and legislators have been wrestling with for years. And, after last week's election, it is still with us.

No one can pinpoint for certain the reasons Proposal C was rejected. But many believe part of the opposition came from the people's longtime hatred of the Federal Income Tax.

Many feared reliance on a statewide school tax would eliminate what little local control of school systems remains.

And, beneath the surface, many feared that if the State financed all education, it could order cross-district busing and taxpayers would have no way to fight back.

Regardless of the reasons, the people have sent school financing back to the State. Your questions and comments are always welcome and may be addressed to: State Senator Robert W. Davis, State Capitol, Lansing, MI 48902.

Dear Bob:

I am enclosing a check for Courier subscription and also greetings from Florida. We were very much surprised to see the Board of Education discussion regarding Baccalaureate Service.

I will not repeat the arguments presented but feel the dignity and seriousness of graduation are being questioned. It is true the different churches have a service for their members but a Community Service for all adds a depth of feeling to the place of religion in the hearts of everyone.

I wish to commend Donald Brown and Jane Lieberman for their position and feel they represent the true thought of the Community.

Yours truly,

National Geographic Feature

When Louis S.B. Leakey was 13, he was initiated into Africa's Kikuyu tribe as "Wakurugi, 'Son of the Sparrow Hawk'."

Tribal elders taught the young hawk the virtues of patience and observation. The Kikuyu training served Dr. Leakey well. At the time of his death on Oct. 1, years of patient observation had made him one of the world's leading anthropologists and paleontologists.

He and his wife, Mary, pushed back the horizons of prehistory by many hundreds of thousands of years and cast new light on man's origins.

Dr. Melvin M. Payne, president of the National Geographic Society, who had worked closely with Dr. Leakey since the Society began sponsoring his work in 1959, praised him as a "modern counterpart of the Renaissance's 'universal man.'"

EXPERT IN MANY FIELDS
Dr. Leakey was a professional ornithologist, mammalogist, and general zoologist. He conducted a medical dispensary for his country dwellers who lived near the site of his main excavations. He was an expert in African languages and wrote a grammar of the Kikuyu language.

Above all, however, Dr. Leakey was a fossil hunter. Dr. Leonard Carmichael, chairman of the Society's Committee for Research and Exploration, called him "one of the world's leading students of fossil African animals and especially of human paleontology and the origin of man."

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

I imagine neighbors and passersby on the street are amused every evening to see the Clock tribe sit down to dinner by the light of a kerosene lamp. You heard me right. A kerosene lamp.

We have in the middle of our dining room table a genuine, bonafide kerosene lamp with a ruby-red base and a cream colored hob-nailed shade that fits snugly over the chimney.

And we use it almost every night. Dinner guests are invariably stunned that we should make use of such an outmoded piece of lighting equipment in this Year of Our Lord 1972, particularly when we have a perfectly good electric chandelier hanging over the dinner table. If you filled all of the sockets with bulbs you could light an operating room.

But that, I guess, is precisely why we never use our overhead light, unless it is absolutely necessary. Some things in life -- like eating -- don't require 500 watts and never will. I'm not sure what our kids think

If it Fits

By JIM FITZGERALD

If you're honest, you'll admit advertising has often prompted you to buy a certain product. But you know whose idea it was that you take Alka Seltzer after winning the pie eating contest?

Or, to be more timely, let's say you voted for Nixon because you didn't want McGovern to dump 40 percent of Nixon's lead soldiers. Whose brilliant idea was that TV commercial showing McGovern playing with Nixon's toys?

Candidates don't have time to create their own ads or write their own speeches. Your lumpers owe their stickers to shadowy men behind the scenes. Who are these masked men? You may soon know.

A few days after election, this ad appeared in Detroit newspapers: "Congratulations, Judge Charles L. Levin . . . We are proud to have been your advertising agency. Simons-Michelson Co. Advertising."

Thus the world learned who put Levin on the Michigan Supreme Court.

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Disgruntled employees, even though receiving a dollar for a 12-hour work-day, often accused the lumber barons of shifty practices. In truth it was their very honesty which resulted in meager profits to the owners. Being as hard-headed as a hemlock knot, they could never admit that words were only general terms rather than anything specific.

A 2 by 4 had to be dressed to those dimensions and be strong enough to roof rafters. The term 2 by 4 has been conveniently preserved, with truth in advertising obligingly ignored, in marketing today's 1½ by 3½ barrel staves. Modern math antiquated and multiplication tables with a new formula: 2 by 4 equals 1½ by 3½. It is as simple as that.

The owners of cedar shingle mills likewise contributed to their own downfall by providing a product which would neither rot nor blow off in a hundred years. Those poor misguided souls denied buyers the privilege of frequently replacing merchandise which is designed not to wear out, burn up, or fall apart until the day after the final installment payment.

Had the stubborn farmer of that day delved in modern math he, too, would have prospered. Somewhere in folklore he learned that a bushel of potatoes was 60 pounds, to which he added a heaping measure. The bushel basket went the way of the gunny sack when we put 60 pounds into a 50-pound paper bag for the supermarkets.

When we adopt the metric system a 2 by 4 will become 3.175 cm by 8.25 cm and a bushel will become 20 kilograms.

Why ntipiek about words? Why, indeed? After all "hoodwink" is just another word.

We've Been Around For 2 Million Years, Archeologist Learns

In Africa, survival depends upon your reaction to irregularities in your surroundings. A torn leaf, a paw print, a bush that rustles when there is no breeze, a sudden quiet -- these are the signals that spell the difference between life and death.

"The same instant recognition of something different -- a glint of white in the face of a cliff, an off-shaped pebble, a tiny fragment of bone -- leads to the discovery of fossils."

"And patience. I can still hear the Kikuyu elders telling the boys of my age over and over: 'Be patient, be careful, don't hurry. Try again and again and again.'"

Dr. Leakey learned his lessons well. He and his wife worked at Olduvai Gorge, a weathered gash on the edge of Tanzania's Serengeti Plain, for more than 20 years before detecting their first human fossils.

The Leakeys, in combing promising sites, did not give up if the first search proved unsuccessful. Dr. Leakey once described fossil hunting in a National Geographic article:

PAINTSKATING HUNT

"It consists of crawling up and down the slopes of a gorge, eyes barely inches from the ground, stopping at the slightest fragment of a fossil bone or stone implement."

Dr. Leakey became interested in prehistory as a boy when he found stone arrowheads and tools in Kenya -- generally after heavy rainstorms. Dr. Leakey was convinced that the tools

I was always struck by the unburied graciousness of the many dinner hours I've spent in farm kitchens heated by wood ranges and lighted only by kerosene lamps.

I guess that's something of the aura I'm trying to recreate with an oil lamp on our dining table. It's a daily reminder that the space age actually isn't so far removed from the quiet past when the tempo of living was slower and folks had time to savor the simple things of life.

In another sense, our table lamp is a gentle protest on my part against the glaring, impermanent contrivances of modern times that try to pose as progress when they are really nothing of the sort.

Some things from the past are worth preserving, and, for my money, the oil lamp is one of them.

East Jordan to Honor Fr. Joe This Sunday

Sunday, Dec. 10, will be "Fr. Joseph J. Malinowski Day" in East Jordan.

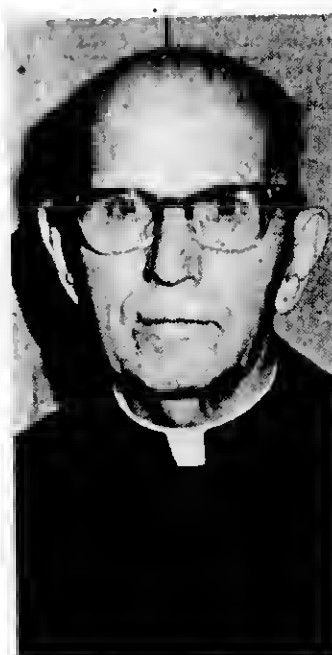

A community-wide celebration is being planned at East Jordan High School starting at 2:30 p.m. to honor the patriarch of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church — founded in 1897, the year Fr. Malinowski was born.

Fr. Malinowski retired from the ministry Dec. 1 after serving as pastor of St. Joseph's for more than 40 years.

The celebration will include a "This Is Your Life" type of program with former altar boys and other close associates taking part. Rev. Chandler Benton, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in East Jordan, is in charge.

Mrs. John Vincent is preparing a book of congratulatory notes and letters and Tom Sheridan is accepting donations for a "money tree" to be presented to the retiring churchman.

Fr. Malinowski was born at Erie, Pa., Nov. 28, 1897, the son of Jacob and Catherine Malinowski. He attended St. Stanislaus Church in Erie where he was baptized,

FR. JOSEPH MALINOWSKI received his first Holy Communion, was confirmed and attended school.

In September, 1912, he became a member of the first class to enter St. John Kanty College in Erie, receiving his degree with the first graduating class five years later.

He completed his philosophy and theology courses at S.S. Cyril and Methodus Seminary in Orchard Lake, Mich., and was ordained into priesthood Feb. 11, 1923, by the late Bishop Edward Kelly in St. Joseph Seminary, Grand Rapids.

As a young priest, he served as assistant at Visitation Parish in Bay City, assistant at St. Michael's Church in Muskegon, taught at Catholic Central High School and Mount Mercy Academy in Grand Rapids and served as administrator at Saginaw and Ludington.

On Nov. 27, 1931, he was appointed pastor of St. Joseph Church in East Jordan, with missions in Bellaire and in the Bohemian settlement.

Fr. Malinowski has played an active role in the civic life of East Jordan during his long tenure as pastor of St. Joseph Church. He helped maintain the East Jordan Honor Roll during World War II, served on the Northern Michigan Office of Price Administration (OPA) Board and served two years as chairman of the local Boy Scout committee.

In July, 1945, he became dean of the Gaylord District, covering Gaylord, Mancelona, Grayling, Elmira, Charlevoix, Boyne City, Beaver Island and East Jordan. However he

Tight New Rules Effective Jan. 2

Stringent new zoning regulations governing multiple-family dwellings in Charlevoix were approved unanimously Monday night by the City Council at the conclusion of a two-hour public hearing attended by about 60 persons.

The crowd was one of the largest ever to attend a City Council meeting.

The ordinance governing condominiums, apartment buildings and other structures housing four or more families was adopted virtually as it was submitted to the council several weeks ago by Tom Duke.

Duke headed a blue-ribbon committee named by Mayor Edward Hansen last summer to study multiple-family dwellings and come up with recommendations to guide both the council and land developers.

During the past 12 months, the council has grappled with a raft of problems relative to a boom in condominiums in the city. About 200 units are either completed, under construction or on the drawing board at present.

The ordinance takes effect 20 days after publication, which should make the effective date Jan. 2, 1973.

Most of the changes written into the ordinance were minor in nature, serving to tighten up the language or make certain sections more specific.

For example, a section on building heights originally read "No building shall exceed the height of 35 feet of exposed surface measured vertically." This was changed to read "No portion of any building or appurtenances shall exceed the height of 35 feet of exposed surface measured vertically."

The rewording eliminates the possibility of air conditioning units or other structures from being placed on the rooftops of multiple family dwellings. The time lapse between the rezoning of a parcel of land to R-4 (multiple-family) and the start of construction also was shortened from one year to six months. If construction is not started, the property reverts to its original zoning status.

The council also agreed to require developers to submit a current boundary and topographical survey of their land to the city for approval. It also insisted that developers be given a written Chest Reaches 95 Pct.

The Charlevoix Community Chest has reached 95 percent of its goal, or $19,000, Chest officers report.

However, with all collecting units in, they don't know where they are going to get another $1,000 to make the $20,000 goal.

The professional division, headed by Barbara Berlage; the Charlevoix residential, headed by Judy Cockfield; the summer residential division, headed by Charles Duerr; and the industrial and commercial division, headed by Thomas LaBlanc, are all up to goal, according to John Lachman.

He said the deficit is in the outlying residential division which has no general chairman this year.

He urges persons living outside the city who haven't been contacted to send their donations to General Chairman Gordon Wellman at the Charlevoix County State Bank.

Although the drive to date is five percent shy of its goal, Lachman said all benefitting agencies will receive their pledged amounts from Chest reserves.

CHARLEVOIX'S Christmas decorations are in-place welcoming shoppers to the city. The lights were strung last week by the city light crews.

City-Wide Carol Sing Is Dec. 10

A Christmas Carol Sing sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association will be held at the Congregation Church in Charlevoix from 3:30 until 5:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 10.

Children of all ages, and adults, too, are invited to take part. Rev. John Call of the First Baptist Church will be on hand with his guitar. Mrs. Paul Donnelly will play the piano and Mrs. Robert Tollas will act as leader.

Refreshments will be provided by the churches of Charlevoix.

Persons wishing to take part in the program should call their local pastor or telephone Mrs. Tollas at 547-9479.

4-H's Plan Yule Party

Charlevoix 4-H's will have a Christmas party and pollock dinner Sunday, Dec. 10, at the Charlevoix Elementary School, from 2 until 5 p.m.

Mrs. Fettig Faces Conspiracy Charge

Mrs. Lillie Lou Fettig, 25, of Boyne City, has been charged with conspiracy to commit murder in the shooting death of her husband, Donald Fettig, 29, on Nov. 19 in Evangeline Township.

The same charge has been brought against Larry R. Fitzpatrick, 24, Boyne City, who also is charged with first degree murder in Fettig's death.

A petite brunette and the mother of three children, Mrs. Fettig demanded examination when she appeared before District Court Judge W. Richard Smith last Wednesday. Date of the examination was not set. She was released on $10,000 bond.

She will be represented on the conspiracy charge by attorney Stephen B. Graham of Petoskey.

Fitzpatrick also appeared in court Wednesday to demand examination on the conspiracy count. He is represented by attorney Jack Carpenter of Petoskey.

Fitzpatrick's arraignment was set for 9:30 a.m. Dec. 14 on both charges. Although bond of $10,000 was set on conspiracy count, Fitzpatrick was returned to the Charlevoix County Jail because the first degree murder charge is not bondable.

Fettig was found dead with a bullet wound in the back in an open field in Evangeline Township at 11:15 p.m. Nov. 19 by tracking dogs from the Cheboygan State Police Post.

He had been reported missing three and one-half hours earlier after he failed to return from a deer hunting expedition.

Fettig was employed as an electrician by the Petoskey Electric Motor Service. He had three children, Mark, 6; Allen, 1; and Susie, 3.

He and the former Lillie Hughey of Harbor Springs were married June 12, 1965.

Yule Hours

Beginning Dec. 14, Charlevoix stores will stay open until 9 p.m. until Christmas, according to Tom Merta, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce.

HUNDREDS of persons turned out Sunday for dedication ceremonies marking the opening of the Charlevoix County State Bank's branch on M-66, just east of U.S. 31.

MRS. MICHAEL (Ellen) Hamlin, R.N., retired Nov. 29 from Charlevoix Hospital where she has been a nurse for 41 years. Mrs. Hamlin (center above) is flanked by Mrs. Nathan Boss, R.N., chief of nursing, the Hospital Administrator Richard Krueger as she cuts her retirement cake. Mrs. Hamlin came to Charlevoix in 1931 after graduation from St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing in Marquette. At that time, the hospital employed three nurses who worked 12-hour shifts. Her wages were $80 a month, plus room and board. Mrs. Hamlin took a five-year leave of absence when her daughter, Ginny, was born. Since returning, she has been employed as an OR supervisor scrub nurse.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy R. Smith

Sandra Cellner Wed At Ironton Church

Red poinsettia and evergreen and lighted tapers graced the altar of the Ironton Congregational Church Saturday evening for the wedding of Sandra Cellner and Guy R. Smith.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Cellner and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Smith. The Rev. F. Gordon Milchinson officiated at the double-ring service in the presence of more than 100 guests. Lighted red tapers and evergreens marked the windows of the community church. Joel Dyksterhouse, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and accompanied Marlene Cunningham who sang the "Lord's Prayer" and the theme from "Love Story".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white tulle for her wedding. White cotton lace accented the bodice, the cuffs of the Juliet sleeves and the nylon pleated band at the hem of the full skirt. A band of the same lace secured her shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and red roses.

Mrs. William Goldsmith of Clarion was her sister's matron of honor and another sister, Laurie Cellner, was bridesmaid. They wore identical Victorian style gowns of green tulle flared in white and fashioned with high necklines and long sleeves. Each carried a single red rose tied with Christmas green and white streamers.

Gary Phipps assisted the bridegroom as best man. Robert Dyksterhouse was groomsmen. William Goldsmith of Clarion, brother-in-law of the bride, and Swain Smith, brother of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

Mrs. Cellner selected a pink double knit dress styled with long sleeves and matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. A corsage of white carnations and daisies, pink carnations completed her costume. Mrs. Smith, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gold polyester gown with gold lace yoke and long sleeves and matching accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses and white carnations.

A reception for 200 guests followed at the V.F.W. Post Home. Assisting were Mrs. Leo Massey and Kathy Massey of Boyne Falls, aunt and cousin, respectively, of the bride, who served the cake, and Mrs. Albert Miller who served punch. Penny Massey of Boyne Falls tended the guest book and Virginia Saunders, Judy Pitter and Sandy Way presided at the gift table.

After a wedding trip through the South, the couple will live

THE CHARLEVOIX County State Bank dedicated its new Robert Bridge Branch on M-66 Sunday afternoon with a ribbon cutting followed by coffee and cookies. The branch offers a drive-up window as well as three indoor teller windows. Left, top, a blanket of fresh snow arrived Saturday in time for the dedication. Attending the dedication (lower left) were the following bank officers: (From left) Executive Vice President Gordon Wellman, Director E. James Hiller, Director E. Darrell Dinwiddie, President E.D. (Pat) Hawley, Vice President and Cashier Maurice J. Foster, and Director G.B. Saltonstall, M.D. Upper right, Mayor Edward Hansen cuts ribbon of $1 bills across doorway, officially opening the bank as Hawley and Mrs. Robert (Marian) Bridge look on. Lower right, Hawley recalls the late Robert Bridge's many contributions to Charlevoix as Mrs. Bridge listens.

Bank Has Had Four Names in Its Long History

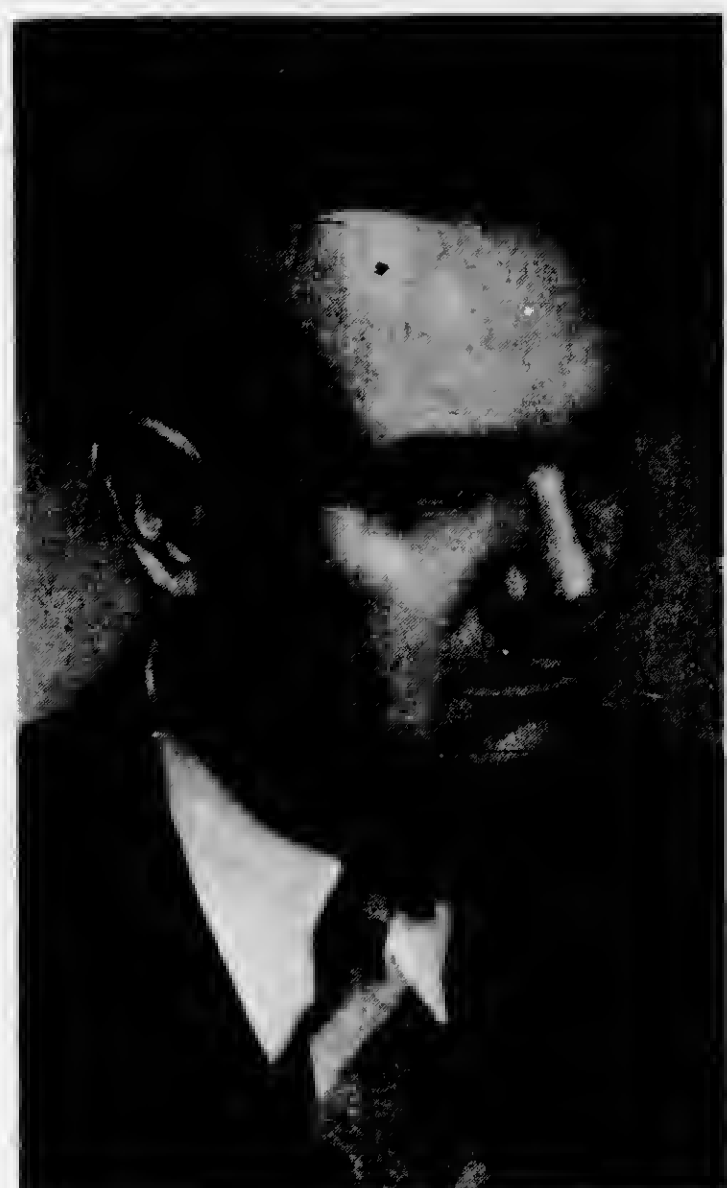

The Charlevoix County State Bank - "The Bank on the Corner" to most Charlevoixans - had four names in its 89 year history. According to scrapbooks on the bank kept by Mrs. Marian Bridge, widow of the late Robert Bridge who was president of the bank from 1935 until his death in 1965, the bank was first organized under the name of Farmers and Merchants Bank in 1883 by the late Archibald Butters. However, the bank officially dates its founding one year later, 1884. A native of England, Butters immigrated to the United States as a young man and became one of northern Michigan's foremost merchants and businessmen, with retail businesses in Northport, Petoskey and Charlevoix. In 1885, Butters changed the name of the bank to the Charlevoix Savings Bank. Four years later, in 1889, John and Harry Nicholls and Fremont Lewis entered the partnership, and the bank was reorganized, starting business Jan. 2, 1890, as the Charlevoix County Bank. About the same time, John Nicholls' son-in-law, A.P. Bridge, joined the bank and for the next 40 years the bank was owned and operated by Butters, Nicholls and Bridge. When Michigan Gov. William Comstock declared a bank holiday in January of 1933, County Bank was still solvent, but closed briefly to comply with state regulations. However by October of the same year, the picture has changed radically. The bank management called a meeting of depositors for Oct. 31, 1933, and invited Prentiss Brown of St. Ignace to come to Charlevoix to explain how the bank's financial plight was linked to the nation's faltering economy. "Mr. Brown spoke for a long time" Mrs. Bridge recalls, "and the room was so quiet you could hear a pin drop. Then Mr. Brown asked if there were any questions. One man raised his hand and asked: "What can we do to help?" Depositors accepted a small loss on their deposits and the bank started reorganizing immediately, accepting deposits with a guaranteed 100 percent return. The bank officially reopened Feb. 24, 1934, as the Charlevoix County State Savings Bank. The words "State" added to the name and all deposits were guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The black days of the Depression were beginning to brighten in Charlevoix.

Hawley Recalls Role Played by Robert Bridge

The Robert Bridge branch of the Charlevoix County State Bank is now open for business near the junction of M-66, Marion Center rd. and U.S. 31. Literally hundreds of Charlevoix area residents visited the branch during open house Sunday to see Mayor Edward Hansen cut a ribbon of one dollar bills across the doorway, view the premises and join their friends and neighbors for coffee and cookies. Main feature of the bank is a drive-up window which the bank feels will be a convenience to many patrons living and working on the south end of town. E.D. (Pat) Hawley, bank president, says the present drive-up window at the downtown office is sometimes difficult to use, particularly during the summer months when traffic is heavy. Despite its difficult access, the drive-up window has proven to be the busiest window at the downtown office, Hawley says. Hawley said the site was selected because it is convenient to many of the city's major industries. It will be manned by Mrs. Bonnie Fochtman and Miss Barbara Meggison. Banking hours are the same as downtown: Nine a.m. until 4 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and from 9 a.m. until 8 p.m. Fridays. In addition to the drive-up window, the bank has three inside windows and plenty of room for parking. Following are remarks made by Pat Hawley at the bank dedication, which was attended by Mrs. Marian Bridge, widow of former bank President Robert Bridge. "Those who knew Robert Bridge well were acquainted with how broadly his interests spread beyond the one institution that he served so long as president - the Charlevoix County State Bank. "He interested himself in directing charities, developing businesses in the community, enjoying fellowship with many organizations, raising funds for worthy purposes and serving Charlevoix as alderman and as mayor. "But primarily in this northland community Robert Bridge was known as a banker, and he wore the title with justifiable pride and a quiet dignity, and others spoke of him as a banker with respect. This position he regarded as a sacred trust to be administered for the benefit of this community which he so dearly loved. "Robert Bridge did not view a bank of just a building, or a business with so many officers and employees, contracts, mortgages, savings and checkings accounts, regulations, obligations and profits. He saw many as an indispensable tool with vast power to get good things done for the sake of others. He believed banking to be a way of encouraging business, promoting the community's prosperity, inspiring thrift and foresight, providing relief in a crisis and promoting human happiness. "When, after many years of service to Charlevoix and Northern Michigan, Bob Bridge passed away on July 28th, 1965 his good influences did not die with him. There are countless people in our community today, and throughout our state and nation, whose lives are easier and better because Robert Bridge counseled them in the handling of their business affairs and assisted them in their time of need. "In grateful, honored memory of Robert Bridge, banker, civic leader and public servant we now dedicate this unit of the Charlevoix County State Bank with the faith that for many years to come it will implement his high ideal of making business the servant of human good."

DEC

It Hit 28 Degrees Below Zero The Day County Bank Burned Lawyers' Offices, K of P Hall Guttled

The telephone and the city fire siren sounded simultaneously at the home of Robert Bridge, 200 Dixon-ave., in the pre-dawn hours of Feb. 8, 1974.

The caller was a Mr. Harrington who lived across Clinton-st. from the Charlevoix County Bank of which Mr. Bridge was cashier. "You'd better come down quick if you want to see your bank again," Mr. Harrington said.

Bridge ran to the window of his home overlooking Round Lake and saw the bank building at the corner of Bridge and Clinton sts. in flames.

So began one of the most memorable days in the life of Mrs. Robert (Marian) Bridge, who still occupies the family home on Dixon-ave.

Mrs. Bridge recalls that it was one of the coldest days in Charlevoix history. A Courier story reported that the temperature was 28 degrees below zero when the fire started.

The blaze had been reported to the Fire Department by the same Mr. Harrington who called the Bridges. He had been awakened by a loud explosion, probably caused when the pent-up heat broke a window at the rear of the building.

By the time firemen arrived, the third floor at the bank of the building was in flames and the fire quickly spread throughout the entire structure.

Firemen fought the fire and the bitter cold for hours, but the building was a total loss. Fortunately, the vault in the basement remained intact and valuable bank records and bills were not destroyed.

Other tenants in the building weren't so lucky. The J. L. Crane Co., which occupied the north and west sections of the downstairs, was burned out completely.

On the second floor were offices maintained by attorney Lisle Shanahan and A. L. Fitch. Shanahan lost his entire law library and file cases filled with important documents.

ROLL TOP desks and upright telephones blended with other old fashioned furnishings in the old Charlevoix County Bank which burned in 1974. This photo was taken shortly after the turn of the century. At left is Archibald Butters, one of the founders; Miss Elsie See and A.F. Bridge, father of the late Robert Bridge for whom the new branch on M-66 is named.

A REVOLVING sign just like downtown welcomes patrons to the new Robert Bridge Branch of the Charlevoix County State Bank on M-66. The sign gives the time and the temperature on the reverse side.

THE TEMPERATURE stood at 28 degrees below zero when fire broke out on the third floor of the Charlevoix County Bank the morning of Feb. 8, 1974. The fire already was out of control when this picture was taken shortly after daybreak. Above right, sidewalk superintendents had a field day when bank was razed.

BY AFTERNOON, the building was completely gutted, although valuable records remained safe in basement vault. In the early days, the bank was housed in the building directly across Bridge-st. (on right in photo), presently the home of Murdock's Fudge.

Susan Weily's Gas range knows when to lower the heat.

Even if Susan forgets.

Susan's been married only a few months, but thanks to the modern features on her new Gas range, every meal has been a success. The Burner-with-a-Brain gives her precisely controlled temperatures... eliminating the worry of boil-overs and scorched food. And since the Burner-with-a-Brain knows when to adjust itself, Susan saves Gas and money, too.

Susan's Gas range also has a handy "Keep Warm" oven. It keeps food at just the right temperature—without overcooking—so it's great for entertaining. And Susan's oven even cleans itself while it cooks.

So, if you're thinking of replacing your present range, visit your Gas appliance dealer or a Michigan Consolidated Gas Company showroom and see the new, efficient Gas ranges that operate for only one-third the cost of electric stoves. But, whether you're replacing your range or not, here are some tips to help you save fuel:

1. Cover saucepans for faster cooking.
2. Use the Burner-with-a-Brain as often as possible.
3. Preheat oven only as long as indicated in instruction booklet.
4. Use the lowest heat required for the job.

Safety Valve

QUESTION: What is meant by reading a traffic scene when you're driving? J.A., Mason

ANSWER: According to the Highway Traffic Safety Center of Michigan State University, it's like reading a book. Keep your eyes moving. Glance from left to right and take in your rear view mirrors as your eyes move. Concentrate on important details and look ahead - at least one block in the city, a half-mile in the country.

Good drivers have this kind of know how.

QUESTION: If a ticket is issued to a motorist for speeding 15 miles over the limit and then it is found the speedometer on his car is reading 15 miles per hour less than actual speed, is the ticket still valid? S.B., Fremont

ANSWER: Yes. It is up to the driver of a car to see that his equipment is in proper working condition. If the police car speedometer is off, and this is proved, then it would be up to authorities to dismiss the ticket. Police cars are equipped with certified speedometers.

If you find yourself in this predicament, it wouldn't hurt to enter that fact into your testimony that you present to the judge or hearing officer.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Uncle Charlie's mule, Jenny, though neuter gender shifted from feminine to masculine depending on Charlie's temperamental during various phases of their relationship. This gave Charlie a wide latitude of words with which to bridge the language barrier between them.

Jenny reasoned that though denied the privilege of motherhood, it was her inherent right to indulge the irrational appetites relating thereto. She decided to impress this fact upon Charlie one balmy spring day when he opened the rear door and left the door open for a while he trudged to the house with a basket of potatoes.

Jenny, with true feminine logic, assumed this to be an invitation to browse so she squeezed in and began sampling the apples, carrots, and rutabagas so tastefully arrayed for her selection. Her leisurely shopping was rudely interrupted momentarily by Charlie's bellowing approach as he shifted his galoshes into high gear. Charlie's language left no doubt. Jenny became most definitely masculine at this point.

She indicated her displeasure at the intrusion by kicking the door to splinters and further emphasized her desire for privacy by pelting Charlie with potatoes and beggies which prompted Charlie to agree to a "cooling off" period at this critical stage of negotiations.

Correctly interpreting Charlie's olympic dash toward the house as a bad case of rigor mortis in Jenny's immediate future, Aunt Esther hid the box of rifle shells. During the ensuing discussion Jenny decided it expedient to back out and retreat to a safe distance.

Although hasty repairs were completed by late afternoon, Jenny prudently waited until the farmhouse lights winked out before seeking the warmth of her boudoir to digest her gourmet dinner in relaxed comfort.

Ya Gotta Have Class

This room is so fancy they don't have a menu. The head waiter announces what is available. His accent is thick and I couldn't understand a word.

"What part of France are you from," asked one of my classy friends, just back from a European tour.

"Mexico," said the head waiter.

"I'll have a cheeseburger," I said.

The 5th man in a platoon of waiters peeled off and put some soup called consommé in front of me. He stood there while I tasted it.

"It tastes like warm Kool Aid," I told him. He went away.

Midway I went to the john. I told the guy standing next to me that I hadn't seen him in the Epicurean Room. He confessed he was eating in something called the Library Room.

"I'm sorry," I told him, "but this john is reserved for epicures only. I think you are supposed to go read a book."

This dinner had nine courses. The last was a funny looking roll that I couldn't slice because it turned out to be a hot, soggy napkin. My classiest friend snatched me what it was for. He leaned back in his chair, ala barbershop, and put the napkin over his head.

The evening was supposed to end at a piano bar, but it didn't. At closing time, a classy friend hired the piano man to come home with us, 20 miles away, and accompany us as we sang in the dawn.

When I finally escaped toward home, the piano man was looking up to all my classy friends. He was singing capella from the prone position, on the carpet.

He'd have got his shirt dirty at the White Star. Ya gotta have class.

Old Bangkok Survives Amid Modern Trappings

Clogged canals have given way to jammed streets in Bangkok.

Most of the colorful canals that once gave Thailand's capital a reputation as the Venice of the East have been filled to widen roads or to make new ones.

Hordes of automobiles, motorcycles, bicycles, and three-wheeled motor vehicles called sampans create daily snarls that easily measure up to world standards. Hoping to ease the problem, authorities are phasing out the sampans and giving their owners the option of operating them in the provinces or switching to conventional taxis.

But traffic has not displaced the grace, charm, and good manners of Bangkok's two million people or the city's dazzling array of Buddhist temples and palaces, the National Geographic says. Graceful spires and rooftops shimmer orange, green, and gold in the heart of the city.

A reclining Buddha, 160 feet long, lies in Wat Po. Red and yellow tiles adorn the temple's three-tiered roof. Exquisite mother-of-pearl decorates the building's massive teakwood doors.

A 5½-ton gold image in Wat Trinitrit once was disguised by a coating of plaster, applied centuries ago to fool pillaging invaders. In 1956 the stucco cracked, revealing the treasure.

Colossal demons with upturned toes guard the Temple of the Emerald Buddha; inside, the Thai cherish a green jasper image of the Indian prince and philosopher whose teachings mold their way of life.

To be a monk during some time in life is almost as normal for a Thai as for an American to own a car. In some parts of the country, a man who has never served as a monk is known as "khon dip," an "unripe" person.

When asked why the Thai people seem so kind and considerate, a young government official unhesitatingly answered, "It's because of the Buddhist religion. Charity and understanding are encouraged from the beginning."

MAYHEM IN RING Charity, however, doesn't begin in a Thai boxing ring. Anything goes except biting. Feet, elbows, fists, and knees fly as each fighter tries to weary or drop his opponent within five three-minute rounds.

The rugged national sport grew out of the unarmed, close-in fighting of medieval wars. At one time contestants studded their hand bindings with broken glass, "If agreeable to both," A much gentler form of give and take occurs at the floating markets on the city's remaining canals, where farmers and merchants gather in small boats early in the morning to secure the best prices for their produce. Jams sometimes become so bad that policemen have to direct traffic from visiting tour barges.

Adventurous travelers have discovered a new, less crowded floating market just a few miles outside Bangkok. Set among emerald green fields and stilted villages, the scene at Damnoen Saduak brings back memories of a Bangkok that once was largely mango orchards, buffaloes, rice fields, and buffaloes.

If it Fit

By JIM FITZGERALD

Mother can be proud of me. I got classy friends.

As a boy, I can remember Mother complaining about my father's old friends. He was a white-collar salesman by then, but he had spent his early years fishing and repairing boats on the Great Lakes. He finally got the dirt from under his fingernails, but he never got his early friends from under Mother's skin.

She claimed it was embarrassing to be walking downtown, all dressed up, and have a three-day drunk fall out of a bar and put his arm around her and say: "Yer Eddie's wife. I wash at yer wedding. Eddie and me used to have some great times. Did he ever tell ya..."

I soon learned what she meant. A bunch of my college friends thought it would be fun to go slumming in my hometown. I took them to the White Star, the evil-looking tavern on the waterfront. The floor was dirt - but cleaner than the customers. 2 women in the corner were hitting each other with their kids. I looked into the bartender's one eye and I knew he was on probation for mass murder.

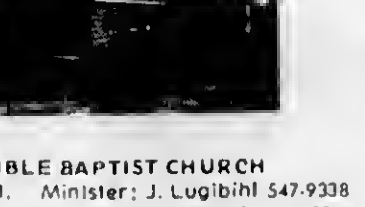

He asked me to prove my age and I gave him my driver's license. He read it slowly and then hollered: "Hey, you must be Eddie's boy!"

But things were different the other night, a classy night which I am herewith writing home to Mother about. She should know the kind of people that Eddie's boy is hanging out with since he gave up his paper route.

It was a birthday celebration and six of us dined in the Epicurean Room of the most sophisticated restaurant in the

Clockwise The Sex Stereotypes

By BOB CLOCK

I see by the papers that the National Education Association (NEA) has launched a nationwide crusade to "reduce the negative effects" of sex role stereotypes foisted on little boys and girls by society.

This means, folks, that you should get your little boy a doll for Christmas. And that junior miss on your list will be looking for an erector set and a pair of boxing gloves.

In announcing its crusade, the NEA said it is attempting to change the attitudes of parents and teachers toward sex roles and to bring textbooks, television and other teaching aids into line with the new philosophy.

The NEA held its first conference on sex role stereotypes Nov. 25 and 26 at Warren, Va., to lay the groundwork for the campaign. About 200 persons attended.

The conference was called by Dr. Wade Wilson, president of Cheyney (Pa.) State College and a member of the NEA executive committee.

The National Education Association calls upon parents and all groups involved in public education to join in a nationwide effort to reduce the negative effects of sex role stereotypes, the standardized mental pictures of male and female that permeate all areas of our lives," Dr. Wilson said.

He explained that women's potential contributions to the nation and their communities have gone largely unrecognized and undeveloped because of pressure by society to force little boys and girls into stereotyped interest areas.

A major target, he said, would be elementary and secondary school textbooks that usually treat boys and aggressive heroes who grow up to be doctors or lawyers and girls as passive sidekicks who grow up to be mothers.

He said such treatment of girls denies them self-fulfillment.

"Men also pay the price of sex role stereotypes," he added. "They have been forced through admonition and example into 'masculine' roles and behaviors which rob them of the full range of human emotion and experience..."

Feminist Gloria Steinem attended the conference. She pointed out that girls are sometimes omitted entirely from classroom textbooks.

As if the world isn't confusing enough, it looks like the NEA is out to send us on another topsy-turvy course. And I am wondering if the people involved in the campaign have ever met a child - boy or girl - face to face. It doesn't sound like it.

Furthermore, if our little girls all grow up to be boxers or construction engineers, who is going to have the babies? This may come as a surprise to the NEA, but there is no way anyone is going to talk little boys into it.

With three little girls and an even littler boy at our house, I'll have to confess that Judy and I indulge in a certain amount of sex stereotyping but we are forced into it by our brood. The girls have spent literally dozens of hours this fall studying every catalogue that has come into the house for the dolls they want for Christmas. They also know by name every doll on display at every toy counter in town. If they didn't find dolls under the tree Christmas morning they'd be heartbroken.

I think their instincts are sound and in keeping with their gender.

They are also very good at building things with blocks and in operating a wind-up train I bought Katie on her second birthday, mainly because I didn't have a boy to buy it for.

But it's the dolls that occupy most of their time, which I think is a good sign they'll all turn out to be happy mothers.

As for Danny, he hasn't shown much interest in dolls to date. He did have a little wooden man with head and legs that popped up and down. But someone stepped on it and broke the neck and he couldn't care less.

He prefers noisy toys that he can shake, rattle, roll or break. Although he is only nine months old, his aggressions are showing. He has eaten half of the cover on his playpen pad and he doesn't hesitate to enter into fistfights with the dogs when they bother him. The girls would never have dared.

I don't believe that all little girls should marry, have babies and spend their lives being mothers. Some certainly would be happier as brain surgeons or truck drivers. Nor do I believe that all boys should be schooled from the cradle up in dog-eat-dog competition.

But I do think the genders, by and large, develop their own deeply rooted interests, with or without interference from the NEA.

The NEA probably is well intentioned in its new campaign, but tempering with sex roles among the young could result in some very unhappy adults in the next generation.

Hasn't anyone in the NEA ever heard of the old nursery rhyme:

"What are little girls made of? Sugar and spice and everything nice, that's what little girls are made of."

"What are little boys made of? Snips and snails and puppy dog tails, that's what little boys are made of."

There are differences between little girls and boys that no number of NEA conferences can eradicate. Thank heavens.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Bennett are having open house marking the 50th wedding anniversary of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Bennett on Sunday afternoon Dec. 17 from 2 until 5 p.m. Friends and neighbors are invited. No gifts, please.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen DePoe of Lansing have been spending several days in their local summer home.

The Christmas Program will be Sunday evening Dec. 17, at the church given by the Sunday school.

We have a good beginning for an old fashioned winter. There is a foot of snow on the level and freezing temperatures all roads are slippery in spots and some all over making driving most hazardous. The South Arm is freezing from East Jordan down this way, past the Island. All this and the weather man reports that more snow is coming. If we have as much snow as we had rain during the past summer we will all be buried by spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Bennett of Scott Boat Livery at the ferry are busy remodeling. They will have groceries and dairy products, along with sandwiches, hamburgers and with coffee. Their business will be known as Chester and Leona's. The Cross on the rear of our little community Church is again shining bright and extending best wishes and a Joyous Holiday to everyone.

They're Home From Africa

Mrs. Dorothy Dixon of Charlevoix and Mrs. Julia Sage of Central Lake, both employees of the First State Bank, have returned from a 22-day tour of Africa.

They visited countries of Senegal, South Africa, Rhodesia, Zambia, Tanzania, Kenya and Ethiopia. En route they stopped at airports in Liberia, Ghana, Nigeria, The Congo, and the cities of Rome and Paris.

Sixteen of the group met at Kennedy International Airport in New York and four more joined them in Johannesburg, S. Africa. They came from California, Colorado, Missouri, Georgia, Illinois, New York, and Michigan.

The tour director from Liverpool, England, met them in Dakar. They toured the cities, countryside and parks by large buses, mini-buses and landrovers. Places of special interest included Kruger National Park in South Africa; Amboseli Game Reserve and Tree tops, Kenya; Ngorongoro Crater and Serengeti National Park, Tanzania; and Nairobi National Park.

Thousands upon thousands of animals and many varieties of birds were seen.

At Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, they drove through the streets of the world's largest outdoor market, a sight almost impossible to comprehend.

The tour was planned by AAA of Michigan and Percival Tours of Chicago.

The JV's also dumped Onaway, 59 to 29, but lost to St. Ignace, 50 to 46, in overtime.

Sharing high-point honors in the Onaway game were Kevin

Stokes and Dan Green with 13 each on 6 fieldgoals and 1 freethrow each. Also in the scoring column were Ron Kewashken, 10 (5 fieldgoals); Dave Martineck, 6 (2 and 2); Chuck Faust, 4 (2 fieldgoals); Sundberg and Pettis, 3 each (1 and 2); Kerner and Sandahl, 2 each on fieldgoals; and Donaldson, 1.

Charlevoix led from the start with quarter scores of 16-9; 29-14; 45-19; and 59-29.

Against St. Ignace high JV scorer was Dan Green, 13 (6 and 1); Kevin Stokes, 11 (5 and 1); Dave Martineck, 10 (5 fieldgoals); and Ron Kewashken, Chuck Faust and Kevin Martin 4 each on fieldgoals.

After a fourth point lead in the first quarter (18 to 14), and in the second quarter (26 to 24), the young Saints fell behind in the third stanza 32 to 28 and at the final buzzer the score was tied 44-44. However, St. Ignace scored 6 points in overtime, compared to Charlevoix's 2.

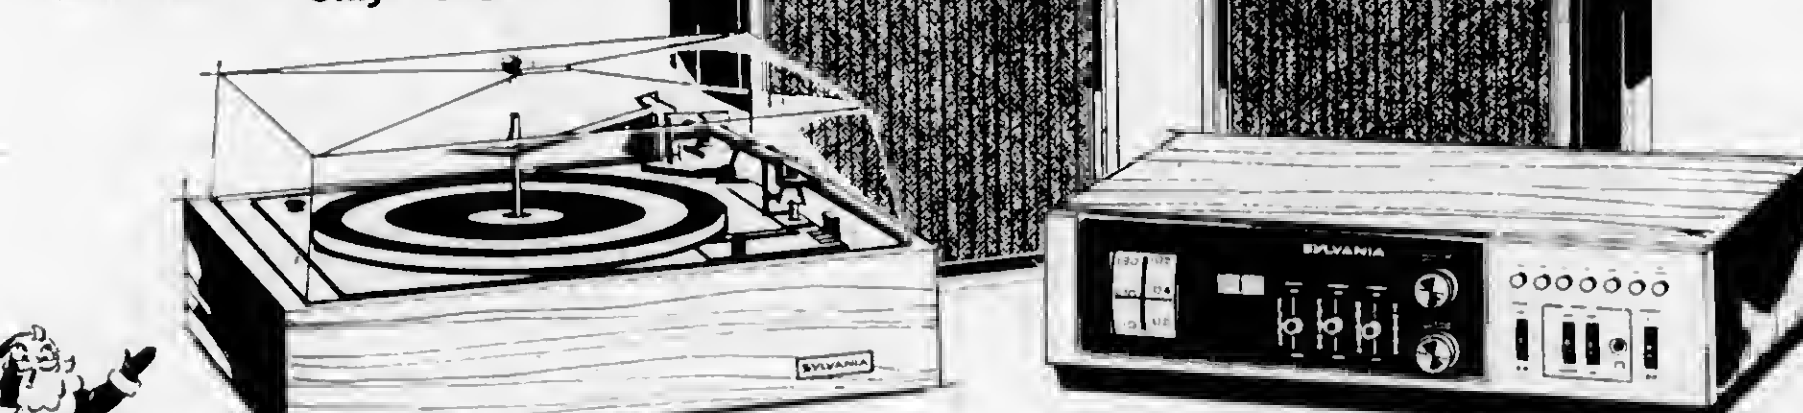

JERRY Skippergosh (35) was high man for Charlevoix against St. Ignace, scoring 20 points. In foreground is the Saint's LaTour.

DALE Boss aims for basket over outstretched arms of Saints' guard. Boss scored four points against the powerful U.P. team.

State Buys Access On Lake Bellaire

A public access site will be carved out of a once-popular luxury resort on the shores of Lake Bellaire in Antrim County by the Department of Natural Resources.

The rustic resort, known as Fisherman's Paradise, covers 10 acres and has 700 feet of frontage. It was purchased from the estate of Harold Bechold of Bellaire with funds from the state gasoline tax earmarked for DNR Waterways Division operations.

The main lodge and 21 cottages and cabins on the property are in a state of disrepair and will be razed this winter, according to Theodore Fairbanks, Roscommon, Regional Waterways Supervisor for the DNR.

He said development plans call for installation of a concrete boat launching ramp, toilet facilities and a parking lot to accommodate 50 cars. The property will be screened from neighboring lots.

Fairbanks said this is the first of several resorts the Department hopes to acquire on Northern Michigan lakes where there is not adequate public ownership for access site purposes.

The Department is seeking to acquire other resorts on Northern Michigan lakes to provide additional public access sites.

WARNING!

Over 30,000 recreational home-sites will be sold next year in Northern Michigan. BEFORE YOU PURCHASE, send or stop in for your free copy of this public service handbook. It's for your protection!

Reed City Shows What Can Be Done

There's good news this week from the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

At least one of the new sewage treatment plants the state ordered built in the late 1960's is beginning to show results.

Readers will recall that four years ago, the Water Resources Commission sent out orders to dozens of Michigan communities — including Charlevoix — that they must update their sewage treatment plants so that they remove most phosphates by Dec. 1, 1972.

The communities by now either have complied, or their plans are nearing completion. Charlevoix's new Waste Water Treatment Plant on Lake Shore-dr. is nearing completion and should be in operation early next year, as soon as pumps for the old treatment plant arrive and are installed.

Other plants already are in operation and the one at Reed City on the Hersey River is showing positive results.

WRC staff members reported at the November Commission meeting that water quality of the Hersey River shows real improvement since the installation of upgraded waste treatment plant at Reed City about one year ago. Data evaluated covers the period from 1967 through the fall of 1972.

"While we've been pursuing waste water treatment along all Michigan streams, this is one of our first compilations of data to show the effects of the program," said Robert Courchaine, WRC regional engineer.

The Hersey River, a small tributary of the Muskegon River, serves as a classic example of the effects of water pollution control. Courchaine said, since the only major waste water discharge in the lower portion of the river is at Reed City.

Most impressive results of the 1972 survey were the absence of slime growths and sludge beds in the river, Courchaine said. Stream monitoring data shows a significant drop in decomposable organic wastes in the river, plus a drastic pollution increase of river bottom organisms.

He added that the Commission's computer is gradually cranking out figures which indicate similar stream water quality improvements throughout the state, a direct result of the WRC's orders to communities to clean up.

"Our staff has been so busy working toward tighter pollution controls, we haven't had time to summarize the improvements," Courchaine said. "We know that Michigan industries and citizens who are paying for sewage treatment plants are anxiously awaiting progress reports of their efforts to meet Michigan Water quality standards."

Since 1968, 245 new or improved sewage treatment plants have been started in Michigan and 350 more are in the planning or construction phase.

Question: What are the requirements for lights and brakes on snowmobiles? L.B.L., Carson City

Answer: "A snowmobile shall not be operated unless it has at least one headlight, one taillight and adequate brakes capable of one of the following while the snowmobile travels on packed snow and carries an operator who weighs 175 pounds or more: (a) stopping the snowmobile in not more than 40 feet from an initial steady speed of 20 miles per hour; or (b) locking the snowmobile's traction belt or belts."

Another section of the snowmobile regulations says, "A snowmobile shall not be used to hunt, pursue, worry or kill a wild bird or animal."

Question: I think school bus drivers shouldn't be allowed to stop and let students out of the bus when they are just over the crest of a hill. It would be so easy to come up behind him unaware and not be able to stop in time. E.J.J., Saginaw

Answer: The state authorities agree with you and made provision to prevent this from happening, legally. "No school bus driver shall stop his bus for the purpose of reeling or discharging passengers unless such bus is clearly visible in its stopped position to approaching or overtaking drivers of vehicles for a distance of at least 500 feet."

Question: Are motorcycles allowed on limited access highways? B.T.L., Hancock Answer: Depends upon the size of motorcycle's engine. "No person shall operate a motor-driven 'cycle' or motorcycle with less than a 125 cubic centimeter engine, farm tractor or other self-propelled farm implement, nor shall any pedestrian, bicycle or other nonmotorized traffic be permitted on any limited access highway in this state."

Clockwise December Snow

By BOB CLOCK

If I were rich enough to travel the world over, I think I would try to arrange my schedule to spend every December in Charlevoix—particularly if I could be guaranteed a December like we're having this year.

All of the folks who high-tailed it for Florida and Arizona at the first sign of frost don't know what they're missing. Perhaps it's even a little unkind at this Christmas season to tell them Charlevoix has never looked lovelier, not even during the first flush of summer.

The snow started early in December, with flakes as big as silver dollars. And it has snowed almost every day since, turning the whole town into a Currier and Ives Christmas print.

Banks along streets and roadways are growing with every passing day, every fence post is wearing a white beret and every window box is heaped with marshmallows.

It's a dry kind of snow that kids love to play in and dogs love to frolic in.

Furthermore, it's light enough so that it doesn't take much shoveling to clear a path to the street.

We haven't had a good old road-blocking blizzard—yet, but there's plenty of time for those in January and February.

For the present, Charlevoix is having a picture postcard winter that has everyone in step with the Christmas season.

Furthermore, the old town has never been dressed up so brightly for the holidays. Christmas lights are ablaze downtown and one by one the homes in town are bursting forth with their holiday decorations.

The stores, of course, are all dressed up for shoppers and the town has taken on a holiday air the like of which Charlevoix has never seen.

I wonder what Lincoln-blvd., in Miami Beach is like this time of year?

Don't miss the Charlevoix Courier next week. We expect to be reporting some news relative to the Palace Theater that should cheer the hearts of young and old alike.

Television is building its own set of Christmas traditions. How many times have you seen "Little Drummer Boy," "The Grinch Who Stole Christmas" or the TV version of Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol"? More than once, I'll wager.

But I still miss the old Amos and Andy Christmas story on radio. Remember? Andy wanted to buy a doll for Amos' little girl, Arabella, but he didn't have any money. So he took a job as Santa Claus in a department store. One by one he took the little believers onto his lap and asked them what they wanted for Christmas. Whenever he ran into a skeptic who wanted to look behind his beard he'd holler, "O, Floorwalker." It was funniest, warmest and most human of the thousands of Amos and Andy shows ever produced, but I suppose it would be impossible to resurrect in these days of racial uprightness.

If it Filz

By JIM FITZGERALD

It suddenly occurred to me that something is sure to happen. That Geritol, eat grapes and wash with soap, don't they?

So how come I've never seen a TV commercial where a beautiful young gal looks at a father and his teenage son and wonders aloud which one she should invite to the prom?

Now if I were an 18-year-old girl I'd probably chop Dad in the chops for saying I looked like a 40-year-old. But drives a truck. One of the kids is a gorgeous girl, probably about 18. Mom and dad are out walking with their lovely daughter and poor dad confesses he has a problem that could get a bit awkward, if not incestuous. Both of his females look the same age and sometimes he forgets which is Wife and which is Daughter.

Now if I were an 18-year-old girl I'd probably chop Dad in the chops for saying I looked like a 40-year-old. But what do I know? This TV daughter simply giggles and agrees that Mother is fantastic.

Mother also agrees. And she looks into the camera and tells millions of middle-aged women they too will look like 18 if they simply take Geritol every morning.

There are grapes and soap that will also take 20 years off a woman's life. In fact, a 40-year-old woman probably has to be careful not to use too many of these miracle products at the same time. She could regress herself right through the teen years and back into the womb.

Anyway, the big question remains: how come we never see TV commercials where the father and son are playing tennis and two dolls on the sidelines can't tell which bronzed god is youngest until the god on the right gets a tennis ball in the gut and is thus forced to reveal his secret as he sprays a mouthful of grapes all over the court?

I asked my wife this question. "I'm not going to bother answering you because you are only going to write another put-down on women anyway," she said sweetly.

"I am not," I denied. "I think this is a sociological question that should be answered seriously. If there is any put-down involved, the Geritol people are doing the putting. They seem to be saying that women are more vain than men; that mother yearns to look as young as their daughters but fathers don't mind looking older than their sons."

Just then my teenage son walked through the room. His hair reached his shoulders. His crusted Levi's creaked. He was barefoot. He wore 10 T-shirts and sweat shirts, each one honoring a different team in the Big 10. Each shirt had a different sleeve and tail length, thus making it possible to count the layers.

"Forget my question," I told my wife. "I think our son just showed me the answer."

"I hate to admit it," my wife said, "but that wasn't your son. It was your daughter."

"She doesn't look a day younger than you, dear," I said.

Onward and Upward, and please pass the Geritol.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

A local carpenter recently became a celebrity in Tucker, Ga., where he was building a bowling alley. Charlevoix became a household word when attention became centered on a series of events attended by the police, news media, TV, firemen and certain other participants who chose to remain anonymous.

First our native son found his pickup truck, minus the tools of his trade, resting on its brake drums in the motel parking lot. The radio, battery, alternator and other miscellaneous items were conspicuously absent. The law and press arrived mainly to admire the "neatness" of the night time operation but did definitely establish one vital identity—that of the victim who was born at Bny Shore, Mich.

The next incident began at dusk with our transient guest viewing a closet as barren of merchandise as a Potosi summer shop in mid-November. The desk clerk discreetly summoned the authorities, and, as though prearranged, the same detective and press representative returned to familiar surroundings.

"First your wheels and then your clothes!" gasped the incredulous newsgasm.

"Who's minding the farm for you?" growled the lawman glaring at the cause of two unsolved cases in the same day.

"Going back soon?" he asked hopefully.

The next day passed uneventfully prompting our envoy to hang up his new wardrobe with a sigh of relief which was aborted by the increasing volume of wailing sirens and clanging bells. His 'now what' was answered by a wisp of smoke curling beneath the door. The pajama clad lodger, clutching his wallet, groped his way to the courtyard where people in various stages of undress were avoiding the roving eye of a TV camera which sought and found our homeless campsite.

The bug-eyes reporter followed the accusing finger of light hawking.

"First your wheels and then your clothes—TWICE!! You rate with Stone Mountain as an attraction!"

"I'll bet you smoke in bed," snarled the policeman reaching for his handcuffs. The accused bled a hasty retreat all the way to Michigan Shores in Hayes Township.

'Our Soul Thanks You'

Traditionally, we place an extra candle on a child's birthday cake—one for each year, and one "to grow on." As Christmas nears, with its intrinsic tradition of helping the needy, CARE asks us to remember the world's hungry children, whose birthday prospects are reflected in these grim statistics:

In the emerging nations, children under five form 20 percent of the population but represent over 60 percent of the deaths, with malnutrition the biggest killer. Of those who survive, more than half will be retarded physically or mentally because of malnutrition.

To prevent such tragedies, the holiday-season CARE Food Crusade appeal seeks $7,500,000 to help feed 28 million people, nearly all children, during the coming year. At baby and preschool centers, schools and other sites, the young will be served regularly—not just to keep them alive but to build healthy bodies and sound minds, so they may grow into productive adults. Linked with CARE self-help and medical aid, the food gifts develop future self-sufficiency in 34 countries from Latin America to Africa, Asia and the Middie East.

Because host governments share operating costs and the U.S. donates farm abundance, our dollars are multiplied. For example: $5 gives 1,500 youngsters a protein-rich bowl of porridge; $10 serves a full lunch to 500 children; $25 helps feed 25 pupils for 3 months. From India, a schoolboy wrote: "To the American People...Our soul thanks you." His words will echo in the hearts of millions of children, and their parents, if you send your contribution check to: CARE Food Crusade Fund, Guardian Building, Detroit, Mich. 48226.

How No-Fault Insurance Will Help You

By State Sen. Robert W. Davis
Now that Gov. William G. Milliken has signed into law Michigan No-Fault Auto Insurance, I have several questions I would like answered. A.R., Boyne City

Q. When does Michigan's no-fault law take effect?

A. Oct. 1, 1973. Auto accidents before then will be handled as at present—auto accidents on or after Oct. 1, 1973, under the new law.

Q. Do I have to have auto insurance after Oct. 1, 1973?

A. Yes. Everyone in Michigan who owns a car must have auto insurance after Oct. 1, 1973.

Q. I already have auto insurance. Is there anything more I need to do before the new law takes effect?

A. Your insurance policy will automatically cover for at least the required coverages beginning on Oct. 1, 1973. So there is nothing you have to do unless you want to change your optional coverages such as collision insurance, or your deductibles. Before the new program goes into effect next Oct. 1, your insurance agent or your insurance company will contact you and will let you know what coverages are required, what deductibles and additional coverages are available and what the rates will be for the various coverages.

Q. What are the benefits under the new law for medical expenses and rehabilitation?

A. Medical expenses and rehabilitation as much as and as long as necessary. There are benefits for wage loss, child care, dependents in case of death, and property damage.

Q. What kind of benefits can I receive on any wage loss?

A. You will receive your regular earnings (minus 15 percent to make up for the fact that there is no income tax on insurance benefits) for a maximum of $1,000 a month and a total of 3 years if unable to work.

For example, if you earn $5.00 an hour for a 40-hour week—$200.00 a week—you would receive $170.00 a week ($200 minus 15 percent). If you can prove your income tax would be less than 15 percent, then the actual amount of your tax would be deducted.

Q. What are the provisions of the act regarding rehabilitation?

A. The rehabilitation is one of the best provisions of Michigan's no-fault law. This includes all economic rehabilitation, such as learning a new skill if you can't return to your old job because of the accident.

Q. Does my policy only cover me?

A. No. It covers you as named insured, your spouse, and relatives living in your household. You are all entitled to the same benefits.

Q. What insurance company pays my "no-fault" benefits?

A. Your own. This is called "first party" benefits, instead of the present system of "third party" benefits—where you collect from the other person's insurance company, based on fault.

Q. What if I am hurt while riding in someone else's car?

A. You still collect from your own insurance company. But if you have no insurance of your own you would collect from the insurance company that insured the owner of the car you were riding in.

Q. What about dependents? What if I am killed?

A. Your spouse and children could receive up to $1,000 a month for 3 years.

The benefits would be the economic value of what you provided your family—a working woman or man who earned $1,500.00 a month and contributed $900.00 a month to the spouse and children would have his widow or widower and children receive $900.00 a month for 3 years.

Dependency of a spouse ends with remarriage—and of a child upon reaching 18 years, unless the child is incapacitated from earning or is attending school full time.

Q. Can I ever sue for damages for pain and suffering?

A. Yes—but you can collect only if the injured person suffered "death, serious impairment of body function, or permanent serious disfigurement."

Q. What kind of property damage do I have?

A. You are protected for damages to property—other than an unpaired car or its contents or a trailer—in Michigan up to one million dollars on a no-fault basis. If you hit a gasoline station and a pump explodes, your insurance company is liable up to one million dollars in damages (not to unpaired cars)— regardless of whose fault the accident was.

Q. What if I am in an accident in another state or Canada, will my Michigan no-fault insurance policy help?

A. Yes—it will provide the insurance required by that state or possession or territory of U.S. or Canada—no-fault if that state has no-fault or conventional financial responsibility coverage if that is what is required in that state. You will also receive no-fault benefits for yourself, your spouse and relatives living at home based on your no-fault policy if the accident occurred anywhere in the United States, its territories and possessions or Canada.

Q. What if I am hit by a drunken driver who violates the law when he hits me and violates the law by not being insured?

A. You receive benefits from your insurance company but he is just of luck. He can also have his driver's license revoked and be fined $500.00 and jailed one year.

Q. What will no-fault insurance cost me?

A. Many people will pay less, some will pay more. The new no-fault system will save much of the money that now goes for lawyer's expenses, duplication of other insurance programs and so-called "pain and suffering." This saving is being used to provide more adequate benefits to more people for medical bills and lost wages.

Whether you will pay more or less than you do now will depend on how much insurance you have now, the make and model of your car, your income level and number of dependents, where you live, the deductibles you select, and last, but not least, which insurance company you have. The price of auto insurance varies substantially from one insurance company to another. No insurance company will know for sure what the new system will cost until several years after it goes into effect. So in the meantime each insurance company will have to base its prices on its own estimates of what the new system will cost. Which means that it will pay to show around.

Channel Bank Collapses

Sewage Spills Into Pine River

WIND-WHIPPED waves Friday night took out a 75-foot section of bank along Pine River Channel rupturing the North Side sewer line where it crossed the channel. Hasty repairs were made and the city has asked the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for assistance.

Will Stand Trial In Fettig Murder

District Judge W. Richard Smith last Thursday ordered Larry Raymond Fitzpatrick, 24, of Boyne City, to stand trial in January for first degree murder in the shooting death Nov. 19 of his hunting companion and long-time friend, Donald Fettig, 29, of Walloon Lake.

Fitzpatrick was bound over to the next term of Circuit Court after a day-long preliminary examination. More than a dozen witnesses were subpoenaed to testify by Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Varnum and Deputy Prosecutor Donald Berlage.

Among the witnesses was Mrs. Lily Lou Fettig, 25, widow of the victim, who is charged with conspiring with Fitzpatrick to murder her husband. Mrs. Fettig took the stand, but refused to testify under the Fifth Amendment because of the charge pending against her. She was represented in the courtroom by attorney Stephen Graham of Petoskey.

Fitzpatrick appeared calm and unemotional throughout the long hours of testimony as he sat at the defense table with his attorney, Jack Carpenter of Petoskey. Fitzpatrick has been held without bond in Charlevoix County Jail since his arrest Nov. 22.

The group will hold an organizational meeting Dec. 20 at the Weathervane. The first regular meeting will be Friday, Jan. 5, at noon at the Weathervane.

IT WAS "BUSINESS as usual" for the Joseph Medlins of Charlevoix last Thursday after Medlin discovered he was one of the big winners in the Michigan State Lottery. The Medlins own the Chicken Roast on Bridge-st. Medlin had both winning numbers, meaning that he is eligible for up to $200,000 in the big drawing in Detroit this Thursday. Missing that, he may win one of several $50,000 prizes. The least he will receive is $10,000. Medlin, who bought his winning ticket at Oleson's Food Store, says he probably will invest the money. When not at the restaurant, Medlin works as an electrician at Freedman Aircraft Engineering.

Pastors Will Hold Baccalaureate

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at a special meeting Monday night, voted to accept the offer of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association to sponsor Baccalaureate services in June made to the board by Maureen Wallace representing the student body brought about a request for an opinion from the Attorney General on the subject.

The offer came from the Ministerial Association following the receipt of a letter from Attorney General Frank Kelley that the School District cannot legally sponsor or promote such an activity although it could be held under the auspices of another group.

The problem of wave action on the channel culminated Friday night in a washout of about 75 feet of channel bank, exposing and severing sewage lines crossing the channel.

Hanna said one of the two lines ruptured completely when a concrete manhole tipped over. Sewage is still passing through the other line, although it is believed to be damaged. (See separate story.)

In other action the council: -Sent to the Planning Commission a proposal by Richard Donaldson that property at the corner of Bridge-st. and Robinson-st. be rezoned from R-2 to C-1. Donaldson wants to build a laundromat, and a Puffs Appliance outlet on the site. Chief objection came from Ed Buday who owns property to the west on Robinson-st.

Buday said the proposed building would be too close to his home and would disrupt classes at St. Mary's School across the street. Donaldson said he planned to put in a cedar hedge between his building and the Buday home and set the structure back 15 feet from the lot line. The project will necessitate demolition of houses owned by James Novotny and James Elzinga.

OK'd an interim building permit for the Chez Charlevoix townhouse project on Petoskey-rd. planned by Dean Eby, contingent upon correction of sewer line deficiencies.

Friske Applauds State Legislature

Michigan's House of Representatives has been applauded by State Representative Richard Friske (R-Charlevoix) for their positive action (71 yes, 25 no votes) on his legislation calling for public schools to accompany the teaching of the scientific theory of evolution with the story of creation.

After praising the lower chamber for their approval Representative Friske called on the Senate "to take immediate action on this important issue before the 76th legislative session adjourns."

The separation of church and state has been carried to a serious degree," Friske said. "Not only have religious views been ignored by our school teachers, but they are teaching agnostic theories on evolution. This is not entirely the fault of our state's teachers but the fault of lawmakers who have banned prayers and other religious ideals from the classroom."

Representative Friske has called upon Michigan citizens "to contact your State Senator urging Senate action on the bill this week. If this measure isn't enacted before the legislature adjourns this week, it will die until someone reintroduces it in a future session. We have already crossed one hurdle so I am hopeful enough pressure can be put on the Senate to get this critical measure through the upper chamber."

In conclusion Friske labeled the piece of legislation "as my last legislative effort before I retire from the Michigan House of Representatives. I certainly hope that the positive House action is not in vain and that the Senate will take the measure up immediately."

Larry Fitzpatrick to Stand Trial in Pal's Death

Star witness at the examination was Joseph Henry Washburn, 41, of Boyne City, an employee of Fitzpatrick's construction company, who said Fitzpatrick had asked him on at least six occasions during the past 18 months to assist in the murder of Feltig.

Washburn said he never really took Fitzpatrick seriously, although he said he longer be necessary.

It was Washburn who notified Charlevoix County Sheriff Philo Sumner and Deputy Byron Stockwell the evening of Nov. 19 - even before Feltig's body had been found in a sparsely wooded area of Evanston Township that he suspected Fitzpatrick had killed his hunting partner.

He said Fitzpatrick had come to the home he shares with his sister-in-law at 311 Terrace-st. in Boyne City about 5 p.m. Nov. 19 and told him "it" (the killing of Feltig) was "over and done with" and asked him to supply an alibi for him for the early afternoon hours that day.

Washburn said he agreed, but later had a change of heart and notified the sheriff's office instead.

He further testified that on Nov. 21, he telephoned Fitzpatrick in answer to repeated telephone calls from the defendant. He said that Fitzpatrick wanted him to pick up the murder weapon and shells from under his trailer home the next day during Feltig's funeral and "leave the country, leave the state of Michigan."

Washburn said he also reported that incident to police.

The next day, with State Police monitoring equipment suspended from his waist, Washburn said he rendezvoused with Fitzpatrick in Leo's Bar on Mitchell-st. in Petoskey and was given $100 to pick up the rifle and leave the state. He said he turned the money over to State Police.

Washburn said he never was actually offered any money to participate in Feltig's murder, but "on one occasion he said Fitzpatrick told him that Feltig had 'taken out another insurance policy and it might be worth my while.'"

Defense Attorney Carpenter attempted to discredit Washburn's testimony by reading into the record a list of Washburn's past convictions, including being AWOL in 1964, simple larceny in 1965, statutory rape in 1967, forgery in 1967, parole violation in 1960, parole violation in 1961, breaking and entering in 1968 and escaping from Southern Michigan State Prison at Jackson in 1968.

Washburn said he has been on parole for the past 22 months and has worked most of that time fairly regularly.

Among the other witnesses were:

-Det. Sgt. David M. Larson of the Firearms Identification Section of the State Crime Laboratory; E. Lansing who testified that striations on a test bullet fired from Fitzpatrick's .33 cal. rifle were identical in most respects to striations on bullet fragments found in Feltig's body.

-Lt. George Hine, who also works in the Firearms Identification Section and who also examined the weapon and other evidence submitted by local law officers.

-Det. Sgt. Harold W. Harger of Traverse City.

-Trooper Thomas A. Hleslet of Petoskey.

-Mrs. Judith Ann Hickman, Feltig's sister, who identified the body.

-LaVerne W. Hall and his brother Garth D. Hall of rural Boyne City. LaVerne Hall said he saw Fitzpatrick in a pickup truck about noon the day of the murder with someone he couldn't identify. Garth Hall said the other party in the truck was Donald Feltig. They said they all talked briefly about hunting conditions.

-Conservation Officer Harley Burris of Boyne City who said he was notified by a B.J. Ellis after dark Nov. 19 that Donald Feltig had not returned from a hunting trip and that he was worried.

-Trooper Paul Kenneth Bowers of the Cheboygan State Police Post, who found Feltig's body about 11:15 p.m. with the help of a tracking dog.

First witnesses to take the stand were Dr. Robert G. Martin, Charlevoix County medical examiner, and Dr. Gene H. Webster, pathologist at Little Traverse Hospital and Burns Clinic, who performed the autopsy on Feltig. Dr. Webster said Feltig bled to death within five seconds after being shot in the back.

Library notes

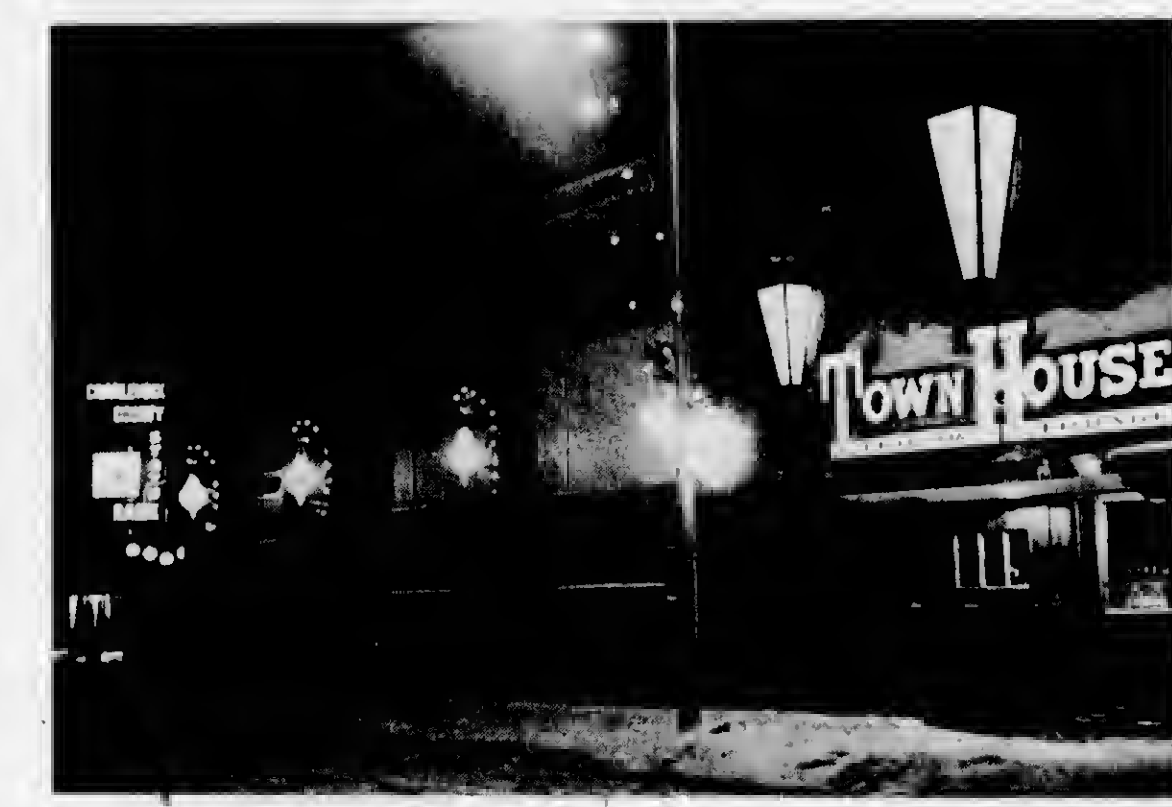

New books which will be of interest to our patrons during the holiday season include:

"Spy for Fidel" by Orlando Castro Hidalgo, the thrilling true story of the highest-ranking intelligence officer to defect from Castro's Cuba. This first-person account reveals the inner workings and the world-wide operations of the Cuban dictator's global spy network. The author first became a police officer, then a soldier (he fought in the Bay of Pigs battle where utter confusion dominated the army of Fidel Castro), and finally he was recruited for intelligence work. When he finally decided to defect, he established contact with Americans who helped him escape to the United States—but not without first cleaning out the secret files of the Embassy, to take along as a peace offering.

"Papa," by James McLenon, could only be a book about one person—Ernest Hemingway. Mr. McLenon gives the reader an action-filled view of the man

City Historical Society Is Looking for a Home

The newly formed Charlevoix Historical Society is presently looking for a location for a museum. The society desires to collect materials and objects reminiscent of the past and preserve them for posterity. The historical society hopes to save "the nostalgia of time past for our older citizens, as well as inspire young people with a feeling for their history and an interest in their heritage."

The society meets on the second Thursday of each month in the Court House Annex at 7:30 p.m. Ralph Hamilton is president of the society. Membership fees range from $2 per year for an active membership to $50.00 for a life membership. Persons wishing to contribute to the Charlevoix Historical Society may do so in the form of a loan or as a bequest include in a will.

A black and white illustration of the Virgin Mary holding the infant Jesus. Mary is depicted with a halo, wearing a dark robe, and cradling the baby Jesus who is also haloed and wrapped in a light-colored cloth. They are positioned within a decorative, arched frame that resembles a window with a diamond-patterned leaded glass design. Above the illustration, the word "NOEL" is written in large, stylized, gothic-style letters.

County Hits 72 Percent In Yule Seal Campaign

Contributions in Charlevoix County to the Christmas Seal Campaign of the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association totaled $3,675.00 through mid-December compared with $3,453.00 at the same time in 1971. The campaign goal for Michigan, excluding the Detroit metropolitan area, is $925,000, according to Dr. Walter Meier, president of the Michigan TB and Respiratory Disease Association. As of Dec. 15, 72 percent of this goal had been reached.

Traditionally, approximately 20 percent of our Christmas Seal income is received after Christmas, Dr. Meier said, reminding residents that there is still

Snowmobiles Can Provide Good, Safe Fun: DNR

With winter upon Charlevoix again, area snowmobiles are taking to the out-of-doors for another season of winter fun. The Department of Natural Resources urges snowmobilers to heed several important points from the State's Snowmobile Law to insure good, safe fun while operating the vehicles.

First off, area snowmobilers may not run machines on roadways or road shoulders, except to cross bridges and culverts, or to cross highways not classified as limited access routes. Snowmobilers may, however, operate the machines at the extreme right or road right-of-way, (unplowed highway portions) as long as the machines travel with the flow of road traffic.

Since 18 of last year's 30 snowmobile deaths resulted from roadway accidents, it is especially important that machine operators heed these restrictions.

Snowmobilers are required to carry registration certificates at all times when they are operating a machine. All snowmobilers must have identification numbers.

Youths under 12 may not, as operators of snowmobiles, cross highways or streets.

Youngsters of this age must be supervised by adults when operating a snowmobile.

Though adults are not required to ride the same snowmobile as minors under their charge, they must keep close watch on the youths, according to DNR officials. Parents of minors are legally responsible for any rules the youths break while operating snowmobiles.

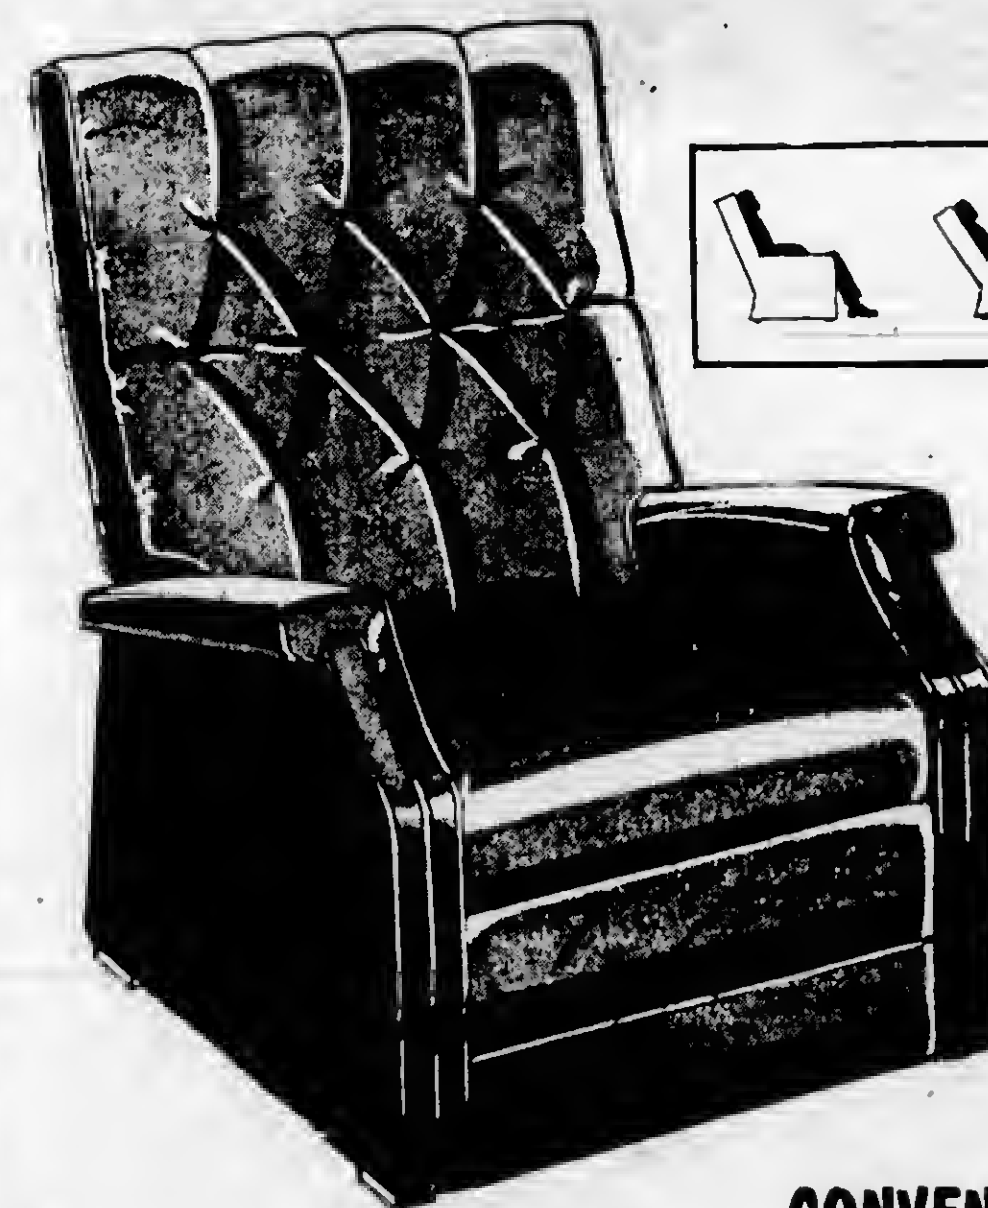

Beginning Jan. 1, children 12 through 15 years old must hold snowmobile safety certificates before they can run snowmobiles without adult supervision. Youngsters

Parents Should Avoid Buying Dangerous Toys

Toys are intended for the fun, laughter and enjoyment of children. Many times they are educational as well. Unfortunately, they sometimes do more.

Last year, hundreds of thousands of children were hurt by toys that seemed safe, according to the Insurance Information Institute. Youngsters were bruised, cut, burned, and even crippled and blinded.

Parents are urged by the Institute to avoid buying toys that could be dangerous while in your child's hands. Some toys that might be dangerous include:

- Electrical toys that operate on 110-volt current without step-down transformers.
- Projectiles such as bow and arrow sets, slingshots, and guns and rifles.
- Dolls and stuffed animals with sharp parts or small parts that could be swallowed.
- Furniture for children with sharp edges.
- Glass toys.
- Flammable toys, such as dolls clothing or camping equipment.

The federal government enacted the Child Protection and Toy Safety Act in 1969 to help insure that harmful toys do not enter the market. Several hundred toys have been banned by the Food and Drug Administration as a result.

There are, however, perhaps 5,000 new toys introduced each year. They are not always inspected by the federal government. The Institute suggests, therefore, that the consumer has to be the final judge when purchasing a toy. Not only should the toy be safe, but it should be suited to the age of the child. Once a toy enters the home, it is the responsibility of the parent to see that his child is taught its proper and safe use. This is a formidable job, considering that there are an estimated 100,000 types of toys on the market.

The Institute reminds you that when purchasing Christmas toys this year, think not only of your child's happiness but of his safety as well.

CHS Students Decorating Class Doors

The Art Department will sponsor a Christmas Door Contest again this year.

The contest was started last year in order to promote Christmas spirit among students in school.

Each second hour class will decorate its classroom door(s). Students will do all the work and provide all materials for construction. No electrical lights may be used.

Decorating started Dec. 14 and must be completed by Dec. 21, when the door will be judged.

Prizes will be awarded to the first place room on Friday, Dec. 22. Judging will be on the basis of appearance, appropriateness, and originality.

Something made Jeff Flarity stop and sniff as he walked past the only lumber yard in Land's End, Mich.

The heavy aroma of pine boards stacked roof-high in the old frame sheds reminded him of the lumber yard his father used to own back in Maine, and Jeff suffered a moment of nostalgia for his old home town.

Then suddenly he heard the door of the lumber yard office open directly behind him and he turned around to see an old man emerge from the building and busy himself backing a sign to the wooden door with crippled fingers. When the old man disappeared, Jeff retraced his steps to look at the sign, which read simply: "Boy Wanted."

Jeff's nostalgia abruptly became mingled with his more pressing desire for a job. Jeff had been in Land's End for three months, a long time for a drifter to stay in any one spot. Warm weather had brought a number of young men like himself to the legendary Lake Michigan resort community and he had spent a delightful summer sunning himself on the sand beaches, playing Frisbee in the town park and partying and sleeping at night under the stars.

But just September had arrived and Jeff found himself longing for a hot shower and a warm bed.

Slicking back his long brown hair and buttoning his blue denim jacket over his bare chest, Jeff opened the door of the lumber yard office and stepped inside.

He could have been back in his father's office in Maine, how both his parents lost their lives scrambling to reach the cash box the day the lumber yard burned, and how he had spent the past two years traveling around the country spending their insurance money.

"I need a fellow to help out here," the old man said when he finished. "I'm too old to do it alone and my arthritis isn't getting any better. But if I take you on you'll have to get a haircut. Can't have all that yarn working around machinery. And you'll need a new pair of work pants and a shirt. Do you have any money left?"

Jeff admitted he was broke.

The old man moved slowly to the till, turned the crank, drew out three $5 bills and handed them to Jeff.

"This should handle the haircut and the new clothes," the old man said. "I'll take it out of your first week's pay. Where do you live?"

Jeff admitted he had no permanent address.

"Got a cot in the back room," the old man said. "Also a hot plate and some cans of beans and spaghetti. Help yourself. Back door's never locked, but you have to kick it on the bottom to open it. What'd you say your name was?"

Jeff introduced himself as Bob Clock.

"You're way out, that sign off the door," the old man said, "and report for work at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning. Not here, mind you, but across the street at Annie's Restaurant. I don't believe in letting my employees start work without a good breakfast under their belts."

Jeff's granddaughter, Kitty, still hasn't forgiven me," Hiram said and there was a note of sadness in the old man's voice. "She says I worked Dave too hard. She claims Dave would still be alive if I didn't have him on the move all hours of the day and night making deliveries. Of course, she don't know Dave had finished his deliveries three hours before the accident and was drunk out of his mind when he hit that tree. And I hope she never finds out."

The old man also told him about his two-year-old great grandson, Timmy, whom he hadn't seen since the accident.

"Your granddaughter and her boy live in town?" Jeff asked between mouthfuls.

"She's got a little place on the South Side of town," Hiram said. "But she don't bother with me, and she's telling folks she won't even come to my funeral. Can you beat that?"

Jeff shook his head and finished his coffee.

It was time to start work.

DURING his first few weeks at the lumber yard, Jeff was busier than he had ever been in his life. The old man was happy and let him take over almost completely right from the first day, waiting on customers, filling orders from the yard, making deliveries, ordering new stock and working on the books. It was just like being back home in Maine, only better, because Hiram let him do things pretty much the way he pleased.

In addition to his regular work, Jeff launched a general refurbishing of the business office. He replaced the cracked window-panes in the front of the building, laid a tile floor over the old hardwood and built new shelving and bins. He also arranged a franchise for a new line of power tools and made arrangements with a manufacturer in town to set up a display of custom-built kitchen cabinets. He also brought in a supply of toys to sell at Christmas.

While Jeff worked, the old man usually sat on a high stool next to the desk, reminiscing about the logging days. Every once in a while he stirred the pot-bellied stove and threw in a few pieces of scrap lumber from the fuel box.

September was suddenly November and the days were becoming chilly.

Hiram also talked about his arthritis and the weather, but mostly he talked about Kitty and Timmy and how he missed them.

Jeff didn't say anything, but he certainly was acquiring a pretty poor opinion of Kitty. He wondered privately why she had cut the old man out of her life so completely. If he had his way, he'd let her know that her beloved Dave was stoned when he plied up the company truck. But Jeff remained quiet; the last thing he wanted was to become involved in a family feud.

WHEN HE wasn't working at the yard, Jeff was busy rearranging his own life. After his first raise he moved out of the little cubby hole behind the office into a furnished apartment two blocks away, giving him more room to move around. Although he had a small kitchen, he still ate most of his meals with Hiram at Annie's Restaurant.

Perhaps the biggest change in Jeff's life came when he joined the Land's End Volunteer Fire Department. Most of the fellows were Jeff's age and for the first time in his life he felt he "belonged." He enjoyed the camaraderie of the bi-monthly meetings. He liked cleaning and repairing the equipment and learning and latest fire-fighting techniques.

He didn't even mind when the fire whistle blew at 3 a.m., catapulting him out of his bed to put out a chimney fire at a farm home 10 miles from town.

He also worked evenings at the fire hall repairing and painting toys which would be distributed to the children of Land's End's needy families on Christmas Eve, along with cardboard boxes heaped high with groceries donated by the volunteer firemen.

In Land's End, no one went hungry at Christmas.

NOW CHRISTMAS Eve is traditionally a time to be spent at home with the family, wrapping late purchases, getting the kids to bed early and preparing for the big holiday feast the next day. But since Jeff didn't have a family, he volunteered to distribute the Christmas boxes to the needy families of Land's End, using the lumber company pickup. He planned to have a late supper at Annie's Restaurant when he was through and then maybe stop in for a night cap with the old man.

The deliveries went smoothly. He was warmly welcomed at each home and he noticed the Christmas spirit was aglow in every dwelling on his route, even though the material things of life were sorely lacking.

Jeff was enroute to the last home on his list when the fire whistle shattered the frosty air. He pulled up alongside the first outdoor telephone booth he came to and called the station. The fire was less than two blocks away, and Jeff was the first fireman on the scene.

A woman and small child were standing in the snow in the front yard as smoke billowed through the open door. Flames were plainly visible inside the front window.

"It's the Christmas tree," the woman shouted as Jeff grabbed the portable fire extinguisher from the truck and rushed inside. Within seconds, he had doused the fire with a chemical spray. Although the window glass was intact, the drapes and the carpet were badly burned and smoke had left a greasy smudge on the ceiling and walls. He walked to the front door just as the fire engine was pulling into the front yard.

"Fire's out," he called to his colleagues as they jumped from the truck, but we'll need a fan to get rid of this smoke.

The woman and child came back in the house to survey the damage as the firemen rigged up a portable exhalator in the doorway.

The tree still stood in its stand, but the needles were gone. It looked more like a tamarack than an evergreen. Underneath, the remnants of Christmas packages lay in ruins, the wrappings burned and the gifts clattered.

The child burst into tears and the woman appeared ready to join him.

"I shouldn't have used those lights," the woman said. A neighbor gave them to me and I was afraid they might be shorted."

Jeff reached gingerly around the charred tree and pulled the light plug out of the wall socket.

It's not going to be much of a Christmas for Timmy," the woman said, turning to Jeff. "But I suppose we should be thankful the house is still standing. How did you get here so quickly?"

Jeff explained briefly about his Christmas deliveries and how he happened to be in the neighborhood.

"You've got quite a mess to clean up here," Jeff observed. "Do you have anyone to help?"

The woman said that she and Timmy lived alone and that she'd appreciate a hand in getting the Christmas tree outdoors along with the burned carpet and drapes.

The smoke had pretty much cleared and the firemen had turned off the fan that was blowing the smoke out of the back to the station. Jeff picked up the tree which was still warm to the touch and carried it, stand and all, into the front yard. Then he removed the burned carpet and the drapes. By the time he finished, the other firemen had left and the woman had a pot of coffee on the stove.

"I don't think we've met," Jeff laughed when she handed him a cup. "Kitty Sorensen," she answered, and Dave did a double-take. This had to be the same Kitty Sorensen who had given her grandfather such a hard time. He'd fit in: The little house on the South Side of town, a little boy, named Timmy, no husband around to help with the chores. Jeff looked at her closely to make sure she wasn't some kind of ogre. Instead he found an attractive, dark haired woman about his own age who was worried sick about her ruined Christmas.

"I don't know what I'll do about Timmy," she sighed as she sat down across the kitchen table from him. "Everything I'd gotten him for Christmas was under the tree. Everything. And the stores are all closed."

"Toys are no problem," Jeff replied, remembering the toys down at the lumber yard.

"But the tree's gone and everything's a mess," Kitty gnawed looking through the kitchen door into the smoke blackened living room. Jeff followed her glance, then looked at his watch. It was 8 p.m.

"Are you ready to stay up all night?" he asked. "If you are, we'll have this place looking like new by morning."

Kitty protested, but Jeff insisted.

"I have one more delivery to make — 311 South End — and then I'll be back. Hey, this is South End Street, isn't it?"

Kitty said 311 was right next door, but that the family had moved south two weeks ago. That was the neighbor who had given her the string of faulty Christmas lights.

"That means we have more toys than we need — and a turkey to boot," Jeff laughed.

Kitty put Timmy to bed with assurances that Santa would arrive by morning. Then she produced naps, pins and tape-ladder so Jeff could wash the ceiling while she scrubbed the floor. Two hours later the room was spotless, except for the charred window molding.

"You stay right here," Jeff ordered. "I think I can my hands on just what we need, as well as a can of fast drying paint."

He hadn't told her he worked for her grandfather, but he thought it was just as well that she didn't know.

Back at the lumber yard, Jeff found the molding a box of finishing nails and a can of blue enamel that matched the interior trim of Kitty's home. Then he searched the toys and found a fire truck, a big round canister of Lincoln logs and a set of building blocks for Timmy. As he was loading the truck his eye fell on the little Christmas tree Hiram had set up in the office.

"The old man won't miss it," he said to himself as he carried it, lights, ornaments, tinsel and all out to the waiting pickup.

By midnight, the new molding was in place and painted, and presents were arranged under the tree.

"That didn't take as long as I thought," Jeff sighed as he sat next to Kitty on the davenport to admire their handiwork. "It looks like Christmas even without the drapes and carpet."

"Timmy won't even notice," Kitty said. "But I would like him to meet Santa Claus, if you're not busy tomorrow."

Jeff told her he didn't have a thing planned.

"Then why don't you come for breakfast about 7," Kitty suggested. "I won't let him touch a thing until you get here."

"Don't you have any family in town?" Jeff asked.

For the first time Kitty broke down. She told him tearfully about Dave and how awful she had treated her grandfather after the accident. Then, when she did find out Dave had been drinking, it was too late to make amends.

"I miss grandpa so, particularly at Christmas, but I don't know how to say I'm sorry," she said.

Jeff was silent for several seconds before he spoke.

"Instead of breakfast here, I've got a better idea," he said. "You have Timmy ready by 7, I'll pick you up and we'll all have breakfast downtown."

"Then you'll have to come back for dinner," Kitty said. "Timmy and I can't eat that Turkey alone."

"Oh, I'll come back," Jeff promised, "and I might even bring a friend."

Kitty looked puzzled, but Jeff didn't explain. He was too busy thinking about the surprise reunion that would take place down at Annie's Restaurant on Christmas morning.

QUESTION: I applied for a chauffeur's license and find it's only good until my next birthday, but they let my neighbor have one that's good for three years. I don't have a poor driving record, so what have they got against me? T.N., Fowler

ANSWER: Certainly nothing against your fine driving record. The law states that "The first chauffeur's license issued to a person shall expire on the licensee's birthday next following unless it is suspended or revoked prior thereto. A subsequent chauffeur's license shall expire on the birthday of the person to whom it is issued in the third year following the date of its issuance unless it is suspended or revoked prior thereto."

It sounds like your neighbor might have been purchasing a renewal license rather than an original chauffeur's license.

QUESTION: What is the identification number requirement on a snowmobile? J. D., Saginaw

ANSWER: The Act regulating snowmobiles (Act 74 of P.A. of 1968) was amended in 1971 and now reads: "A snowmobile which is manufactured after December 1, 1972, for sale in this state shall have an identifying number which is stamped into the frame of the snowmobile and is unique from all other snowmobiles. The number shall be stamped in a place where it is easily visible with a minimum of physical effort and it shall be termed the vehicle number. A manufacturer shall furnish to a requesting police agency, to the department (state) and to the department of natural resources, information as to the location of the vehicle numbers on snowmobiles it produces. The vehicle number shall be printed on the registration certificate issued by the department to the owner."

"Possession of a snowmobile with an altered, defaced or obliterated vehicle number is a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment for not more than 1 year, or by a fine of not more than $1,000.00, or both."

Theater Re-opening Good News for Town

There's good news for all Charlevoixians in the purchase of the Palace Theater by Thomas Merta, Bill Spennaw and Sam Spennaw.

The trio promises to keep the theater open weekends year-round, with a full schedule of daily shows during the summer months.

For several years now, Charlevoixians have not had the luxury of a year-round movie house in town. If you wanted to see a movie, you had to hop in your car and travel to Petoskey, Boyne City, Bellaire or Traverse City.

Nine times out of ten it was easier to stay home.

The theater, which has been closed since September, will reopen Dec. 26 with "Cancel My Reservation," starring Bob Hope and Eva Marie Saint. The same picture will be shown Wednesday and Thursday. Starting Friday and continuing throughout the New Year's weekend, the Palace will feature "Cabaret," starring Liza Minelli.

Starting Jan. 5, the theater will be open Friday, Saturday

If it Fittz I Can't Help Crying

By JIM FITZGERALD

It seems reasonable that most people laugh more at Christmas time. Ho Ho Ho and please slosh the wassail bowl in my direction. So why do I cry more?

It's not that there isn't a lot of holiday merriment at our home. Zounds!

Because of 2 crazed teenagers, Johnny Mathis has been singing The Christmas Song at our place since September, which is bloody agony for a Scrooge like me (chestnuts roasting on an open wound).

I received a mistletoe kiss on Thanksgiving, causing me to blush (the affection didn't embarrass me. But every time a female relative touches me, I automatically clutch my wallet. This parsimonious reaction was embarrassing, under the circumstances. Something like hitting the horse that feeds you the Gift of the Magi. So I had the decency to blush).

It is too much too soon for me. But that isn't what makes me cry. On the contrary, it is too laugh.

Each year I crab mightily about starting Christmas too soon and spending too much money on gifts. And every Christmas my family starts sooner and spends more. My wife explains this easily:

"You don't mean what you say," she says. "You really love a 4-month Christmas."

Then we all laugh because the family joke is that only Mother knows what her family likes. The criteria is simple: Does she like it? Yes. Then we all like it. It could be spinach or the invasion of Cambodia. Mother knows best, so shut up and giggle at the centerpiece that plays Jingle Bells in August ...

The first crying is usually prompted by those TV Christmas dramas. The first one this year was about a little girl whose father wouldn't buy her a Christmas tree because trees reminded him of his dead wife (she must have been a real stick). And when this mistreated girl did get a tree, she turned around and gave it to another little girl who had no dad at all and her mother couldn't afford to make her an angel costume for the Christmas play.

Wow. I can't help it. I watch those dumb shows and bawl like a nut. The tears drip on my newspaper, plopp-plop, and the kids nudge each other and say, "There goes ol' Weepy again."

Then my wife comes along and makes it worse. She has just been teaching a little boy in shabby clothes whose father recently killed himself. "What kind of a Christmas will they have at that house?" she asks.

Oh wow. Comes the flood. This isn't TV, it's real. And it doesn't do much good to kick out $50 to make 1 kid happier, because I know there are thousands of other kids who aren't going to have a Merry Christmas at all, no matter how much I give — or cry. So I go hide and cry some more.

This isn't behaving rationally, I know. But there it is, the embarrassing truth.

And I'm only telling you this so you'll go out and give some poor kid something and tell him you're doing it so a big boob will quit crying so much.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump Jr.

Uncle Charlie didn't go to court when they upped his utility rates, he simply burned one less kerosene lamp. Likewise in later years, percs and toasters were substituted rather than replacements for wood which provided heating as a fringe benefit.

He accepted progress in gradual stages. We demand it immediately regardless of cost to purse, health or environment. To live better electrically we air condition noxious fumes shimmering over concrete landscaping surrounding high rise buildings. Computers program overloaded generators to lift millions of garage doors and light a forest of imitation logs in make believe fireplaces.

Entire counties are strip mined to open canyons, slice meat, dry either hair or clothes, shave, brush teeth and unsnarl tangles in our toupees. Blackout? Never! Congress will protect its constituents by repealing the law of nature and decreed daylight savings time around the clock.

Like ancient scribes, we will pore over dusty volumes researching by candle light such primitive devices as

Martin Paul Elected Co. Dem Chairman

Martin Paul of Boyne City was elected chairman of the Charlevoix County Democratic Party last week. He will serve a two-year term, beginning Jan. 1. He succeeds Clement Wagner of Charlevoix.

Serving with Paul will be Janis Dietrich of Ironton, vice chairman; Margaret Duerr of Charlevoix, secretary; and Jean Rosewig, Melrose Township, treasurer.

Plans were made to hold regular meetings on the 15 of each month except for the months when the County Democratic convention convenes. Meetings in the non-convention months will be held in each of the communities of the county in rotation. In view of the fact that present State Democratic Chairman, James McNeely, has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election in 1973, the Charlevoix County Executive Committee passed a resolution recommending Robert Mitchell, former vice chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, for the office of State Chairman, and pledged their support if he becomes a candidate.

The Charlevoix County Spring Convention will be held on Friday, Jan. 5, at 7:30 in the County Building. All elected precinct delegates should be present and all interest Democrats are welcome to attend. Delegates to the State Spring Convention will be chosen at this meeting.

All Out-of-Town Mail Will Go To Gaylord P.O.

The Charlevoix Post Office will become part of Area Mail Processing, one of the newest innovations of the U.S. Postal Service on Jan. 6, 1973. It was announced today by Postmaster Rex E. Davis.

The program is intended to speed the ultimate delivery of the mail and to gain maximum efficiency through full utilization of the modern and mechanized post office at Gaylord, Davis said.

The Gaylord Office, Davis pointed out, is a Sectional Center Facility (SCF) serving 74 associate post offices in Michigan.

Area Mail Processing is a plan whereby eventually all mail originating at these offices will be consolidated at the SCF for complete preparation and processing for outgoing dispatch.

All mail deposited in street letter boxes designated for the deposit of mail for local delivery only, and all mail deposited in a receptacle in the local post office which is designated for the deposit of mail for local delivery only, will be postmarked with the postmark of the local post office. The mail for local delivery will be processed in that office. The outgoing mail with local postmark will be dispatched to the Area Mail Processing Center for distribution.

All mail deposited into Charlevoix street letter boxes, which have not been designated for local deposit, or into the "out-of-town" letter drops at the selected associate offices will be transferred to the SCF for processing, and Continued on page 8

Ada Golden

SHE'S RETIRING

'Ada Golden Day' Is This Thursday.

Thursday, Dec. 28, will be "Ada Golden Day" at the Charlevoix County State Bank.

The occasion will honor Mrs. Edward Golden, who retires the end of December after 47 years with the bank. Coffee and cookies will be served at the bank throughout the day to friends and well-wishers.

Mrs. Golden joined the bank in October, 1925, following her graduation from Charlevoix High School.

At first she worked parttime as a teller, but in the fall of 1926 she took an intensive secretarial course at Ferris State College. One of her instructors was the late Woodbridge N. Ferris, founder of the school.

By January of 1927 she felt ready to return to the bank full time.

In May 1935, the former Ada Yellaw was married to Edward Golden and August of the same year she was appointed cashier.

Mrs. Golden took a year's leave of absence in 1936 and 1937 when her son was born. William Golden is now managing editor of a magazine published by Mrs. Golden was appointed assistant cashier in January, 1951, a position she has held ever since.

In addition to her banking duties, Mrs. Golden has served as treasurer of the Charlevoix County Cancer Society and as treasurer of the former Lenore Goldman Myer Fund.

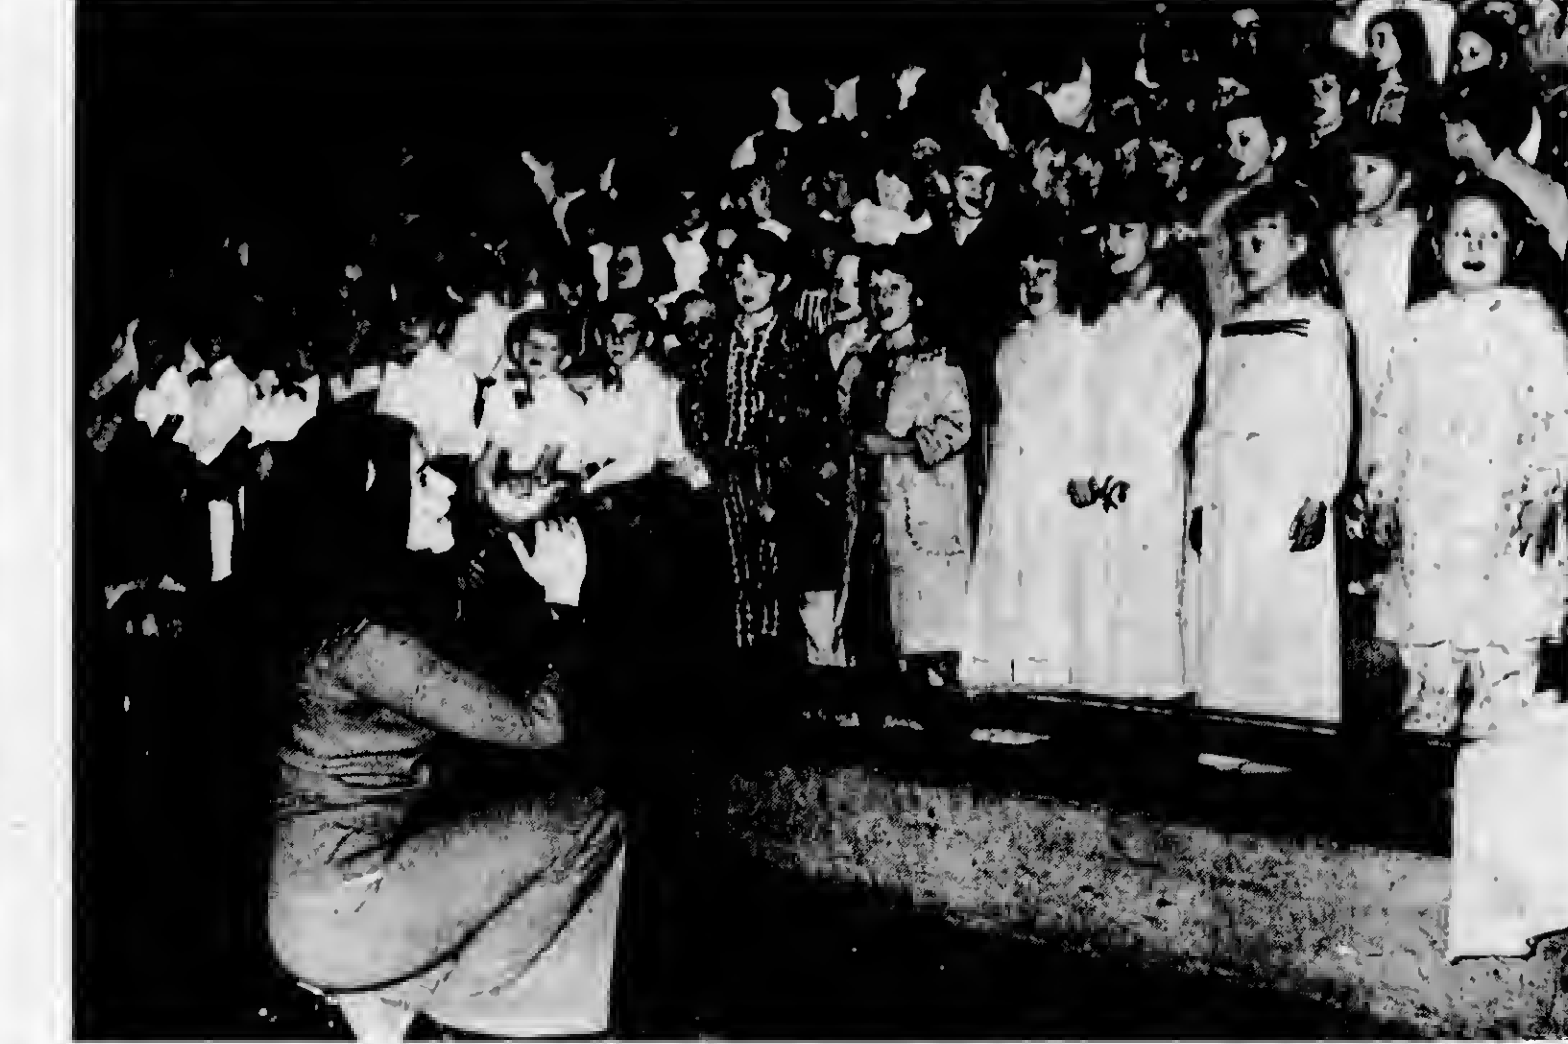

She also belongs to the Charlevoix Women's Club, the National Association of Bank Women, St. Mary's Church and its Altar Society.

After her retirement, Mrs. Golden plans to do volunteer work at Grandview, play golf and take lessons on her brand new Hammond organ.

Robert Wise Heads GOP

Robert Wise of Charlevoix has been re-elected chairman of the Charlevoix County Republican Party.

Serving with Wise for two year terms will be Mrs. Arthur Rouse of Boyne City, vice chairman; Marilyn Ross, Charlevoix Township, secretary; and Sherry Browne, Charlevoix, treasurer.

SOME 600 First through Fourth Graders at the Charlevoix Elementary School took part in a gigantic Christmas operetta entitled "Stars Over Christmas." Every seat in the

Bridges of Chicago Hex Unmythical Challenger

(The following article on the Medusa Challenger's difficulties negotiating the Chicago River is reprinted from the Chicago Tribune. It was spotted by Bob Nowakowski of the Capri Motel. In all fairness it should be noted that the Challenger slips in and out of her berth at Charlevoix with a minimum difficulty - when it's not blowing a gale.)

By Ron Yates
Medusa was the queen of the Gorgons, those female creatures of Greek mythology who had hair of snakes, round faces, flat noses, tongues lolling out, and long protruding teeth.

One look at their ugly kisser and you would turn to stone, says Greek legend. Maybe that explains why the Medusa Challenger, the 563-foot-long cement-carrying ship from Detroit, always gets stuck in the Chicago River between bridges that refuse to operate. Maybe the long turquoise vessel scares the bridges into breakdowns. It happens again yesterday.

Here's Looking at You
At 6 a.m. the Medusa and her crew had almost negotiated the Chicago River in the Loop area when once again the ancient curse of Medusa slapped a double whammy on the Michigan Avenue bridge.

The bridge tender threw up his hands in despair and the Medusa let out a woe-filled howl with her fog horn that must have awakened most of the Loop.

And the Medusa sat there, white steam billowing from the stacks, for five hours while city crews worked in near zero degree temperatures to un-whammy the headed bridge.

Good Swift Kick
The workers didn't use any magic words as they went about their business - just your common, everyday four-letter variety. They even received a little unexpected help from a reporter who walked up and kicked the bridge.

"Grandpa always told me that if something doesn't work just give it a good solid kick," he told the startled crew. There were a few raised eyebrows when, after the solid kick, the bridge groaned and almost moved.

Finally, at 11 a.m., the curse was lifted as were the spans of the bridge.

And long, ugly Medusa, accompanied by two tugboats, churned out into the icy waters of Lake Michigan.

Mrs. Dorothy Dixon

Mrs. Dixon Is Appointed Ass't. VP at First State

Mrs. Dorothy Dixon, a veteran employee of the First State Bank of Charlevoix, was named assistant vice president and cashier by the board of directors at its meeting Dec. 16.

Mrs. Dixon will be the chief executive at the bank until a new president succeeds Jerald Redeker on Jan. 8. The name of the new president has not been made public.

Redeker has resigned to go into partnership with Charles Elzinga at the Farm Bureau Insurance Agency. Redeker will remain at the bank this week in an advisory capacity, but plans to attend a training session for Farm Bureau personnel Jan. 2 through 11.

Mrs. Dixon joined the bank in 1943 as a teller. She later was promoted to assistant cashier and cashier. She also is a member of the board of directors.

VOJIN BIAC, 1948 Olympic cross-country ski champion, discussed his favorite sport Sunday night at the Charlevoix Library. Biae, who is recreation director for Traverse City, discussed equipment, clothing and cross-country ski technique. The program was sponsored by Friends of the Charlevoix Library.

Pat Begrow

Pat Begrow to Run Steeltree Office

A new real estate firm has moved to Charlevoix, Steeltree Properties, and Pat Begrow of Charlevoix will handle the sales.

Steeltree offices are located in the new Wharf condominium on Round Lake. Steeltree Properties is a complete line real estate firm operating from offices at the Traverse City Airport, at TimberLee Hills in Leelanau County and from Detroit. Although the Charlevoix office is located in The Wharf it will be complete real estate office handling listing and sales for residential, commercial and recreational property.

Steeltree Properties is a leader in residential and resort condominiums and handles commercial property.

A native of Richmond, Va., the former Patricia Doyle attended school in Shaker Heights, Ohio, and received her B.A. in English from the University of Michigan in 1962.

She is married to Charlevoix architect Jack Begrow. They have six children, Cathy, 17; Janet, 16; Christopher, 15; Lee Paul, 13; Beth, 10; and Ann, 9.

She formerly was employed in business research for General Motors Corp. in Detroit and in public relations for the University of Michigan.

REPAIRS were started last Thursday on a ruptured sewer line under Pine River Channel by the William Porter Co. of East Jordan. The line snapped two weeks ago after wave action undermined a manhole on the north side of the channel just east of the bridge. City Administrator Thomas Hanna estimates repairs will cost between $3,000 and $5,000. The job should be completed this week. First phase of the project was to divert all North Side sewage into one line which remained intact.

Due to the several inches of new fallen snow and the hard wind Saturday the morning Church service Sunday was canceled and also the Sunday school program and annual Christmas party in the evening. Several of the regular workers and attenders could not get out for drifted driveways and side roads, although Washington-st. had been cleared in time. To my recollection this is the first time the Sunday School Christmas program has had to be canceled.

Mrs. Effie Arthur has gone to Detroit to spend the Christmas Holiday with her children and other relatives. She plans to spend the rest of the winter with friends in California.

Funeral for Edward Beene who died Sunday in the Hospital was held Wednesday at Winchester's Funeral Home, although burial was in Detroit where they lived before his retirement from the Detroit Police Department. They built their home in Ironport in 1946 and had taken an active part in the local activities for several years before Mr. Beene became ill.
